Jap Airdrome on Manus Island Captured

REDS 11 MILES FROM RUMANIA; GAIN IN POLAND

Seize 2 Towns Near Dniester River.

LONDON, March 18 [Saturday]—(AP).—The Red army advanced in old Poland yesterday to capture the German strongpoint of Dubno and a town 18 miles beyond. To the south the Russians won towns only 11 miles from the pre-war Rumanian border and tightened their semi-circle around the Black sea port of Nikolaev, Moscow announced today.

The Russians also captured a village on the outskirts of the rail junction of Zhmerinka, south of Vinnitsa.

The new thrust which took Dubno by crossing a river and outflanking the town also won Demidovka, 18 miles beyond. Demidovka is 70 miles from Lwow and 42 miles inside the old Polish frontier.

Nearly 400 communities in pre-war Poland and the southwestern Ukraine were overrun by the Red army during yesterday in advances all along the Nazis' crumbling southern front, said the Moscow war report, recorded here by the soviet radio monitor.

Towns Taken Near Border.

The Moscow bulletin said the Russians had captured Klembovka, 11 miles north of the Dniester and 12 miles from the former border town of Yampol. Also reported captured was Olshanka, 14 miles southeast of Klembovka and likewise 11 miles from the winding river. Klembovka is 30 miles southeast of Mogilev Podolski, an important Russian objective on the Dniester.

There was no confirmation of an early report that soviet forces had driven to the Dniester at several points.

In the Proskurov region at the vital hinge of the crumbling Nazi southern front the Germans continued to launch counter-attacks, Moscow said, but were beaten back with heavy losses.

Gain on Vinnitsa Front.

The Russians said that in the Vinnitsa area their troops captured a town on the outskirts of Zhmerinka, a junction on the Odessa-Lwow rail route already cut and controled by the Russians in two wide areas northwest and southeast of Zhmerinka. Near here 1,500 Germans were reported killed.

At the southeastern end of the front the Russians said they killed 2,000 Germans and took 1,000 prisoners in capturing a town only 15 miles northeast of Nikolaev. Other troops were reported to have advanced five miles farther along the lower Bug river to take a town 20 miles above Nikolaev.

NAZI WAR BULLETIN

Of Russia, Germany's official war report said yesterday:

"The enemy made an unsuccessful attack under cover of artificial fog at the Kerch [Crimea] bridgehead yesterday. Local infiltrations were cleared up.

"Russian attacks against the Nikolaev bridgehead failed in fierce fighting.

"Farther to the north, artillery and combat planes broke up enemy attempts at crossing the Bug river.

"In the central Ukraine, fierce fighting is going on against enemy formations which have advanced across the river Bug.

Admit Defensive Battles.

"At Vinnitsa, in the Proskurov region and east of Tarnopol, German troops engaged in heavy offensive and defensive battles.

"North of Dubno and in the area south of the Pripet marshes, strong renewed Russian attacks were repelled."

Farley Blasts Moral Decay in Government

BY THOMAS MORROW.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., March 17.—James A. Farley, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, tonight voiced scorn of a political philosophy that left leadership to the "muddled impression some neurotic ex-college professor has drawn from the book he read last."

Some in his audience, 800 members of the Catholic club of St. Louis, read into his speech a slap at the present national administration. There was no direct mention of the Roosevelt regime and but one scant reference to Great Britain—that the British had never subdued the Irish.

"Let Chips Fall . . . ."

Asked if he would interpret the speech, Farley, who broke with the President on the third term issue, said he would let his manuscript speak for itself.

"Let them interpret, I have never been able to stop that. Let the chips fall where they may," he said, when possible interpretations were pointed out to him.

Speaking of the founders of the republic, Farley told the St. Patrick's day audience in the Hotel Jefferson:

"There is no room in their sturdy philosophy for the supine resignation that takes it as a matter of course that the lives of citizens should be shunted right or left depending on what muddled impression some neurotic ex-college professor has drawn from the book he read last.

Points Out Symptoms.

"Liberty and good government, you know, are not lost in sudden cataclysms. Political cave-ins occur only when the ground is soft. It's the erosion and rotting of the ground that really do the damage. And the pity of it is that few are sensitive enough in eye or ear to perceive what is going on."

He listed as symptoms carelessness with the truth, lack of moral scruple and abject reliance of the citizen on the state. He mentioned these, Farley said, to show how well inoculated are the men of Ireland and why they cannot be moved. He had spoken of St. Patrick and the history of the Irish and said that these had a bearing on the record of the Irish in the United States and on the salutary influence which the Irish ought to have on American public affairs.

"Political adventurers are past masters at the art of manipulating language so that the false that serves their purpose is presented to the people rather than the truth that does not serve them so well," Farley said.

Moral Scruples Lacking.

"Now, manipulation of the truth is an art most easy to practice when the public mind has been prepared for it by a propaganda of confusion designed to create the impression that everything is relative anyway and no one can really know what the fact is. . . .

"Another symptom is lack of moral scruple—a lax willingness to let expediency be the guide to all political action. If there is an advantage to be gained, do not be restrained by any moral principle binding in consequence, for there is

YANKS PUSH ON 600 YDS. FROM ENEMY VILLAGE

Crush Bougainville Counter-Attack.

ALLIED HDQ., SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, March 18 [Saturday]—(AP).—Capture of Lorengau airdrome on Manus Island in the Admiralties and complete breakdown of the enemy's counter-offensive at Empress Augusta bay on Bougainville Island in the Solomons were announced today by Gen. MacArthur.

Lorengau airstrip fell Thursday under a two-pronged attack from the north and west by dismounted troopers of the 1st cavalry division. American destroyers fired broadsides to help take the key air field.

600 Yards from Town.

The Americans then pressed southward toward the village of Lorengau, eliminating enemy pillbox defenses with mortar and tank fire to reach a point only 600 yards from their objective.

The American landing on Manus Island was achieved on Wednesday with the support of destroyers, bombers and heavy artillery. Big field guns mounted on Hauwei and Butjoluo islets, across Seeadler harbor north of the island, helped clear the way for the cavalrymen.

Troops fighting on Manus Island are contingents of the conquerors of Los Negros Island to the east. They landed on Los Negros Feb. 29, captured Momote airdrome and subsequently won control of the island.

Big Japanese Loss.

The final rout of the Japanese on Bougainville was achieved Tuesday night, when they made a last bid for victory which would have given them possession of Cannon ridge and allowed their artillery to dominate the beachhead and airfields on Empress Augusta bay.

More than 1,100 Japanese dead lie within the American lines, Gen. MacArthur said, but the enemy's total casualties have been counted in the thousands.

American losses in the fighting, which started with Japanese artillery attacks and "feeler" assaults March 8, were light, Gen. MacArthur's bulletin said.

WAR IN AIR.

Aerial attacks by allied forces were reported in Pacific dispatches as follows:

Wewak, New Guinea—143 tons of bombs dropped; no planes lost.

Rabaul, New Britain—135 tons of bombs dropped.

New Ireland—Six barges sunk or damaged; shore installations at Cape St. George set afire.

Surabaya, Java.—Naval base raided by heavy bombers. [Lt. Bayard Gordon, 448 W. 62d st., Chicago, was a bombardier on this 2,400 mile flight.]

Bali, near Java — Bombed. All planes in both Java raids returned.

Caroline Islands — Pingelap and Oroluk Islands, at approaches to Truk, bombed; no planes lost.

Marshall Islands — Three enemy bases raided; all planes returned.

F. D. R.: Draft All Under 26

BY LLOYD NORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 17.—President Roosevelt today made it clear that all able bodied men under 26, except a rare few, will have to serve in the army and navy.

This policy, enunciated at his press conference, was offered to end a welter of confused public discussion of draft trends.

The President said that very few men under 26 would be found to be indispensable to industry. He said the army and navy need the younger men, and that men over 26 are too old for the battlefield.

Evades Direct Question.

The President was asked if the army and navy could spare the 40,000 able bodied men under 26 who, the war production board says, are required to meet critical production schedules.

He replied that it was a question of what you were going to do—to lose the battle at the front or at home. He did not discuss this point further.

The President also told reporters that he will have more to say about occupational deferments early next week.

Meanwhile, selective service officials outlined current draft board policy:

1. For the next few months, draft boards will concentrate on calling men under 26, regardless of whether they are fathers or war workers.

Will Restrict Deferments.

2. Occupational deferments—in both industry and agriculture—will be restricted generally to fathers over 26 and older men. Officials said the average age of fathers is 33 years, too old for front line combat.

3. To catch up with lagging draft schedules, boards will have to call fathers from the 3-A classification who should have been called up in earlier months.

4. Fathers in war industry will continue to have priority over single men and childless husbands in obtaining occupational deferments.

AND NOW IF MR. STALIN WILL DO HIS GOOD DEED

Japan Can't Win, Asserts Red Magazine

MOSCOW, March 17 (AP).—The soviet trade union journal, War and the Working Class—in its frankest, boldest discussion of the Japanese war situation—says that Japanese "victory is impossible." It predicts that the Japanese fleet "will not dare begin active operations any more."

The magazine, dated March 15 but only out today, said in an article by Evgenie Zhukov that "the spirit of the Japanese people is sinking." It asserted that great alarm has been caused in the country by an official declaration on the monthly plane production rate of the United States. [Russia and Japan are not at war.]

"Only a Few Believe."

Explaining that only a few people in Japan believe announcements of any victory any more, the magazine said:

"Optimistic declarations of her [the Japanese] ministers are in direct contradiction with real facts. The ruling circles seek to conceal the lack of successes of the Japanese armed forces on almost all fronts. It is apparent now that Japan's plan to inflict a blow upon Burma has failed.

"Jap Citizen Confused."

"The British and Americans enjoy unchallenged superiority on a number of sectors of the front. The Japanese citizen, accustomed to trumpets of victory, is confused. He cannot understand what has happened to the 'despised British and the unwarlike nation,' America."

Orders to evacuate Japanese cities proved the alarm caused by the announcement that the United States will turn out over 8,500 planes monthly while Japan cannot produce more than 1,200 monthly, the magazine said.

'My Golf Comes First,' He Says; Result: Divorce

Los Angeles, Cal., March 17 (AP).—Mrs. Carolyn Dowling obtained a divorce today from James T. Dowling who, she said, spent much too much time playing golf. When she threatened to leave him, she testified, her husband told her "nothing will ever take the place of my golf; my golf comes first." Dowling, now in the army, did not contest the suit.

CANADA DEMANDING MAJOR VOICE IN RULE OF WORLD AIR LANES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., March 17.—Canada desires the "establishment of an international air transport authority," but insists that she "be given an important place among the nations of the world" in civil aviation, C. D. Howe, minister of munitions and supply, announced in parliament today.

Howe disclosed that Canada has given notice to Britain and Ireland, joint partners with Canada in a company set up as a consequence of agreements in 1935 and 1936 for a trans-Atlantic plane service, that the agreement can no longer be considered applicable to present conditions.

Howe also emphasized that any concessions given by Canada for war purposes, for use of Canadian fields and routes, will end with the war, or a few months thereafter. He said Canada is building a four engine transport plane suitable for both domestic and international flying.

Pupils Pursued by Pigs, Teacher Informs Sheriff

Miss Arlene Lewin, a teacher at the Lotus school in Antioch township, Lake county, complained to the sheriff's office yesterday that pigs have been chasing pupils on their way to and from school. Deputy sheriffs discovered the pigs belong to a farmer living nearby, Norman Klaus, who promised to pen the animals.

Joan Manners Loses Custody Battle for Girl

Washington, D. C., March 17 (AP).—Joan Manners, former Hollywood actress, lost today to John Langan a federal court suit for custody of her 11 year old daughter, Joan Langan.

Federal District Court Justice T. Alan Goldsborough, in concluding the latest round in a six year legal battle over the child, commented that "the court cannot take responsibility of turning custody over to one whose mental operations appear so insecure."

His decision made no provision for the mother to visit or share in the care of her daughter whose complete custody was awarded to Langan.

Took Child from Mother.

The current phase in the protracted dispute between Langan, one time Hollywood dialog director, and his former wife started Feb. 25 when a three judge Circuit court in nearby Montgomery county, Maryland, gave Miss Manners custody of Joan, who had been living at Langan's home for the last two years.

Langan took the child from her mother later that day and the case was reopened in the District court.

Langan testified he lived with Miss Manners prior to their marriage in 1938, which was subsequent to the birth of Joan. Miss Manners contended that a John L. Manners, and not Langan, was the real father of her child. She asserted later that she had been married to Manners before she wed Langan and that her marriage to Langan was invalid.

Justice Doubts Her Story.

In his ruling Justice Goldsborough said Miss Manners "apparently without reason, except an attempt to secure a favorable decision in this case, first takes the position that a John L. Manners, to whom she does not claim to have been married [until yesterday], is the father of the child, and then fearing that the weight of the evidence would be against this contention, claims that the marriage to the respondent [Langan] was in fact invalid as a marriage.

"The only reasonable conclusion apparent to the court is that she is willing to stigmatize her child as illegitimate in the attempt, as indicated above, to prevail in this controversy."

Despite today's action the decision of the Maryland court is still valid in that state and Langan faces a contempt citation there.

Cheer as Jury Acquits Youth in Torch Death

BY RUTH MONTGOMERY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on page 5.)

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 17.—A jury of three housewives and nine white-haired men this afternoon acquitted David Filgas, 16, a high school junior, of a murder charge in the torch death of his sweetheart, Patricia Winters, 17, during a drinking and petting party last Dec. 11.

The verdict, returned after the jury had deliberated only two hours and 40 minutes, inspired a demonstration of acclaim in the crowded courtroom.

Altho young Filgas took the news with almost dazed calm, he was virtually mobbed by scores of high school pupils who had been permitted to enter the courtroom for the verdict after having been barred during the spicy trial.

Cheer Their Approval.

The young people cheered with the gusto of football fans. They stood on the courtroom seats and shouted their approval. When they finally reached David, they thumped him on the back and offered him their congratulations.

In the corridor outside David's mother, Mrs. John R. Filgas of Greenville, fainted when she heard the news. While the pandemonium went on in the courtroom she was being carried to an anteroom, where stimulants were administered to her.

The parents of the dead girl, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Winters, received the verdict with calm resignation. They thanked Circuit Judge William B. Brown for his consideration during the trial; then left quietly for their home in the village of Gowen, where they operate a general store.

Make Dramatic Pleas.

Both prosecution and defense attorneys made dramatic pleas to the jury in their final arguments before a crowded courtroom.

Mrs. Filgas, who was making her first appearance in the five day trial, sat in an attitude of prayer with eyes closed, lips moving, and hands clenched, as Judge Brown instructed the jury. Her chin trembled and her eyes filled with tears as Defense Atty. Jay W. Linsey declared that regardless of the verdict, "the tragedy will darken this boy's entire life."

Describes Fire "Accidental."

Defense Atty. Linsey, one of western Michigan's outstanding trial lawyers, told the jurors they "could not with any clear conscience do anything but judge David innocent." He then reconstructed events of the fatal evening "as I believe them to be after David lost consciousness."

"We don't know exactly how the fire started," he said, "but the girl evidently was more intoxicated than the boy, or breathed more carbon monoxide, and was unable to rescue herself when the interior of the car became an oven.

"We do know that if David had intended to commit murder, he would have gotten dressed first and not run around in the cold, clad only in his shorts, shoes, and socks."

State Charges Murder.

Assistant State's Atty. Adrien W. Verspoor charged that "when Patricia resisted David's attempts to have intimate relations with her he struck her on the head with enough force to fracture her skull, and then set fire to the car to disguise his act.

"The automobile is mute but very eloquent evidence. The only place where the steel of the top buckled was immediately over Patricia's head—the hottest place in the car. Therefore, some inflammable substance must have been poured over her body.

"Patricia Winters, it is obvious from the evidence, was a moral girl—a good girl. Isn't it odd that David remembers everything that occurred that night up to the point where the evidence would start to hurt him? From then on he claims a complete lapse of memory."

BILL ABOLISHES FILING RETURNS FOR 30 MILLIONS

Measure Acted on by House Group.

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 17. — A streamlined tax plan, designed to relieve 30 million wage and salary earners from computing their income taxes and to simplify returns for the remaining 20 million income taxpayers, was approved today by the house ways and means committee.

Chairman Doughton [D., N. C.] announced that the program will shortly be submitted to congress as proposed legislation to take effect before next year's returns are filed. Essentially, he said, it streamlines the tax structure and the present painful process of computing taxes without, however, materially changing the amounts owed by individuals.

Under the plan, those receiving less than $5,000 a year in wages or salaries and less than $100 from other sources—about 30 million persons—would not have to figure any income tax. They would simply file a copy of their "withholding receipt"—received from their employers — showing the year's tax withheld together with a list of their dependents. The tax collector would then figure their tax and either bill them for additional payment or send a refund check, as the case may be.

Others' Tasks Simplified.

Another 10 million taxpayers—those getting less than $5,000 but including $100 or more from sources other than wages and salaries—would be required to file returns, but the forms for them would be greatly simplified. These taxpayers would be furnished simple tax tables showing their entire tax at a glance.

A third group of 10 million, chiefly those in higher income brackets, would be required to fill out forms in detail, but will use simpler returns than the present labyrinthine "1040."

To make the system workable, the committee proposed the following changes in the present income tax structure:

1. Abolish the present victory tax, which is 3 per cent on all income over $624 a year, and combine the present normal tax and surtax into a single new "surtax." Substitute for the old victory tax a new "normal" tax of 3 per cent on each person with net income of more than $500 a year. This would bring about 150,000 more persons into the income taxpaying group.

Exemptions Are Changed.

2. In computing the new surtax, allow a uniform exemption of $500 a person, including dependents. The present exemptions are $500 for a single person, $1,200 for a married couple, and $350 for each dependent. Thus, the exemption for a single person with no dependents will be unchanged, but it will be reduced to $1,000, from $1,200 for a childless married couple, and progressively increased for couples with one or more children.

3. Allow all taxpayers with incomes of less than $5,000 yearly a "standard deduction allowance" of 10 per cent of their incomes in lieu of interest, contributions, and other taxes paid. For those getting more than $5,000, the standard allowance would be $500. All taxpayers whose actual deductions exceed the standard allowance would, however, get full credit by listing the deductions in detail.

Provides New Table.

4. Provide a new simplified one page tax table for the use of all taxpayers receiving less than $5,000, regardless of the source of income.

5. Graduate the present withholding system to take from each employe's pay approximately the full tax owed on wages and salaries under $5,000. [The present withholding rate is less than the tax liability of those with incomes near the $5,000 figure.]

Doughton explained that the proposed new withholding rates, which have not yet been fully computed, would not go into effect until next Jan. 1. Other features of the plan, however, such as changed exemptions and abolition of the victory tax, would apply to 1944 tax bills, he said.

Thus, a taxpayer would have to file only a withholding receipt or the new streamlined form, as the case may be, in making his return next March 15 for 1944 income.

Would Eliminate Estimates.

The new plan, if enacted into law, committee members said, will probably eliminate for most, if not all, taxpayers necessity of filing "income tax estimates" such as the one due on April 15 this year for 1944 income. It is doubtful, however, they explained, if the legislation will be adopted in time to eliminate this chore for next month.

It was understood the plan for new withholding rates is to split them into two brackets. One rate would be about 23 per cent, applied to net income of $2,000 or less, after exemptions and the flat 10 per cent deduction. The other would be about 25 per cent on a net of $2,000 or more after exemptions and deductions.

These percentages would cover the approximate full tax owed by persons in the first two surtax brackets. Those with higher surtax net income—$4,000 above exemptions—would in most cases owe taxes in addition to those taken from their pay.

Raises Tax Percentage.

In its proposed new schedule of "surtaxes," which combine previous normal and surtaxes, the committee increased the percentage of tax on the first $2,000 of taxable income to 20 per cent instead of 19, as at present.

Tax rates in some of the higher brackets would also be boosted slightly, ranging from an increase of 1 per cent on taxable income of between $12,000 and $14,000 to a boost of 3 per cent on income over $200,000.

Doughton said the entire plan has the approval of the treasury department and bureau of internal revenue, in addition to that of the house committee and its staff. Committee members predicted that it will be speedily passed by the house when formally introduced as a bill. Doughton said he could not say exactly when the bill will reach the floor, but that it will be submitted as soon as possible.

TABLE REVEALS SURTAX RATES UNDER NEW BILL

Washington, D. C., March 17 (AP).—Under the tax simplification bill approved by the house ways and means committee today, each taxpayer, married or single, would be subject to a normal tax of 3 per cent on income which exceeds a total of $500 plus 10 per cent of income.

In addition, all taxpayers, except those in the lowest bracket, would be subject to a surtax of all income exceeding exemptions of $500 for each member of his family plus 10 per cent of income. This 10 per cent, which is in lieu of deductions for interest payments, contributions, and other taxes, cannot exceed $500.

Below is a table showing surtax percentages on taxable income. [For example: A taxpayer with taxable income of $2,500 would pay 20 per cent on the first $2,000 and 22 per cent on the balance].

SUPERIOR COURT CLERK RACE IS VETERANS' TEST

Pelnar, Sonnenschein Party Leaders.

This is the fifth article in a series discussing aspirants seeking nomination for various offices in the April 11 primary.

BY GUY GENTRY.

Against a veteran Democratic party worker and office holder, Henry Sonnenschein, clerk of the Superior court, the Cook county Republican organization is placing a candidate, Laddie T. Pelnar, whose political activities have been devoted almost entirely to the party's lean years since 1932.

That year, when many Republicans were changing sides, Pelnar decided it was time for him to take an active part in political affairs and he contributed of his time and money to help the Republican cause. He afterward expanded his efforts to the point where, in the 1940 primary, he organized the country towns of Cook county for Gov. Green.

Gets Business Experience.

Pelnar received his law degree in 1926 from the Chicago Law school, but spent the next two years as treasurer of an automotive manufacturing concern. Since 1928 he has practiced law, but a decade and a half have not changed the business man's meticulous dress and succinct speech that are Pelnar's outstanding characteristics.

He has been personnel director and supervisor of the Chicago area of the Illinois department of finance since July, 1941. He was vice chairman in Cook county for all state departments in the four war bond drives. A native-born Chicagoan, he has made his home for 28 years at 7000 W. 26th pkwy., Berwyn.

Pelnar is opposed in the Republican primary by Fred B. Belsan, 1215 East av., Berwyn, who was a candidate for assessor in 1930 and previously unsuccessfully opposed Ald. John Toman. He has been in the contracting business for many years.

Democrat a Cermak Man.

Sonnenschein, who is unopposed in the Democratic party, was linked politically and personally with Mayor Anton J. Cermak for 24 years. Not only did he serve as Cermak's secretary thruout that time, but he followed the Chicago political leader in many of the public offices he held.

Born in Chicago in 1889, Sonnenschein started as a commercial artist, but an early interest in politics introduced him to Cermak and he became the west side politician's secretary in 1909, when Cermak was elected to the legislature. Twenty years later Sonnenschein was elected state representative from the same district. He now heads pilgrimages to Florida to visit the spot where the Chicago mayor was fatally wounded by a bullet intended for President Roosevelt.

Alderman for 10 Years.

Like Cermak, Sonnenschein rose from state representative to alderman, being elected over five opponents in the 22d ward after the death of Joseph Cepak in 1932. He held that post until December, 1942, when he was named by the Superior court judges as their clerk to fill out the term of Victor Schlaeger when the latter was elected county treasurer.

A forceful talker, Sonnenschein's words flow faster and more freely when he strides up and down his office. He was elected ward committeeman upon the death of Cermak and takes pride in the efficient organization he maintains in the 22d, an organization that rolls up Democratic majorities of 17,000 and 18,000 votes. He lives at 2406 S. Ridgeway av.

COURTNEY ADDS 'A GRANDSON TO HIS FOLLOWERS

Gets News on Tour at Edwardsville.

Granite City, Ill., March 17 [Special].—State's Atty. Courtney, Democratic candidate for governor, celebrated St. Patrick's day with tidings from Chicago that he had become a grandfather as he shook hands with voters in Edwardsville and spoke at a night meeting here.

He was notified that his daughter, Mrs. Ed. Vaughan, whose ensign husband is in the Pacific, had become a mother. John Cronin, Courtney's chauffeur and companion, left the gubernatorial candidate a bit puzzled with the statement:

"They think it's a boy."

[In Chicago it was learned that the baby was a boy.]

Campaign Manager Ill.

Another development of the day saw Courtney's campaign manager, James L. O'Keefe, out of the campaign temporarily. He was stricken with a heavy cold and ordered to bed.

For a time today Democratic state candidates were scattered over southern Illinois like buckshot. With only the formal night meeting scheduled, they rode off in all directions in an effort to tree a voter.

Courtney, in whose honor a corned beef and cabbage dinner was held here, told his listeners that ending the war and setting up a post-war plan are too important to "be entrusted to a state administration interested chiefly with the problem of maintaining itself in office for four more years."

State Faces Big Job.

"To win the war and to win the peace is the gigantic task faced by our national leaders, military and civil," Courtney said. "Peace will present post-war problems of providing jobs, markets for farm products and business opportunities for all citizens of the state of Illinois. They cannot be left to any future national administration."

Courtney slapped at the Green regime as one guided by "campaign oratory" and inability to keep promises. He reiterated his charge that taxes have mounted from 320 millions in 1940 to a present all-time high of 378 million.

ENVOY DENIES ALLIED INFERENCE AXIS SPIES ARE BUSY IN IRELAND

New York, March 17 (AP).—Robert Brennan, Ireland's minister to the United States, denied today that there was successful espionage in Ireland and declared "the American government must be grossly misinformed."

At a press conference at the office of the Irish consulate general here, Brennan, announcing his remarks were the official expression of the Irish government, said: "The crisis came as a bombshell—a complete bombshell. Somebody blundered and it wasn't us." Brennan had a prepared statement for reporters in support of the Irish contention that axis spies had not operated successfully in Ireland.

"We know," he said, "that the German legation has no means of transmitting to Germany any information they may obtain. They have no diplomatic pouch or diplomatic couriers. They have no telephonic communication. They have no wireless transmitter. They can communicate only by cable, which passes thru London. Therefore, they can transmit no message that the British are unwilling to forward."

WOODRING PUTS O. K. ON O'DANIEL FOR NOMINATION

Houston, Tex., March 17 (AP).—Harry H. Woodring of Topeka, Kas., chairman of the American Democratic National committee, today termed Sen. O'Daniel [D., Tex.] as "an outstanding example of the type of man who would be acceptable to us" as a Presidential nominee.

Stopping here on a nation-wide tour to organize the committee, the former secretary of war in President Roosevelt's cabinet said in an interview:

"There is also a great deal of support for Sen. Byrd [D., Va.], Sen. George [D., Ga.], former Gov. Edison of New Jersey and a number of others."

Woodring described the committee as "not a third party but a party of true Democrats whose purpose is to regain and recapture the Democratic party for its rightful owners."

FARLEY BLASTS MORAL DECAYS IN GOVERNMENT

Speech Seen as Slap at Administration.

no such thing. Take whatever action will gain your end. Here I remember one example so apt that I cannot resist the temptation of citing it. A former official who represented the government in tax matters said that if to win a case for the government on Monday, he had to claim that a certain principle was true, and if, to win another tax case on Tuesday, he had to protest that same principle was completely false, he would not hesitate to do both.

"We Have Seen It . . ."

"A third symptom is abject reliance of the citizen on the state; to put it in biblical terms, a willingness to sell your political soul for a mess of economic pottage. This is beyond question the most serious of all discernible tendencies in modern states, including our own. The hard fact is that nowhere, in politics, economics, or anywhere else, do you get something for nothing. It's the third temptation of Christ all over again.

"Thus it happens that the public conscience becomes debauched and whole peoples sell themselves into bondage. We have seen it happen in our time."

Some day, Farley said, America will acknowledge with gratitude its obligation to the Irish for their help in forging the nation, for their spirit and moral stamina to withstand the siren songs of foreign theories.

LA BUY APPROVED BY SENATE BODY FOR JUDGE POST

Washington, D. C., March 17 (AP).—A senate judiciary subcommittee today approved the nomination of Walter J. La Buy to be a judge of the northern Illinois District court. It postponed action on the nomination of Elwyn R. Shaw to the same bench. Committee aids explained that Shaw's nomination had been protested by a Chicago attorney whose identity was not disclosed. A hearing probably will be held later.

BENSON PLEADS FOR END TO U. S. SPENDING ORGY

The income tax deadline of March 15 was also the deadline for the people's tolerance of the New Deal, Arnold P. Benson, regular Republican organization candidate for secretary of state, said last night.

Benson, president pro tem of the Illinois senate, spoke at meetings in the 39th, 40th, and 41st wards. With him were Gov. Green, who is seeking renomination; Richard J. Lyons, candidate for United States senator; Lt. Gov. Cross, who also seeks renomination; Conrad F. Becker, candidate for state treasurer, and Earle B. Searcy, candidate for Supreme court clerk.

The alarm clock went off March 15 and awakened even those previously unaware of the New Deal's 11 years of spending unmatched in any country in any period, Benson said.

Debt $1,240 for Each.

"On that day the public caught up with the wild orgy of spending that has boosted our national debt to 170 billions," Benson said.

He had with him comparative figures showing per capita debt of $12 before World War I., and of $250 after that war. Under Republican administrations this was down to $179 by 1933. Then the Democrats went back into power and boosted it to $412 just before our entrance into World War II.

The present debt means that government bonds equalling the value of all business property in the nation have been issued, he said.

Annual interest charges alone, as of Dec. 30, were computed at about 3 billion 200 million—over 2½ times the total debt before World War I.

War Excuse Rejected.

Benson said that efforts to blame it on the war will be futile, in view of the New Deal's 119,000 pay rollers in Illinois alone. This is equal to at least six army divisions and is more than five times the size of the entire number of state employes, he said.

"But the end of the reckless spending is in sight," said Benson. "The public will demand an accounting in November. The crushing tax blow has landed upon an aroused nation and the answer will come in a sweeping Republican victory.

"Thus will start a national economy which will rescue the nation just as Gov. Green has done in this state since he took office three years ago. A surplus of $75,000,000 is his answer to the reckless Democratic administrations that preceded him."

Veterans Indorse Benson.

Past state commanders of veterans' organizations met in the La Salle hotel last night to indorse Benson against State Treasurer Stratton for secretary of state. Those who joined the Benson forces were O. F. Yetter and Abe Greenfield, past state commanders of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Ferre C. Watkins, Edward Clamage, David L. Shillinglaw, and Francis E. Phalen, past state commanders of the American Legion. Others were Mrs. Melville Mucklestone, past national Legion auxiliary president; Mrs. W. G. Sutten, past state auxiliary president, and J. F. Novotny and W. M. Devine, past Cook county Legion officials. Benson is decided a petition for wage increases. Kuczma said the men agreed to work at least until Monday, when the decision, which is said to meet the demands in part, will be announced.

TORPEDO PLANT STRIKE HALTED UNTIL MONDAY

Stewards of the United Steel Workers of America [CIO] yesterday ended an "unauthorized" work stoppage at the plant of the Amertorp corporation in Forest Park which halted production at the huge torpedo plant for an hour, according to a representative of the regional war labor board.

Julius Kuczma, disputes director for the WLB, said 3,500 men on the day shift who were "confused" over the status of a case before the board, reported, but idled until the stewards, after a meeting, urged the men to go to work.

A spokesman for Edgar L. Warren, regional WLB chairman, said the employes "misunderstood" the board's announcement that it had

FEDERAL BALLOT 'UNACCEPTABLE,' GREEN TELLS U. S.

State Law Best, F. D. R. Is Informed.

Prefers Georgia Law

Atlanta, Ga., March 17.—[Special].—Georgia will not avail itself of the federal soldier ballot, Gov. Ellis Arnall informed President Roosevelt today. "Georgia led the nation with the best soldier vote law yet enacted," Gov. Arnall wrote the President. "Its terms are more liberal and more complete than the congressional enactment. Accordingly, this state will not avail itself of provisions of the congressional measure should it become law." Georgia's law was enacted at a special session in January.

Gov. Green replied yesterday to President Roosevelt's telegram of Wednesday asking governors of all states for advice on the effectiveness of the soldiers' voting bill, now awaiting the President's signature or veto.

The measure limits use of administration sponsored short federal ballots. President Roosevelt asked each governor whether such voting forms would be acceptable under the laws of his state.

Illinois Answers "No."

Gov. Green's reply to this question was "no." He explained that the Illinois general assembly had passed a law giving all army and navy men and women the same voting privileges as stay at homes, while the proposed short federal ballot restricted voters to write-in choices for Presidential and congressional candidates.

Therefore, the governor told the President, the Illinois law gives service men and women a far greater opportunity to vote than does the federal plan, and it would not be in the interests of Illinois soldiers and sailors for the state to adopt the federal law.

Following is the text of Gov. Green's telegram to the President:

"In response to your telegram I wish to advise you that last January the general assembly of our state, acting within its Constitutional powers, enacted a statute granting to every man and woman of our state in the armed services the full and unabridged right to vote for all federal, state, county, and local offices.

Cites War Chiefs' Promise.

"At the time our legislature was in session the secretaries of war and of the navy issued a statement that, if ballots were mailed 45 days before the election, they could be transported to and from our troops anywhere in the world. Acting on that assurance our assembly directed that all such ballots must be mailed 45 days or more before the date of the election and that applications for ballots may be filed at any time within 100 days before the election.

"The Illinois service men's ballot is complete, giving to those in the service the same right to vote for all candidates for all offices as is enjoyed by those at home; whereas the proposed federal ballot is limited to the Presidential and congressional offices.

"The Illinois ballot will bear the names of all candidates duly nominated, while the federal ballot would require that the names of Presidential and congressional candidates only be written in.

"Unrestricted suffrage is assured by our statute to those in the armed services if the postoffice department and the army and navy will lend their efforts to deliver and return the ballots.

"In my judgment the use of a supplementary federal ballot is not now authorized by the laws of our state, and since our law gives those in the armed services a far greater opportunity to vote than does the federal proposal, it would not be in the interests of those in the armed services from our state for Illinois to adopt the federal law."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, March 17.—Leila Drew, reporter for the Buenos Aires Herald, who unearthed the "mystery" quintuplets here, told THE TRIBUNE today, in an exclusive interview:

"When I first heard the gossip about the five babies I had little belief in the story, but I investigated. I found neighbors who often had seen the children and who accepted the story that they were quints and marveled greatly that the newspapers had not reported them.

"When I visited their mother she was affable and expressed her pride in them, but she grew nervous when she learned I was a newspaper reporter and hastily hid the photos she had promised to give me. The father, who returned to the house at that moment, loudly declared that no newspaper should have the quints' pictures and turn his house into a menagerie.

"He gave me the impression that he was afraid of reporters because he did not want to be questioned about the quintuplets, especially in the matter of birth certificates. I think Diligenti [father of the quintuplets] will break down and tell the inside story."

The last of the quadruplets born yesterday to Celio Giachino de Anguilli died today.

12,000 ILLINOIS ARMY BALLOTS ALREADY ASKED

Springfield, Ill., March 17 (AP).—War ballot applications received at the secretary of state's office total 12,000 three weeks before the April 11 primary and are coming in at a rate of 200 to 300 daily.

For the 1942 primary 8,380 applications were received, but only about 4,000 ballots were returned by military service members in time to be counted.

Photostatic copies of applications, made under state-federal regulations, are mailed by the secretary of state's office to county clerks who send ballots to applicants. Ballots are returned direct to the clerks, who distribute them to the proper precinct election officials.

Applications will continue to be forwarded to clerks "so long as there's a chance ballots can be returned and distributed before polls close election day," said a spokesman for the secretary of state's office.

Estimate $10,000 Damage Done by Hat Factory Fire

Fire of undetermined origin which broke out in the Star Hat & Cap Co. factory on the second floor of a three-story building at 4056 Roosevelt rd. yesterday inflicted damage estimated by firemen at $10,000. A 2-11 alarm summoned additional fire equipment to prevent the blaze from spreading to the remainder of the building.

GOVERNORS BALK AT USE OF SHORT FEDERAL BALLOT

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

A reluctance to utilize the provisions of the compromise soldier vote bill now resting on President Roosevelt's desk, even if it becomes law, became evident in replies by governors of some of the 48 states to an Associated Press survey of sentiment on the measure.

Three, however, are ready to use the federal ballot, and others may adopt it.

Georgia will not avail itself of the provisions of the measure if it becomes law, Gov. Arnall wired the President.

"Georgia led the nation with the best soldier vote law yet enacted," Arnall said, adding that its terms were "more liberal and complete than the congressional enactment."

Mississippi Opposed.

Gov. Bailey of Mississippi said that in view of a ruling by the state's legal department, it was his judgment that use of supplementary federal ballots was not authorized by state law.

The bill awaiting Presidential action provides for use of federal ballots where state absentee ballots are not received, contingent, however, upon state acceptance of the federal ballots.

Gov. Neely of West Virginia informed Mr. Roosevelt that the state legislature had already provided a practicable means to permit service men and women to vote in primary and general elections for every candidate from President to constable.

Calls Bill "Deplorable."

"In the circumstances," he wired the President, "I could not think of recommending to our law makers that the many thousands of West Virginians in the armed services be insulted with official expression of approval of the deplorably inadequate bill passed by congress . . . ."

Meanwhile, the governors of California, Maryland, and Kansas said their state laws will allow use of the federal ballot.

The governors of Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Nebraska, Vermont, Indiana, and New Mexico said they believed that action necessary to validate the federal plan would be forthcoming.

Many of the governors contacted still had the question under consideration.

Needs Money for Taxes; Kills Watchman for Gun

Detroit, Mich., March 17 (AP).—Police announced today that a 27 year old Negro hospital chef had admitted killing a night watchman in a macaroni plant to get a gun for use in holdups to pay his income tax. Julian G. MacIntosh, chief assistant prosecutor, said the confession was made by Obliee Blake, chef at the Edith Thomas Memorial hospital, who admitted beating and shooting to death Julius Scepanski, 58, at the Viviano Macaroni company. MacIntosh said Blake told of wanting a gun to hold up dice games "to get money to pay my $97 income tax."

PLATFORM FIRE LOSS $200.

Fire in a loading platform of the National Fireproof Storage company warehouse at 2431 Irving Park rd., yesterday caused damage estimated at $200.

VERMONT GIVES ITS APPROVAL TO FEDERAL BALLOT

Montpelier, Vt., March 17 (AP).—Vermont led the nation today in adopting a law which would permit Vermont citizens in service to use a federal ballot under legislation approved by congress and now awaiting action by the President.

The law provides for voting in the election by Vermonters in the service, wherever located, and for advancement of the state's election machinery to enable soldiers at a distance to cast their votes in time to be counted in the election returns.

Passed yesterday by the state house of representatives at a special session of the Vermont general assembly, the measure was approved today by the senate and promptly signed by Gov. William H. Wills.

The section of the Vermont law relating to a federal ballot declares:

"In addition to and supplementing the provisions of this act, the provisions of any federal statute for a federal war ballot and for procedures affecting and facilitating voting by members of the armed forces are hereby authorized for use in this state."

Dr. John R. Ball, 62, of 701 Emerson st., Evanston, professor of geology at Northwestern university, was robbed of $57 last night by five Negroes who held him up in a public rest room in Washington park.

Dr. Ball was on his way to a meeting of geologists at the University of Chicago at the time. When he resisted the Negroes, he told Woodlawn police, one of them struck him on the head with a revolver.

He chased them as they fled thru the park, he said, until one of them fired a shot at him. Five stitches were required to close the scalp wound.

DIES OPENS QUIZ INTO WINCHELL'S SMEAR TACTICS

Radio Head and Sponsor Face Questioning.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 17.—An investigation of the radio smear campaign of Walter Winchell, Broadway gossip columnist and radio tattler, was launched today by the house committee on un-American activities.

Chairman Dies [D., Tex.] announced that a subpoena was being served on Mark Woods, president of the Blue Network, for recordings and transcripts of Winchell's broadcasts of the last two years.

These will be analyzed by the committee staff for falsities, inaccuracies, and slanderous utterances against men in public life. With Gen. MacArthur as his latest target, Winchell has attacked numerous members of congress, indulging in what has been described in the house as the tactics of Joseph Goebbels, Nazi minister of propaganda.

Sponsor Faces Inquiry.

When this study is completed, Dies indicated, Woods and other network officials will be summoned to explain why they permit Winchell to spread his smears on the air waves.

Andrew Jergens, president of the perfume company which pays Winchell $5,000 a broadcast, is also expected to be put in the witness chair for examination. Rep. Hoffman [R., Mich.] yesterday told the house there were government records which might disclose that Jergens "associated with individuals much closer to the Nazis than any of those who have been indicted for sedition."

Hoffman said Winchell's knowledge of the information in these records might constitute a "hold" over Jergens which would not permit the latter to exercise any restraint upon the broadcaster's smears.

Records Kept Secret.

It was revealed that the attorney general's office has refused to turn over the records in question on the ground that their publication would conflict with "the public interest." A representative of the attorney general's office, however, has corroborated the reports of Nazi associations to which Hoffman referred.

There is no intention of calling Winchell, himself, until a thoro investigation has been made of his "vicious and un-American conduct," Dies said.

"There are dozens of witnesses anxious to testify at the hearings," Dies declared. "Studies already have been made which show Winchell's broadcasts and columns to be 60 per cent inaccurate. This drunk-with-power gentleman will be exposed for what he is."

Dies Invited to Use Radio.

Following repeated demands in the house that broadcasting companies allow smear victims radio time to reply to commentators of the Winchell stripe, Philip W. Lennen, president of Lennen and Mitchell, Inc., advertising agent for the Jergens company, tonight invited Rep. Dies to follow Winchell on a Blue network broadcast March 19 or March 26.

Woods corroborated the invitation in a telegram to Dies and said "that period will give you the benefit of the entire Winchell audience."

Dies had warned the radio industry it would stand convicted of conspiring to destroy free speech if it did not afford smear victims an opportunity to answer attacks before the same audience.

Winchell Wintering in Miami.

Winchell, who spends the winter months at Miami, Fla., while purporting to report on Broadway doings, has been quoted as anxious to appear before the committee. He may not be so eager to testify when the extent of the case against him is spread on the record, Dies intimated.

Winchell, a second rate vaudeville hoofer, started his journalistic career as a tipster for the extinct New York Graphic, a tabloid which specialized in sex and scandal. He graduated to the New York Daily Mirror, with which he still remains. His daily column of chatter, consistently emphasizing the sex angle, achieved huge success and is widely syndicated.

He began to broadcast 11 years ago and has been sponsored by the Jergens company during most of that period.

Several years ago Winchell, who quit school in the sixth grade and who, his associates say, has never read a book, branched out as a commentator on national and international affairs. He began to level bitter and personal attacks against those who opposed New Deal policies.

HARVESTER UNIT POLICE CAPTURE TRIBUNE AWARD

Take Drill Contest for Plant Guards.

A crack drill team of auxiliary military police plant guards representing the Wisconsin Steel works of the International Harvester company won first place in a contest last night in the 132d Infantry armory, 2653 Madison st., and was awarded a trophy presented by THE TRIBUNE.

Seven teams competed in the event, and the scores of the first three teams were only a few points apart. The Wisconsin Steel team was graded 97.40. Close behind was a team representing the Commonwealth Edison company, with a mark of 97.35. In third place was a team from the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation Gary works, which was graded 95.90.

Sees His Team Win.

More than 1,500 persons cheered the teams from the galleries. On hand to see his team win was George E. Rose, president of the Wisconsin Steel works.

Each team was composed of 20 men, including a guidon carrier and a platoon leader. One after the other the teams marched into formation for inspection by Maj. Edgar Westervelt. Then followed five minutes of close order drill, during which Lt. Col. Arlie A. Schardt judged marching, Maj. Royal H. Place judged maneuvers and military bearing, and Capt. Charles M. Strickland judged cadence. The judges remarked that the competition brought performances worthy of West Pointers.

Won in Area Contests.

The Tribune trophy was presented to R. N. Corcoran, platoon commander of the Wisconsin Steel team, by Col. C. J. Otjen, commanding officer of district 3 of the 6th service command. Guidon streamers were presented to all the competing teams, showing the rank in which they finished.

Competitors in the contest were winners of area contests conducted among the 18,000 plant guards in the Illinois district, which includes three northwestern Indiana counties.

During an attack on a train on the Belgrade-Zagreb railway 150 enemy soldiers and officers were killed, the bulletin said.

139 YANKS MADE CITIZENS UNDER FIRE IN ITALY

WITH THE ALLIED BEACHHEAD FORCES IN ITALY, March 17 (AP).—In the first ceremony of its kind ever held under fire, 139 noncitizen United States soldiers on this beachhead became naturalized American citizens yesterday and today.

The oath of citizenship was administered by Thomas Estes, American vice consul and the designated representative of the immigration and naturalization service.

Bombs Punctuate Rites.

Estes explained that the naturalization act of 1940 was amended for the benefit of soldiers, the only requirement being that soldier-applicants for citizenship legally entered the United States.

The first soldier naturalized was Pvt. Francis Muir, Worcester, Mass., who came to the United States from Canada 18 years ago.

Just a few moments before the first ceremony began, two 500 pound bombs fell, 50 yards on either side of the spot chosen for the rites.

From Nearly Every State.

"These boys are actually performing one of the basic duties of citizenship by defending the United States," commented Maj. Hugh A. Scott of Salem, Ore., whose division contributed 65 new citizens. "Any man willing to offer his life to his country deserves the privileges of citizenship."

Men from almost every state in the union assembled at various bomb cratered sectors to take the oath of allegiance.

Among the new citizens were Pvt. Allen J. Diaz of Mason City, Ia., and Pvt. Walter Carter, Dearborn, Mich.

M'ARTHUR VOWS AGAIN TO FREE THE PHILIPPINES

Discuss Strategy

CANBERRA, Australia, March 18 [Saturday]—(AP).—Gen. MacArthur left Canberra today in a Flying Fortress after holding a lengthy conference with Prime Minister Curtin. They discussed future Pacific strategy which Curtin will advocate at a London conference.

ALLIED HDQ., Southwest Pacific, March 17 (AP).—Promising one of the greatest offensives of the Pacific war to liberate the Philippines and adjacent islands from the Japanese, Gen. MacArthur tonight reiterated his pledge to the Filipino people to return and free them.

The general, addressing a commonwealth parliament dinner party at Canberra, Australia, spoke strictly as a professional military man, ignoring the American political situation in which he has been mentioned as a Republican Presidential possibility.

The dinner commemorated the general's arrival in Australia exactly two years ago. It followed his decoration by Gov. Gowrie of Australia with the grand cross of the order of the bath. The governor general rose from his sick bed to confer the decoration.

Calls Reconquest Certain.

MacArthur, looking as fit physically as when he made his dramatic escape from the Philippines, declared "nothing is more certain than our ultimate reconquest and liberation from the enemy of those and adjacent islands.

"One of the greatest offensives of the war will, at the appropriate time, be launched for that purpose. With God's help it should be decisive not only of redemption but of Japanese isolation from southern conquests and of Chinese restoration of Pacific ocean communication."

The general added that back in the dark days of early 1942, when the Japanese had blitzed their way southward almost to the shores of the commonwealth, the Australians faced the gravest peril of their history.

"Tide Turned in Australia."

"With your very life at stake you have met and overcome the challenge. It was here the tide of war turned in the Pacific and the mighty wave of invasion broke and rolled back," he said.

MacArthur accepted the decoration and Australian hospitality in the name of the men "who went on their last crusade in the jungle thicknesses to the north, where they made the fight that saved this continent. . . . They came from the four quarters of the world but, whatever land that gave them birth, under their stark white crosses they now belong to Australia forever."

Given an Ovation.

Prime Minister Curtin highly praised MacArthur's leadership. He said the general's responsibility as supreme allied commander in the Southwest Pacific is shared with other allied commanders thruout the world, adding:

"For here, as there, we are engaged in a war which is not divisible and which cannot be completed until all our enemies are defeated and all occupied countries and even neutrals have established beyond possibility of a doubt that those forces which brought the war are no longer capable of molesting the peace of men."

ALLIES GAIN, BUT NAZIS HANG ON IN PART OF CASSINO

Rail Station and Most of Abbey Hill Taken.

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, March 17 (AP).—Allied troops fought into Cassino railway station today and Indian Gurkhas clawed within 100 yards of the summit of Mount Cassino, but fiercely resisting Germans still retained a toehold on the southwestern outskirts of the ravaged stronghold.

The railway station had changed hands frequently during the two month battle for Cassino.

Heavy fighting raged on the slopes of Mount Cassino. Allied troops there were under intense fire from Nazis in the ruins of the ancient abbey on the crest.

New Zealand Tanks in Battle.

A few New Zealand tanks moved into the battle this afternoon. One was destroyed by German artillery.

All day the ruins of Cassino shuddered under violent attack, but when night came the Nazis still clung to their caves, tunnels, and dugouts, and there was a discernible feeling here that they might not be routed soon.

New Zealand troops spearheading the allied assault from the north had fought thru the rubble to the town's outer fringe and joined forces with the Gurkhas advancing up Mount Cassino on the west. The New Zealand and Indian troops met obstinate opposition in the hills west of Cassino but made short advances, occupying several heights.

Repel Nazis at Beachhead.

As a result, Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's 5th army was in a much stronger tactical position than before Wednesday's 2,500 ton bombing, which virtually demolished the Nazi fortress town, but a determined enemy still stood across the broad Rome highway.

On the Anzio beachhead the Germans made three attacks against American positions east of Carroceto but were thrown back with losses. Elsewhere in Italy ground fighting was confined principally to artillery duels and patrol skirmishes.

The Mediterranean allied air forces yesterday flew 1,144 sorties, losing four planes and destroying three enemy craft. Among the allied targets were docks at Leghorn, shipping on the west coast of Italy, enemy positions in and around Cassino and the Anzio beachhead.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Yesterday's official German war bulletin said:

"In Italy the enemy launched another attack on Cassino. After fierce bombing, New Zealand, Indian, and French troops attacked with strong artillery and tank support. One enemy force which succeeded in penetrating into the town was repelled by our brave parachutists. Heavy battles still are in progress.

"Last [Thursday] night a German bomber formation attacked shipping off Nettuno and the harbor area with good results. One transport vessel of 6,500 tons was sunk. One destroyer, one large landing vessel, and two transports of a total of 9,000 tons were damaged heavily."

TRIBUNE WRITER, 3 OTHERS HURT IN RAID ON ANZIO

Purple Hearts Are Awarded Men.

WITH 5TH ARMY BEACHHEAD FORCES AT ANZIO, March 16 [Delayed]—(AP).—Four American war correspondents were slightly injured this morning when bombs hit the Villa Virtue, 5th army public relations headquarters and the home of the beachhead correspondents.

William Strand.

The injured were William Strand of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, who sustained cuts and bruises on the arm and shoulder from falling plaster; Wick Fowler of the Dallas News, who was injured slightly on the neck and shoulder; Sgt. George [Slim] Aarons, Yank magazine photographer, whose hand and face were slightly lacerated, and George Tucker of the Associated Press, who suffered a slight injury to the right foot.

Receive Purple Heart.

All received the Purple Heart.

[John Thompson, Tribune correspondent now in England, also has received the Purple Heart for injuries he suffered when he parachuted from a troop plane during the invasion of Sicily.]

Ernie Pyle, United Features syndicate columnist, escaped with a slight scratch on his face.

Pvt. Delmar Richardson of Fort Wayne, Ind., was on the roof when the bombers began peeling off.

"I watched them shining like silver as they began diving," he said. "They opened up with their machine guns. I even saw their bombs coming down. Then one hit about 20 feet from the house. I just stretched out on the roof and hung onto the rail."

OVERSEAS SINCE OCTOBER.

William Strand, who has been at the North African and Italian fronts since October, 1943, was born in Chicago on July 16, 1911. A graduate of Lake Forest, Ill., academy, he attended Brown university and later Washington university in St. Louis.

Strand began newspaper work in Chicago in February, 1934, with the City News bureau. He joined THE TRIBUNE in November, 1937, and for a time covered city hall and federal building runs. He went to Washington, D. C., in 1940 for THE TRIBUNE. His wife and two children live in Washington, D. C.

BRITISH 'CHUTE TROOPS LANDED IN NORTH BURMA

ON THE INDIA-BURMA FRONTIER, March 17 (AP).—British parachute troopers have dropped behind the Japanese lines in the developing offensive in northern Burma, where forces under Lt. Gen. Stilwell are moving to clean out the Japanese from all territory menacing the Ledo supply road to China.

It also was disclosed that air borne troops supported the Tuesday crossing of the upper Chindwin river by British columns. A diversionary force was landed several miles from the crossing area by two American flight officers serving with the British air arm—John E. Gotham of Tinley Park, Chicago, and John N. Price Jr. of Midvale, O. They were unable to fly out and walked 130 miles back to their base after floating seven miles down the Chindwin river.

Service Center Entertains 200 from Army Hospital

Two hundred convalescent and ambulatory patients from the Gardiner General hospital were guests of the McArthur Service center at 5242 Hyde Park blvd. last night at a dinner and entertainment. The entertainment included two orchestras, a magician, and acts from local night clubs. The patients were taken to and from the center in station wagons and private cars.

REDS PLAY LONE HAND IN ITALIAN DEAL, SAYS HULL

Washington, D. C., March 17 (AP).—The soviet government played a lone hand in giving diplomatic recognition to Marshal Pietro Badoglio's Italian regime and the United States is not considering similar action.

These points were made clear by Secretary of State Hull at a press conference today at which he said:

The United States was not consulted by the soviet government, altho about the time the Italian announcement was made last week this country had some information as to what was going on; the state department now is assembling all the facts and circumstances involved.

The allied advisory council on Italy [United States, Britain, Russia] normally would give attention to such matters as diplomatic recognition of the Badoglio government in the first instance. Here the secretary implied an opinion that Russia should have worked thru the council altho he did not specifically say so.

HE WAS POLICE REPORTER; ARMY MAKES HIM M. P.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AT AN AMERICAN INVASION TRAINING BASE, Somwhere in England, March 17.—For nearly two years, Sgt. Loftin H. Sandidge, 5708 N. Kedvale av., Chicago, walked a beat on the English countryside—all because the army classification machine in hunting for a military policeman dropped a peg into a hole marked police reporter. Sandidge had worked on the Southtown Economist and city news bureau in Chicago.

Eventually Sandidge reached his proper niche in the army public relations office of this service of supply base headquarters, and almost his first words when we met today were: "When is THE TRIBUNE going to publish the overseas edition? All Chicago guys keep asking me."

Other midwesterners discovered in this area were: Pvt. Marice L. Woods, 8432 Sangamon st.; Lt. Morris Garfield, 2743 N. Richmond st.; Lt. Frank Moskal, 4214 W. 25th pl.; Lt. John F. McDaniel, 2611 Lunt av., all of Chicago, and Col. Charles O. Thrasher of Peoria, Ill.

U.S. TAR FLEES JAPS; RETURNS, FREES OTHERS

Seattle, Wash., March 17 (AP).—An American sailor who escaped from a Japanese prison camp in the Philippines is safe again after returning to the camp vicinity to help liberate other American war prisoners, his mother, Mrs. L. E. Jackson of Seattle, reported last night.

The sailor is Jopaul Little, 22, ordnanceman 3d class, who had been reported missing in action on Corregidor. He had been held prisoner 22 months.

Little told of "hopping from island to island" before he was able to communicate with American authorities.

He said he was "getting three square meals a day now," and that he was "going farther south," which Mrs. Jackson interpreted as indicating he was on his way to Australia.

GUNMEN STEAL TRUCKLOAD OF DRUG SUPPLIES

George Betker of 1227 Greenview av., a driver for Truck Maintenance, Inc., at 1201 Lake st., reported to police that two men, one in a soldier's uniform, held him up yesterday and robbed him of drug supplies valued at $1,000. Betker said that when he stopped at 5301 Madison st., one of the men threatened him with a gun and forced him into the rear of the truck where the robber and an accomplice bound him. They drove the truck several blocks, unloaded it and abandoned it in the rear of 5319 Monroe st., where Betker freed himself. The drugs were owned by McKesson & Robbins, Inc.

NEW ARMY RULE TIES A POLITICAL GAG ON SOLDIERS

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALGIERS, Algeria, March 17.—A recent army regulation prohibits any one in uniform from writing to senators or congressmen on political matters. Stopping such letters, however, is not a function of censorship but rather a responsibility devolving on the unit commanders.

The question of what can be written by soldiers is of increasing interest now that the political campaign is beginning in America. Stars and Stripes, daily newspaper of the American forces, has received many inquiries regarding the limitations.

The only guidance in the censor's handbook on such matters says:

"Under no circumstances will either open or hidden reference be made in private or unofficial correspondence or in private records, to any matter which might be of value or comfort to the enemy, be detrimental to the war effort, or disparage or prejudice foreign relations of the United States or her allies."

Right to Opinions Specified.

Army regulation 600-10 states that while no one in uniform is permitted to take part in political campaigns, service men do "retain the right to vote and to express their opinions on all political subjects and candidates." The regulation says further:

"Except as authorized by the war department, efforts by any person in the active military services of the United States to procure or oppose or in any manner influence legislation affecting the army are forbidden. No arm, service, bureau chief, or subordinate in the war department, and no person in the active military service of the United States will apply to congress, committees of congress, or to any member of congress for the enactment of or opposition to, or for the purpose of influencing legislation of any kind [except to procure enactment of private relief legislation] without the prior approval of the secretary of war."

This would prevent the doughboy from writing his congressman on the soldier vote bill. However, some soldiers have written their representatives on that matter and unit commanders haven't stopped the messages and no censorship has been applied.

Could State Stand on Vote.

Concerning politics and candidates there is nothing, for instance, in the censorship rules to bar a doughboy from writing home that he is against or in favor of President Roosevelt for a fourth term, that he is going to vote against or for him, and that he wants his family and friends to vote the same way. Also, a soldier could write to such correspondents that he is satisfied or dissatisfied with any congressional action.

But he could not write something to this effect: "The fellows in my outfit are plenty mad about what the President or the politicians are doing in such and such a matter." Such remarks would be deleted because they represent collective sentiment and the theory of censorship applying there is that the enemy would be interested and would use for propaganda any expressed resentment against home conditions by a portion of the American forces.

Route of Letters to Editor.

Another bar on indiscreet statements by soldiers is contained under the 62d article of war, which threatens court martial for any serviceman using "contemptuous or disrespectful" language in reference to the President, the Vice President, or national or state legislators, the secretary of war, and other government officials.

There is no restriction against a member of the forces writing a personal opinion on pending legislation to newspapers or other periodicals in the United States. However, such letters must be indited as for "possible publication," must be accompanied by the soldier's unit commander's approval and must go thru the regular press censorship.

NEGRO AIR FORCE MOVES TO ITALY TO BATTLE NAZIS

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALGIERS, Algeria, March 17.—The first all-Negro American fighter group in history has been in action for more than a month along the west coast of Italy, it was disclosed today. The formation is led by Lt. Col. Benjamin O. Davis Jr., whose father is the only Negro soldier ever to hold the rank of brigadier general in our army.

The Negro group, based in Italy as a part of the coastal air force, has been flying P-39 Airacobras on harbor patrol and convoy protection assignments. All the pilots received their flight training at Tuskegee [Ala.] institute and most of the ground officers were graduated at the air force officer school at Miami Beach, Fla.

During part of its training period the group was commanded by experienced white pilots from Selfridge field, Mich. Last October Col. Davis, who is a graduate of West Point, returned from this theater to take over the leadership and bring the men overseas.

Most of last year Davis, who is 31, commanded the 99th fighter squadron, the first all-Negro air unit in combat. Some of its sorties were flown over Tunisia and Pantellaria in P-40 Warhawks. This squadron recently was cited for action over the Anzio beachhead.

The commander of one of the squadrons in the new group is Capt. Robert B. Tresville Jr., 22, from McDill field, Fla., another West Point graduate.

Other squadron commanders are Lieutenants Lee Rayford, 25, and Edward C. Gleed, 27.

SELECT NINE NEGROES FOR TEMPORARY RANK OF RESERVE ENSIGNS

Carrying out the navy's recently announced policy of selecting Negro candidates for commissioning as line officers in the naval reserve, nine men were appointed yesterday to the temporary rank of ensign. The nine were directed to report to the Great Lakes Naval Training station for a course of training, after which they will be assigned to duty either at Hampton Institute, Hampton, Va., or at Great Lakes. Jesse Walter Arbor, 6220 St. Lawrence avenue, was one of the appointees.

ASTP WINDS UP FOR 2,000 YOUTHS IN CHICAGO AREA

Army specialized training for soldiers was concluded yesterday in five Chicago area colleges and will be ended in five others in the 6th service command by March 31. About 2,000 students who have been attending schools in and around Chicago will be reassigned to field duty.

The last classes were conducted during the day at the Illinois Institute of Technology, Lake Forest college, De Paul university, Wheaton college, and North Central college in Naperville. Other schools in the service command which will lose the program are Michigan State Normal college, Bradley Polytechnic institute, Peoria; Illinois college, Jacksonville; Hope college, Holland, and Kalamazoo college, Kalamazoo, Mich.

The students who are being returned to field duty have been taking basic courses, mostly engineering. At conclusion of their class work many received week-end passes to visit their homes in the vicinity. They will return Monday and leave shortly thereafter for various camps and stations. ASTP students in the future will be limited largely to those studying medicine, dentistry and veterinary medicine.

CHINA CIVIL WAR AVERTED BY U. S., AUTHOR ASSERTS

Fears New Hostility Between 2 Forces.

A threat of civil war in China between the armies of the Kuomintang, the ruling party, and the Communist 8th route army, has been averted by American intervention, but the danger of conflict breaking out anew is present, Mrs. Agnes Smedley, author of the book "Battle Hymn of China," asserted yesterday in addressing the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations in the Palmer House.

Educational programs inaugurated in the 8th route army and the new 4th army, which have made 50 per cent of the men literate, are one of the prime reasons the ruling party is opposed to the activities of the two armies.

Armies Ordered Disbanded.

"These practices in the guerrilla regions have led China to the verge of civil war. The government demands that the 8th route army and the new 4th army disband their separate armies and come under the exclusive leadership of the national military council, the Kuomintang. The government also demands the dissolution of the self-elected governing bodies in the guerrilla regions," Mrs. Smedley said.

"In an attempt to enforce its demands the government has thrown a cordon of half a million nationalist soldiers around the rear of the 8th route army.

"Conflicts were brought to a halt by American intervention, for America is interested in preventing civil war in China, which would benefit the Japanese."

Report Stories of Friction.

Mrs. Smedley said there have been recent stories of friction between Louis Mountbatten, allied supreme commander in Asia, and Chinese and American military officials, and asserted that "this conflict is brought about because Mountbatten is subordinating military aims to the preservation of the British empire.

"Mountbatten wants to prevent Chinese troops from entering Burma, where they might inspire in the Burmese a desire to obtain their own freedom," she said. "The American strategy, however, is to open the Burma road as soon as possible.

"The commanding officer on a Chinese army had indicated the belief that Britain, France, and the Netherlands did not want to see a strong, free China because it would be an inspiration to India, the Dutch East Indies, and Indo-China to seek their own freedom."

FINDS U. S. REDS HOLDING THE BAG AGAIN ON ITALY

Socialist Leader Assails Stalin's 'Empire Game.'

New York, March 17 [Special].—Dictator Stalin of Russia has again left Communist parties thruout the world "holding the bag" by the soviet union's recognition of the Italian regime of Marshal Badoglio and King Victor Emmanuel, Harry Fleishman, national secretary of the Socialist party, declared in a statement today.

Denouncing the recognition as a move in the game of power politics, Fleishman predicted Communists could now be expected "to attack Italian liberals and radicals for opposing Badoglio, instead of accusing them, as in the past, of being his secret supporters."

"The opening of diplomatic relations with King Victor Emmanuel's government gives additional evidence," Fleishman said, "of the fact that Russia is merely another imperialistic power engaged in the old empire game of juggling for position on the world scene.

'Mad Stampede Backwards.'

"The retreat from the Moscow declaration and the Teheran pronouncements, the flight from the terms of the Atlantic Charter, has become a mad stampede backwards."

Fleishman asserted American Communists have now distinguished themselves by indorsing these extremes in rapid succession. Boss Frank Hague of Jersey City, the two party system, "free enterprise," "the clear-headed men of Wall st.," and the house of Savoy.

"The stampede to reaction led by their current hero, Franklin D. Roosevelt, could move no faster than it is currently moving," Fleishman said.

The Latest Flip-Flop.

"Liberals, Progressives, and Socialists who have some regard for intellectual and moral integrity will find in this latest flip-flop of the Communists and their new-found friends, the ex-New Dealers, another reason for demanding a new political alignment that is not based on betrayal for the sake of expediency.

"When the Russians obtained representation on the allied control commission for Italy," he went on, "these good people breathed a sigh of relief. Here, at last, was aid and comfort for the democratic forces in Italy; here was a friend at court to support them against monarchy loving Mr. Churchill and our own reactionary state department.

"But, alas, there is no santa claus, except for Badoglio. Just as the state department seemed to be reaching the conclusion that support of reactionaries was undesirable when they became military liabilities, along comes Stalin and gives Badoglio the full recognition he had been unable to get elsewhere."

U. S. Reds Caught Napping.

Fleishman asserted that, as usual, the American communist press was not forewarned "so that it could change its line without indecent haste."

"And it is no surprise that the Daily Worker should cravenly applaud when a communist kowtow's to a king.

"In view of the protests of progressives, plus the various parties—not excluding the communist party of Italy—against any dealings with Mussolini's marshal and puppet king, Dictator Stalin has left the communist parties and their 'liberal' allies holding the bag."

MOTHER ADVISED OF BOMBARDIER'S DEATH IN CRASH

Mrs. Veronica J. Duda, 4715 N. Leavitt st., received word yesterday from the war department that her son, Lt. Lawrence J. Duda, 25, was killed March 1 in a plane crash in the Solomons. Lt. Duda was a graduate of Roosevelt High school and the Illinois Institute of Technology. He was commissioned a bombardier last September and had received a special award for low score in bombing. He had served overseas for about three weeks.

RED HITS ALLIES' WAR IN ITALY AS A LITTLE AFFAIR

Says Bombings Aren't So Much, Either.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 17.—Another request from Moscow that the United States and Britain hurry and open the promised second front today provided a further link in the chain of evidence that the much advertised allied unity still is far from being achieved.

Besides an article in a soviet journal, War and the Working Classes, saying that the world is waiting for the opening of a second front and operations of a resolute character, "operations not on the Italian pattern but invasion on a broad front," Maj. Gen. Galaktinonov, a soviet political writer, cast doubt regarding the extravagant claims about the allies' bombing of Germany.

The raids have been of great importance, he said, but, contrary to British spokesmen, have not reduced to any considerable degree Germany's military production.

Cites "Small Deeds" in Italy.

Altho Secretary of War Stimson yesterday said the campaign in Italy had attained its objectives, Galaktinonov described the allied strategy there as one of "small deeds, delaying the war and not achieving any decisive result." The only way Germany can be defeated, he insisted, is by "realization of the simultaneous blows agreed on at Teheran."

Admittedly Moscow slipped over a fast one by recognizing the Badoglio government in Italy and even Communists and left wingers who, like the American office of war information, have been denouncing him as a Fascist and unfit for office, were caught off guard. To explain Premier Stalin's independent action, the left wingers say he merely accepted reality while the see-sawing anglo-American policy just continued in a chaotic condition.

Eden Hopes for Information.

Because Russia recognized Badoglio without consulting the allies, some members of parliament asked if Washington, D. C., and London kept Moscow informed regarding their policy, Foreign Secretary Eden replied:

"We keep our allies informed on all phases of our policy and I am in hopes that similar treatment will be meted out to us."

However, it seems clear to observers that Russia is taking the initiative on the diplomatic front as well as on the battle front. The Russian attitude is convincing many that the Atlantic charter has been thrown overboard for power politics and that this is the reason for the strong demand in commons for a debate on this subject.

Uruguay Delays Action on O. K. of Argentine Rule

YANKEE RAIDERS ATTACK VIENNA 1ST TIME IN WAR

LONDON, March 17 (AP).—Italian based United States Flying Fortresses and Liberators roared over the Alps today to bomb military targets in Vienna for the first time in the war as allied planes from Britain blasted Nazi communication points in France and Holland.

Tonight German raiders made a short attack on London and two forces of British based R. A. F. bombers headed out for fresh blows against the continent.

In addition to the attack on Viennese targets, other planes from Italian fields bombed Bleiberg, Austria, 25 miles west of Klagenfurt; enemy shipping in and near Sibenik, a Jugo-Slav port, and Caceno and Monte Pescara, important railway junctions in northern Italy.

No Planes Challenge Raiders.

The strong force of American big bombers up from the south, escorted by Thunderbolts and Lightnings, found the Austrian capital blanketed by an overcast thru which heavy anti-aircraft fire was poured. There was no German fighter opposition, however. The Algiers radio said the target was an aircraft factory.

The Mediterranean air force also struck into Europe last night, hitting rail communications at Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, for the second night in a row.

Raid 30 Miles from Paris.

From Britain American Marauders joined in the growing bombardment of German lines of communication in northern France today with a smash at the rail center of Creil, 30 miles north of Paris.

Thunderbolt fighter-bombers of the 8th air force bombed air fields in northern France and Holland. Three enemy planes were destroyed. Two of the American craft failed to return. The Marauder attacks were made without loss.

As the medium bombers sped to their targets today, the American air command announced 125 Nazi planes were shot down in Thursday's battles over Germany and that the targets were the industrial cities of Ulm and Friedrichshafen.

INDIANA FLYER BEATS OUT FIRE IN A BOMBER WITH HIS BARE HANDS

LONDON, March 17 (AP).—Tech. Sgt. John T. Eylens of Lafayette, Ind., saved a Flying Fortress from destruction by beating out a raging fire with his bare hands while the plane was en route home from an attack on Germany.

A few minutes before reaching the French coast fire broke out in the electrical system behind the pilot's compartment. Dropping from the top turret gun platform, Eylens seized the burning wires with his bare hands and ripped them out. Then he sprayed the flames with a fire extinguisher until it was empty. Rather than risk the blaze spreading while he was getting another extinguisher, he beat out the remaining flames with his hands.

The radio operator said Eylens fought the fire with his bare hands for more than 15 minutes.

TERMS TO FINNS EASED BY REDS, SWEDEN HEARS

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 17.—Russian circles here revealed tonight the nature of concessions that the soviet government has made to the Finns. The revised terms are said to include a more reasonable approach to the problem of how German troops in Finland are to be interned, plus precise conditions under which Finland would be asked to move her troops back to the 1940 border.

An editorial in the Stockholm morning newspaper Ny Dag, soviet mouthpiece in Sweden, said today that "Finland will be able to keep her army and navy, at any rate for the time being, and she will not be called upon for immediate demobilization until the Moscow talks."

Dispatches from Helsingfors to Swedish newspapers said Russia is no longer insisting on the immediate withdrawal of the Finnish army to the 1940 border, but is willing to start talks in Moscow first.

Finns Deliver Reply.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 17 (AP). — Finland's reply to Russian armistice terms was delivered to the Russian legation in Stockholm today. A Finnish diplomatic source told the Associated Press "I do not have much hope for peace."

It is understood that Finland will announce the contents of its note tomorrow after receiving assurances that the reply has reached Moscow.

Consider U. S. Stand.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, March 17 (AP).—A foreign office spokesman today said the Finnish government "has to give serious consideration" to President Roosevelt's statement urging Finland to withdraw from her "hateful partnership" with Germany.

"We regret it wasn't made three days earlier," informed political figures said, in obvious reference to the fact that the Finnish parliament had reached a decision.

BLIND U. S. SOLDIER TO LEAD HIS BRITISH NURSE BRIDE TO OHIO

LONDON, March 17 (AP).—There's going to be high tea, in the British fashion, in the steel making city of Warren, O., when blind Pvt. Otto Huttenen gets home soon with his Red Cross bride.

"You can tell them I'm British as far as tea is concerned," Pvt. Huttenen said on the eve of his departure for home, and he has his reasons.

One of them is Mrs. Huttenen, a British Red Cross nurse who said "yes" to his proposal after she had nursed the blinded and maimed soldier for 14 months in St. Dunstan's hospital. Another reason is that Pvt. Huttenen met his bride at a hospital tea.

Loss of British Destroyer Announced by Admiralty

LONDON, March 17 (AP).—Loss of the British destroyer Mahratta was announced tonight by the admiralty.

ARGENTINA BARS PRESS SERVICE FROM TELETYPE

BUENOS AIRES, March 17 (AP).—The state radio net work announced tonight that the Argentine government had issued an order rescinding communications concessions granted the United Press and its Argentine affiliate, Prensa Unida.

The order, issued by the department of posts and telegraphs, deprives the news agency of the privilege to transmit news from and to Argentina by teletype communication facilities.

The department's resolution said the United Press used its teletype circuit between Buenos Aires and Montevideo for private messages in contravention of the terms of the concession and of international communications regulations and used the circuit in such a way as to compromise the friendly relations Argentina maintains with other countries.

Two Indiana Pilots Join Roster of Aces in Europe

LONDON, March 17 (AP).—As a result of victories in yesterday's air battles over southern Germany, two Indiana pilots were added to the European theater's roster of aces. The flyers who raised their bag of enemy planes to five are Lt. Frank W. Klibbe, Anderson, and Lt. James E. Fields, Princeton.

Britain Makes Appeal for Volunteer Truck Drivers

GUNPLAY TOLD BY DEPUTY AT PEONAGE TRIAL

Girl's Flight Is Halted by Planter's Bullet.

Helena, Ark., March 17 [Special].—Use of firearms by Albert Sydney Johnson, 50, well-to-do planter, to keep his employes from quitting his 2,000 acre plantation was told today in federal court where he is on trial charged with violating the anti-peonage law.

Albert S. Johnson.

The incident was related by Claude Holt, Cross county deputy sheriff, shortly before the government rested its case against Johnson. The planter, who has been accused of intimidating 11 persons into working for him as virtual slaves, faces a possible maximum penalty of 70 years imprisonment and a fine of $70,000.

Holt told of being summoned to a place near the Johnson plantation and of finding a truck with a bullet hole in one tire. He said Johnson admitted shooting the tire because the truck was being used to carry a Negro girl, Essie Lee Wright, away from his farm.

Threats Are Told.

The deputy quoted the planter as saying he had warned he would "use his rifle" if any attempt was made to move the truck and that he issued the further threat:

"My rifle is still loaded. I will use it again if I have to."

The final government witness was Felix Williams, a Negro, who testified Johnson whipped him when he remonstrated about working while ill. The Negro said he told the planter he was not feeling well but that Johnson lashed him and compelled him to work regardless.

Tenants Abused.

Williams corroborated earlier testimony by more than a score of government witnesses that Johnson repeatedly abused and threatened his tenants and day laborers with death if they did not work on his plantation. Tho some got away by fleeing in the night, the court was told, others were so intimidated they were afraid to leave.

The mother of three grown daughters testified that Johnson, married and the father of eight children, compelled her to fill the dual role of common law wife and field hand for seven years.

Commissioner Daniel Ryan, chairman of the county board's tax foreclosure committee, said yesterday that the county had accepted bids for a total of $225,000 to settle the delinquency on 500 parcels of property. The principal amount of the back taxes on this real estate was approximately $335,000, Ryan said.

Soldiers, WACs Appear in Television Broadcast

Two soldiers and three WACS played the leading roles in a television broadcast last night over station W9XBK in the State-Lake building. There are approximately 300 television receiving sets in the city. The dialog in the show told how women who enlist in the WAC can release men for more active duties.

Miss Elise Young, 38, of 855 Buena av., died yesterday of a heart attack in the offices of Oscar Mayer & Co., 1241 Sedgwick st., where she was employed as a clerk.

WHISKY ORDERS FLOOD POLICE IN RAIDED OFFICES

Calls Link Dozen Cities to Black Market Gang.

Suspected black market liquor dealers in a dozen cities were under surveillance of federal agents last night after detectives had taken over a swank suite of offices at 10 S. La Salle st. for two days, and spent their time taking orders for whisky runnning into hundreds of cases.

Those being investigated are the ones who gave the telephonic orders. Whatever else happens, one thing is virtually certain. They won't get the liquor they asked for.

The offices occupied by the police were rented by the America-Way Industries, allegedly headed by Theodore N. Vombrack. He is being sought. His wife, taken into technical custody at 1741 Adams st., and several other persons seized in the case were booked on charges of disorderly conduct.

Shooting Starts Inquiry.

Centering of the investigation on the America-Way offices resulted from the shooting Tuesday night of James Healy of Rockford in the Fillmore st. police district. He had come to Chicago to buy 51 cases of liquor for Fay Miller, a cabaret owner of East Dubuque, Ill. Other arrests followed, and the investigation indicated the existence of a whisky ring which specialized in moving Illinois liquor into liquor-rationed Iowa.

Police found the America-Way offices elaborately furnished, and Vombrack's door plate embellished with such descriptive terms as financing, management, and liquidation. Detectives sat by the telephones, and waited for phone calls. They weren't disappointed.

The calls came from as far away as New York City, and also from Detroit, Cleveland, Kansas City, St. Louis, Rockford, and Dubuque, Ia.

Typcial Call Related.

There was little variation in the calls except for distances and amounts of whisky wanted. The following example is typical:

Caller: This is so-and-so. Can I get 100 cases of whisky?

Policeman: I don't know. When do you want it?

Caller: I need 25 cases, anyhow, in three days, then the rest next week.

Policeman—hesitantly: Well, I can't say for sure. Say, how about calling you back and letting you know?

Caller: Sure, here's my number. Be sure and call.

Policeman: You bet, and thanks.

The policeman didn't call back. Instead, he gave the return phone number to a federal agency, which traced the number in the city of origin, and immediately put the subscriber under surveillance. This was done in all cases. Police and federal operatives expected substantial results from the ruse.

Four Callers Arrested.

Among those taken into custody during the current inquiry in addition to Healy and Mrs. Vombrack, were Miller, the cabaret owner; Ervin Denlinger, Dubuque, Ia., a truck driver; Harry Samsky, owner of a trucking company at 1332 S. Kedzie av. where Healy was shot; Miss Rose Hammond, 4536 Magnolia av., said to be Vombrack's secretary; Ray Dennis, 2719 Hampden ct.; Sam Signore, 819 S. Racine av.; Harry Kovler, 4943 Kenmore av., and Arthur Wick, 3629 Monticello av.

The last named four were seized when they called at Vombrack's office. They were charged with disorderly conduct, along with Mrs. Vombrack and Miss Hammond. Samsky, accused of receiving stolen property, was freed on $5,000 bond in Felony court, awaiting a hearing April 6.

FRANCE IS READY TO GOVERN SELF, LEADER ASSERTS

Plans to return power to a French government which will be elected as soon as a large enough part of France is liberated have been completed by the French committee of national liberation, Henry de Lageneste, agent general of the committee in Chicago, last night told the De Paul university forum.

He assured his listeners that the spirit of liberty is still vigorous in France despite the country's four year martyrdom, and that the French people are hindering the German war effort in every possible way.

Other speakers on the program, which was held in the university's downtown quarters at 64 E. Lake st., were Henri David, head of the department of French at the university of Chicago; Mrs. John Collier, representing the Alliance Francaise; and Mrs. Walter Brewster, representing France Forever.

Brings Back Bride

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Maj. and Mrs. Charles Gallup.

ACE IN PACIFIC RETURNS HOME WITH A BRIDE

Australian Is Thrilled by America.

These are happy and hectic days at the Willard Gallup home at 2703 E. 76th place. Not only is the son of the family, Maj. Charles S. Gallup, army air forces ace, home on leave for the first time in two years—but he brought home an Australian wife to surprise the family!

The Gallups weren't any more surprised than Dulcie, the major's bride. Since last Friday, when the ship docked at San Francisco, she has marveled at the size of things in the United States.

"Everything's so big," she explained, speaking with a soft, pleasant accent. "Sydney [Australia] is beautiful, but not like this."

Marvels at Closets.

The major's mother was preparing dinner. Dulcie, amazed at closets, which they don't have in Australia [they use wardrobes], waffle irons, and furnaces, had just come back from a tour of State street stores.

"You don't have to use clothes coupons," she said. "And stockings are so lovely."

Maj. Gallup, who is 25, spent two and a half years in the marines before transferring to the air force. After his graduation from Hirsch High school in 1937, he worked with his father and grandfather at the Norris Grain company.

Major Downs Six Zeros.

Maj. Gallup has six Zeros to his credit with the squadron that first tried out the twin bodied Lightning planes in combat. In the first 12 days the squadron shot down 54 Zeros with a loss of two planes. In a year the group downed 148 Japs. He holds the silver star, the distinguished flying cross with cluster, and the air medal with cluster.

The major met Dulcie when she was a Newcastle, Australia, movie cashier. Fifteen other fellows wanted a date, but he won out. A year later they were married in Sydney. She will stay with the major's parents when he returns to duty.

SERVICE CENTER HELPERS LAUDED BY IRISH CLUB

The Irish Fellowship Club of Chicago, holding its 43d annual St. Patrick's day celebration in the Palmer House yesterday, paid special tribute to the men and women in military service and the 9,300 women whose work in the service men's centers has brightened the visits of nearly 10 million service men and women to Chicago.

Four service men and four service women of Irish extraction, visitors in the city, were guests of the club. Dr. Oliver St. John Gogarty, Irish surgeon, author, and statesman, sketched the history of Ireland's spiritual accomplishments during the 14 centuries since St. Patrick lived, and Mayor Kelly, a past president of the organization, climaxed a short talk with the statement that "everything that comes from there [Ireland] is good."

In the evening, the Ancient Order of Hibernians held its 64th annual St. Patrick's day celebration at the Morrison hotel. The Chicago police post of the American Legion gave a dance in Hotel Sherman.

Among other observances of the day were special church services and school entertainments. Colleen Buckley, 17, of 3337 Wallace st., was chosen St. Patrick's day queen at the Jones Commercial High school.

CHICAGO WHISKY IS PROBED AFTER SOLDIER'S DEATH

Federal agents here began an investigation yesterday of the liquor which was reported to have caused the death of one soldier and the poisoning of six others on a train at Ravenna, O. The victim was Pvt. James Belgin, 18, of San Jose, Cal., who was on his way with the others to an eastern camp.

Army authorities were told by the stricken soldiers that they bought a quart of liquor in the tavern of Steve Seannea at 610 S. Wells st. The liquor was identified as Mello Springs, bottled by the Fairview Liquor company, Minneapolis, Minn. The label on the bottle said the liquor consisted of 25 per cent straight whisky and 75 per cent fruit neutral spirits.

Agents under E. C. Yellowley, in charge of the alcoholic tax unit, seized a bottle of the whisky for chemical analysis. A chemical analysis also is being made of the vital organs of Pvt. Belgin.

MOVE FASTING IRA CHIEF TO JAIL HOSPITAL

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, March 17 (AP).—Hugh McAteer, 29, chief of the outlawed Irish Republican army, and two other IRA prisoners were taken from Belfast jail to the prison hospital today, reportedly in a serious condition from a 24 day hunger strike.

McAteer was sentenced to 15 years imprisonment on a treason charge two years ago. He started his strike after his request to be classified as a political prisoner had been turned down. Thirteen others have been fasting almost four weeks.

McAteer has lost about 10 pounds since he began his strike, prison officials said, but has been drinking large quantities of water. The status of political prisoner would entitle him to certain privileges he is now denied—including better food and living conditions.

Escaped from Jail.

McAteer was convicted in November, 1942, escaped from the Belfast jail in January, 1943, and was at liberty for 10 months. His hunger strike is the longest in this country since Terrence McSweeney, lord mayor of Cork, fasted 74 days to his death during the Irish rebellion in 1920.

Hunger strikes also have spread to Londonderry, where it was disclosed 100 prisoners have refused to eat since Tuesday. The warden there said the prisoners are "attempting to get prison work conditions changed."

Refuses to Permit Visitors.

In London, William Lowry, Ulster minister of home affairs, declined in the house of commons to allow immediate relatives to see any of the hunger strikers or permit their examination by personal physicians, asserting their medical treatment is "entirely satisfactory."

"Their own relatives, at an appropriate time—say when death is imminent—will be duly notified," he declared. "Northern Ireland is the only part of the British empire where this method of trying to defeat the law has never succeeded."

THEATER OF AIR TO GIVE HERBERT OPERA TONIGHT

The Chicago Theater of the Air will move back to the Medinah temple, Wabash av. at Ohio st., tonight after two weeks in W-G-N's main studio and will present Victor Herbert's "Sweethearts" to an audience of more than 4,000 persons. Doors will open at 7:15 p. m.

The program, co-starring Marion Claire and Gilbert Russell as the singing headliners, will be broadcast from 8 to 9 p. m. over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of The Chicago Tribune, will be the speaker.

Miss Claire will sing the role of Sylvia, a child who grows up to become the Crown Princess Ziliana. Russell will sing the part of Prince Franz, who falls in love with her. Shirley Dickinson, soprano, is to sing Jeanette, a sister of Sylvia.

Dramatic parts will be taken by Laurette Fillbrandt, Olan Soule, Elmira Roessler, Norman Gottschalk, Fred Howard, Hope Summers, and John Barclay. John Holbrook is the announcer.

The W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus, directed by Henry Weber, will provide the musical setting.

WAR FIRM HOST TO 12 CHILDREN ON 'BIRTHDAY'

Twelve lucky 3 year olds celebrated St. Patrick's day yesterday with a visit to the plant where their fathers turn out planes to win the war. They are children of employes of the Melrose Park Buick aviation engine plant who were born during the week of the plant's ground breaking, March 17, 1941.

The company presented four born March 17 with $25 war bonds. They are Ronald and Raymond Haag, twins, of Mokena; Patricia Milano, 3522 Chicago av., and Robert Eiermann, 1015 S. 4th av., Maywood.

Others, who got $5 in war stamps, were Donald and Ronald Williams, twins, of 140 S. 13th av., Maywood; Elaine Hudek, 1740 N. 40th av., Stone Park; Marguerite Lozeau, 1807 Division st., Melrose Park; Merrilee Burger, 1741 N. 73d ct., Elmwood Park; Joan Theodore, 1018 N. 24th ave., Melrose Park; Ronald Jewell, 3921 Elston ave., and Jo Ann Bennett, 1431 N. Lorel av.

IRELAND EXISTS ONLY BY WILL, DE VALERA SAYS

St. Patrick Day Talk Seen as Defi.

LONDON, March 17 (AP).—Prime Minister De Valera told the citizens of Ireland in a St. Patrick's day radio address from Dublin tonight that "we exist today as a nation because we were willing to endure and were not willing to yield." These words were interpreted as reaffirming his refusal to oust axis diplomats as requested by the United States.

De Valera was referring to Ireland's beginning more than 1,500 years ago, but his remarks fitted the position his government has taken on the touchy modern issue which has resulted in a British decision to "isolate" the island.

Points to Many Crises.

"We have had many crises in this old nation of ours," said the Brooklyn born premier. "These times of emergency found our nation, as in other days, with qualities which I feel we can call upon unreservedly today.

"It is the way of the strong toward the weak. It goes back to the beginnings of time and will continue as long as the strong seek excuses for using their strength to obtain what in justice they are not entitled to."

De Valera expressed Ireland's concern for the pope, saying "we pray God may be pleased to avert the doom which seems to threaten Rome and his people."

Dublin Reveals Fears.

DUBLIN, Ireland, March 17 (AP).—The bells of an uneasy peace rang out in troubled Ireland this St. Patrick's day. The warning of Prime Minister Churchill that the country would be isolated from the outer world hung heavy over the nation.

Dublin was thronged, but all the pubs were closed and the olden picture of Irishmen parading to the skirl of pipes and the inner lift of "a wee drap o' the crature" was missing.

Instead of the long St. Patrick's day parades the demonstration here was limited to a small group of Red Cross nurses and a column of some 200 unarmed home guards led by half a dozen drummers and seven pipers. The national army was held to barracks.

REPORTS FRENCH COAST FORTIFIED TO INLAND CITIES

Germans Build Tunnels, Repatriate Says.

New York, March 17 [Special].—German fortification, not only of invasion coasts, but also of French cities far inland, was described today by one of the last repatriates to disembark at Jersey City, N. J., from the Swedish exchange ship Gripsholm—John Roll of Binghampton, N. Y.

Roll, an American veteran of World War I. who married and raised a family in France, said the Germans were constructing tunnels and fortifying the entire area near Compiegne, which is northeast of Paris.

Charges Families Parted.

Roll, who was interned at the Compiegne camp, charged that the Germans deliberately selected for the Gripsholm voyage Americans who had wives and children in France and forced Americans to remain in France who had families in the United States.

The last of the repatriates walked onto the pier at 1:35 p. m. today after 61 passengers had been taken to Ellis Island for further questioning. Navy officials revised the original passenger count of 662 to 669. Nearly two days were consumed in the unloading under FBI and military intelligence supervision.

Recall Slaughter.

Blonde, Iowa born Alberta Erdtsieck, 20, told of Nazi gunners racing thru Dutch streets shooting people indiscriminately, and Harry Kirkpatrick, 25, of Pomona, Cal., told of the wholesale slaughter of Czechs and Jews after the assassination of Reinhard Heydrich, Hitler's hangman in that country.

Miss Erdtsieck left the United States when she was 4 years old to live in Holland with her family. She said that in 1941, when the Dutch in Amsterdam staged a brief revolt against anti-semitic rules, the Germans rode thru the streets shooting pedestrians and hurling grenades.

Students Vanish.

Kirkpatrick was a tutor in Prague, often teaching English to Jewish students. After the German occupation, some of his students would disappear overnight, he said, never to be heard from again. He said the Czechs told stories of Jews being massacred by live steam baths or by being used as guinea pigs in the testing of poison gas at the Skoda works in Pilsen.

When Heydrich was shot on May 27, 1942, the Germans killed 170 Czechs the first night, Kirkpatrick said. Then night after night, he said, the slaughter continued, until the casualties were in the thousands.

PERKINS NAMED U. S. DELEGATE TO ILO MEETING

Washington, D. C., March 17 (AP).—President Roosevelt announced today the two American government delegates to the meeting of the International Labor Office in Philadelphia in April would be Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins and Chairman Elbert D. Thomas [D., Utah] of the senate education and labor committee.

Mr. Roosevelt characterized the meeting, beginning April 20, as very important, because he said undoubtedly when the allied nations devise some post-war organization, the ILO will be affiliated with it.

Largely because the conference has many international phases, Mr. Roosevelt said, A. A. Berle Jr., assistant secretary of state, has been named as an alternate United States delegate.

Employers will have a single representative, and an alternate. These will be announced in a few days, the President added, and he expects to know shortly the delegate and alternate for labor. The American Federation of Labor has insisted that it be the sole labor organization represented at the meeting. The ILO has not held a meeting, the President said, since 1941.

The Inquiring Camera Girl — BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Florence Lannon, 6952 Vernon av.]

THE QUESTION.

What does your husband keep around the house that you wish he'd throw out?

WHERE ASKED.

Madison st. and Pulaski rd.

THE ANSWERS.

Mrs. Horace Horner, saleswoman, 4840 Madison st.—It didn't make any difference to my husband when he dropped his pipe and cracked off a piece of it. It's still his favorite one. I keep buying new ones to add to his beautiful collection while he continues to smoke the old one. I wish he'd discard it.

Mrs. Alexander Reich, housewife, 326 N. Pulaski rd.—I don't know why one man should be so sentimental about a bathrobe I gave him when we were first married. If he'd wear it it wouldn't be so bad, but it hangs in the closet day after day and he won't let me cut it up for a rag rug.

Mrs. Frank H. Murrin, housewife, 426 S. Humphrey av., Oak Park—My husband has about 13 ash trays around the house. He concentrates on only three of them. The rest of them are just something to move and dust every time I clean. I'm sure he could get along without the surplus that catch more dust than ashes.

Mrs. Walter McComb, housewife, 4231 Washington blvd.—In my otherwise neat bathroom is a pair of worn and dilapidated bedroom slippers. They're at least six years old and the backs of the heels are run down. I've asked my husband to throw them away and get new ones, but he wouldn't think of it.

Mrs. Charles Collins Schroeder, tool inspector, 2713 Elder lane, Franklin Park — On our closet shelf are two or three beautiful men's felt hats. I don't disapprove of those, but it's the one I always see on my husband's head that disturbs me. If I ever get the chance he'll be missing one well worn green hat.

Mrs. George Valanta, housewife, 328 N. Hamlin av.—About three years ago I gave my husband a leather jacket. He puts it on in the morning and leaves it on until he's ready to go to bed at night. Sometimes I wish I'd never see it again, but it seems that it never will wear out.

U.S. FLYER SAVES WOUND-CRAZED MATE AND 'FORT'

A BOMBER BASE IN ENGLAND, March 17 (AP).—Navigator Lt. Robert N. Carter of New York City, suffering from wounds, fought a wounded and dazed bombardier to prevent him from leaping overboard while returning from the American raid on southern Germany yesterday. Holding his wounded companion with one hand, he manned the bombardier's machine gun with the other.

Shortly after Carter's Flying Fortress loosed its bombs and started home the Germans attacked. An ME-109's shell exploded in the bomber's nose compartment, severely wounding the bombardier.

Tossed around like a fly in a wind tunnel by a 20 below zero gale that tore thru the shattered nose, Carter was forced to fight back the bombardier who, crazed by the pain of wounds in his arms and chest, attempted to hurl himself from the plane.

Carter finally managed to pull the bombardier back into the plane while he manned a machine gun to fight off German fighters who had jumped the crippled bomber.

Then, wounded in the forehead and arms himself and braving the bitter cold without gloves, Carter stayed with his companion during the three hour return trip.

NORTHWARD TO ASIA AND EUROPE.

Northwest Airlines, Inc., has applied for authorization to fly its planes northwestward from Chicago to Alaska and onward to Peiping and Calcutta. This is the short route to Asia. Other air lines are planning to fly the short route to Europe, by way of Labrador, Greenland, and Iceland.

It is hard for us who were brought up in the era of intercontinental communication by sea to realize how important these northern routes will become in the era of the airplane. The ordinary map does not tell the story. To understand it, it is necessary to study a map which has the north pole as its center, or, better still, to work with a globe. At once it becomes apparent that most of the world's land mass is well to the north of the equator and that the shortest lines between us and the populous areas of the continents across the Atlantic and Pacific do not lead eastward or westward, but northward.

It follows, of course, that to take advantage of this opportunity we must have arrangements with Canada that will permit our planes to follow these new routes without hindrance. Our state department has no more important task before it than the completing of an understanding with our neighbor to the north, which will give our airplane companies all the rights they need to operate over Canada to Europe and Asia. This is the time to close the deal, when, as allies in the war, the countries are most conscious of the ties of friendship.

The Canadian treaty comes first, but almost equally important are corresponding treaties with our allies in Asia and Europe. They are all heavily in our debt for lend-lease and other favors conferred and all of them hope for much more of the same sort. They should be found receptive to any reasonable proposal from our government. They may not be so well disposed a few years hence.

BOUND IN RED TAPE.

A public official in a downstate Illinois county resigned his post less than two months after Pearl Harbor and enlisted in the navy as an apprentice seaman. Soon after his enlistment he applied for $10,000 in the government's national service life insurance and made an allotment from his pay to meet the premiums. The following month he was commissioned and after a short training period was sent to the Alaskan area on active duty, where he took part in the actions in the Aleutians for more than a year.

Last spring he wrote his wife asking if she had received the certificate of his insurance. She had not and so notified the veterans' bureau. Somewhat later she was sent the certificate. Last July her husband was killed. A month later the veterans' bureau informed her that she was the beneficiary of the $10,000 government life insurance policy and furnished her blank forms and instructions for perfecting her claim. She forwarded the documents requested, but heard nothing further except an occasional notice that she would start receiving payments as soon as the veterans' bureau had official notice from the navy department of her husband's death.

Recently she was informed that the insurance policy was not in effect when her husband was killed, because the deductions for premiums had been discontinued on the date when he was discharged as an apprentice seaman and given a commission. [It was a considerable period after these deductions had been stopped that she was sent the certificate which corresponds to the usual private life insurance policy.] As she says: "Both my husband and I believed the insurance was in full force and effect and why shouldn't we, receiving as I did such assurance from the administration."

Technically, the husband should have made a new allotment for the insurance premiums when he received his commission. He was only a few months out of civilian life. He had a great deal to learn in a very short time about the duties that he would be required to perform in the combat zone where he lost his life. He certainly had little time to familiarize himself with navy red tape.

This situation is not unique. The editor of the Friend of the Yank column, which appears in THE TRIBUNE, informs us that he has received four or five similar communications, and he estimates that there are several thousands of officers commissioned from the ranks who think they are insured by the government but who actually are not.

In many instances commissions have been issued in the field or at sea and machinery is not available for renewing the allotment authorizations. This apparently does not disturb the burocrats in Washington. It is possible that on technicalities they could successfully resist the claim of the Illinois widow and others like her. Certainly congress will see to it that fairness will triumph over technicalities.

SPEAKING OF INSURANCE GOUGES.

The executive committee of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks has recommended that the government extend existing war damage insurance without requiring additional premiums. Presumably the association is interested in the matter because the war risk premiums place an added burden on mortgaged property.

The government has collected nearly a quarter of a billion dollars in war damage premiums, the association says, from people who wished to protect themselves against the risk of destruction of their property in enemy air raids. Less than $5,000 has been paid out and something like $90,000 in claims appear to be in process of adjustment. The government, as insurance company, has therefore collected in premiums something like 2,500 times as much as it has paid out or may reasonably expect to pay out.

This is the same government that has been bringing anti-trust suits against fire insurance companies on the charge that they have formed a monopoly to gouge property owners. What the truth about that allegation may be we do not venture to say; but there is no lack of evidence to show that if the government were in the business, the property owners might come to regard the existing rates as ideal.

STALIN AS THE BOSS.

There is a Russian-British-American commission, set up at the Moscow conference with a general outline of principles for the handling of European questions as they arose. The commissioners were appointed. They are supposed to consult and recommend policies to their governments. That would keep the allies on a common course. The scheme has withered on the vine. Russia acts alone. Stalin did so in recognizing the Badoglio government so shortly after Mr. Churchill had said that it would be well to take a view of things from Rome before approaching any new decisions on the Italian problems.

Josef may have wanted to indicate that in his opinion Mr. Churchill was taking too long in getting there. His smile and his deportment at state dinners reveal a man of salty wit and humor. He is suspected of a secret desire to pull chairs out from under dignitaries. The British prime minister and the American chief executive must know by now that they are dealing with an Asiatic potentate who is willing to share his vodka but not his thoughts or intentions with his companions in arms. Mr. Roosevelt's meditations on the subject might be interesting. Nevertheless Mr. Stalin's latest disclosure of nonconformity—barring the possibility that the act, altho without the consultation agreed upon was by connivance—was helpful to both Mr. Churchill and our own Mr. Hull.

Mr. Hull and his subordinates have had to face a high wind of criticism from people here who have accused them of betraying democracy everywhere by their dealings with Fascists in France, Africa, and Italy; also in Spain. Stalin is the new darling of these critics. They have transformed him into a great liberal and Russia into a great democracy. They now are pawing the air.

The temporary policy of the American commanders, backed by the state department, was to deal in the war areas with officials who were able both to work with the invading forces and to issue military orders which would be obeyed and thus save American lives. Whatever were Darlan's sins against the good of France, he must have expiated some of them just before he was killed by stopping resistance to the invasion. Giraud had much to do with the success of the invasion. De Gaulle had none. De Gaulle was able to go to North Africa after his political opponents had allied themselves with Gen. Eisenhower, and only then.

De Gaulle and the French committee of liberation must attribute the authority and influence they now have in French Africa to enterprise and sacrifice in which they had no part. Criticism of the military and political policies which had these results seems shabby and unreasoned. The French people are necessarily silent. When they can speak they will form their government and they will be in luck if they are not so divided that they can produce only faction and disorder.

Criticism has followed the army and the state department into Italy, where again the authorities who were able to command obedience were recognized for what they could do. The Italian people have been promised a government of their own selection. The king and Badoglio will not be maintained by American arms. The Italian people in the small part of the country which has been liberated have exhibited nothing but division, excitement, and distrust of themselves. The Germans have stopped the allied armies. Rome, seemingly close, is far away and northern Italy is completely dominated by the Nazis. It seems a crazy idea that Italian political rivalries should be added to the military difficulties.

Until there is evidence that Stalin, in what seems to be a game of solitaire, is actually acting in collusion with Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt, it must be assumed that he is dealing with European problems as he pleases in spite of agreements. His armies are successful. It is easy for him to minimize or ignore the help he has received. It may have meant the difference between success and failure, but it does not show in European territory recovered or German divisions conquered by his allies.

Mr. Hull thought he had something at Moscow. He may not think so now. At present Stalin is the dominant man on the continent.

A GESTURE TO INDIA.

[Kansas City Star.]

Congress recently, with national approval, removed the restrictions which prevented Chinese from entering the United States except as temporary visitors, and from being eligible to citizenship. Only a handful of Chinese, 105, were involved. But the act was accepted as a gesture of good will and one calculated to remove a chronic source of irritation.

Now news comes from India that a feeling of resentment is growing because some similar gesture is not made to the people of India who remain under the old taboo. Indian troops have fought against our common enemies in Burma and North Africa. They are fighting beside American troops in Italy. There would seem to be no reason why we should not apply the quota principle to the Indians as well as to the Chinese. Only about 70 Indians would be permitted to enter every year under the quota. To make such a gesture would seem a warranted recognition of the part of the people of India in this war.

PEPYS LOOKS FOR SPRING.

18th March—Got thru the Ides of March without hearing any soothsayers or meeting any bad luck except a dental breakdown that will require the services of an architect, a bridge-builder, and a goldworker. Will go to the chair bravely, without the support of the customary beefsteak dinner.

My almanac says spring will arrive next Monday, and so have been looking for first robins. Heard one clucking, not singing, but couldn't find him, and suspect he was hiding in a chimney to keep out of the rain. Bob Becker, too, complains of a shortage of early robins in his neck of the woods, but the naturalists of Glen Ellyn, Ill., tell me their lawns are covered with these vernal harbingers.

Went to see Burton Holmes in a travel lecture, and found him bouncing back and forth across the United States like a basketball. Enjoyed his pictures of the 3,000,000 bats that fly out of a cavern in New Mexico every evening, and was reminded of the saying, "Faster than a bat out of hell." Their speed made the motion picture camera seem slightly foolish.

Came downtown the other day wearing my rain pants of Nile green, to the surprise and envy of observers. Carried them home under my arm, for whenever I display this great but neglected invention it stops raining. Gave exhibitions of putting them on and taking them off for several colleagues and cronies, including two lady journalists, who thought, up to that moment, that they had seen everything.

(Died March 19, 1921.)

A manner wherein study-desk and forum
Assumed alternate roles of mood and diction;
Urbanity, acumen, and decorum
That ranged the social scene unmarred by friction;
An art that never scorned the commonplaces
Of work, and play, and food, and joy, and sleep,
By which our race endures—such were the graces
That green in memory still his laurels keep.

Poet of Line o' Type or Two, he sounded
The keys of humor, sentiment, romance,
Whimsey, and chivalry—and these compounded
Of wisdom's worth, as well. His every glance
To high and humble proffered only good;
His clean, unvenomed pen in bounty brought
For Song's bequest a heart that understood,
A head that never harbored hostile thought.

And so—tho three-and-twenty years have shrouded
Their interlude of silence round his name,
Tho change, and chance, and circumstance have crowded
Aside the former flowerings of his fame—
New leafage and fresh blooms perenially
Will spread the shades and fragrances he blended
For all with faith to seek and eyes to see
The upward path his singing steps ascended.

The White Picket Gate.

There was something mysterious and magnetic about grandmother's white picket gate. Try how I would, I could never pass it without fumbling with its latch. And once I heard the inviting creak of its hinges, there was no turning back.

The spacious, sun-flecked lawn; the narrow gravel path wandering aimlessly between the beds of four-o'clocks, snapdragons, and tiger lilies; the broad, high veranda, square columned and austere; the massive white door with formal bronze knocker—all left me cold. My approach was much more direct.

Ducking beneath the weighted limbs of snowball bushes which showered the lawn with snowlike blossoms, I skirted the left wing of the house and made for the little summer kitchen, between the grape arbor and the cool, green orchard. Here I was sure to find grandmother baking pies and cakes, or "putting up" things from her orchard. Um-m-m! I can still taste those thick slices of homemade bread heaped high with delicious strawberry preserves fresh from the big copper kettle.

Those days are beyond recall—how well I know! But I was reminded of them the other day when a friend gave me two jars of home-packed preserves. Aw, nuts! My eyes water that way when they're tired. I wish people would quit trying to be nice to me. Hig.

TWO CROSSES.

Two crosses on a distant hill,
Two crosses standing as they will.

The Christian cross is straight and tall,
A sturdy cross of love for all;
Because One thought all men were brothers,
He sacrificed His life for others,
And died that mankind might be free
Thru this and all eternity.

The crooked cross is bent and low,
As are the crooked thoughts men know
Who give up freedom of the mind
For bondage of the vicious kind,
With pride, and prejudice, and hate,
And needless sacrifice for state.

Two crosses on a distant hill;
Two choices, make them as you will.

LET'S START AN ANTI-BURN CAMPAIGN.

THE campaign against poliomyelitis has as its chief objective, public education. The more we know about a given malady the more effectively can we fight it. It would be a wonderful thing if interested groups thruout the land could turn their attention for a single year to the prevention of burns. Every fatality from this cause represents a national disgrace. The more safeguards that can be thrown about the household and the shop, the better.

When we realize that more than eight thousand persons lose their lives annually in the United States from this type of accident, the problem becomes a challenge. There are nearly as many deaths from this source as there are cases of polio; twice as many as in an average year.

Youngsters particularly need watchful supervision. The tot loves to visit the kitchen where "things are doing." While there, he may grasp the handle of a dish filled with boiling fluid. Can't we persuade mother that the region where meals are prepared is forbidden territory? It is much more sensible to curb the adventurous spirit of our offspring than to haunt the hospital where a child is fighting for life. Even tho recovery comes the patient may be scarred or crippled permanently, despite the skill of modern surgery.

A recent study made by Wilkinson of Edinburgh reveals the factors responsible for 336 cases in that community. The majority were between one and two years of age, at the very time when wandering about the home begins. In 63 instances, sauce pans containing scalding liquids had been placed on low shelves within easy reach. Nearly 200 were accounted for by falls into scrub pails and washtubs or by reaching for and upsetting a teapot or kettle while seated on mother's lap. In all, there were 18 deaths—even with prompt treatment and the best possible care. Furthermore, disfigurements were extensive in some of the patients.

Fundamentally, the job resolves itself into the training of parents. All too often, mother is overworked and there may be more than one member of her brood within this toddling age. The fact remains, however, that with planning and the establishment of a list of places where Tommy must not go and articles which he must not touch, much suffering will be spared. This is the most intelligent way to combat a dangerous menace. Every one recognizes that tikes are careless and heedless and, until they arrive at the age where they can understand self-preservation, they must be protected from hazard. Children are amenable to discipline but parents must do their part.

The recent press story of several youngsters left alone in a locked house startled the nation. The building caught fire and none survived. We have no reason for pride when we realize that the mortality rate from burns ranks third among our casualties. As agents of disaster, excessive heat is exceeded only by traffic mishaps and falls.

How simple it would be, with the exercise of a few precautions, to reduce the number of catastrophies wellnigh to zero. State, city, and village health officers, schools, and civic clubs, may well take this matter to heart to see if something cannot be done. Our little ones are just too precious.

WORRIED WIFE.

L. S. P. writes: My husband is a returned veteran and is coming home from the hospital soon. I worried so much about him that I am a nervous wreck. I feel as if I am losing my mind. What can I do to improve my condition so that I can take proper care of him?

REPLY.

Calm down. This, of course, is easier said than done. But you must develop self-control for the sake of your hero. Otherwise there will be two invalids in the family instead of one. Counsel with your personal physician.

DIET NOT CURATIVE.

H. W. writes: What diet will cure high blood pressure?

REPLY.

Rest is more important than diet altho the latter must be well balanced and meet the necessities of existence. More food than can be utilized is detrimental. In other words, if one is overweight, a reducing program is in order. As a rule, common sait is restricted. Protein [meat] should be used in accordance with weight, height, and age—from 4 to 8 ounces daily.

GOUT.

J. H. writes: What is the cause and the cure of gout?

REPLY.

Disturbed metabolism, with the accumulation of uric acid. A diet free from purin foods [such as liver, sweetbreads, large amounts of meats, etc.] is advised.

NERVE IRRITATION.

T. T. writes: What causes vomiting without nausea?

REPLY.

We must think of irritation of the brain [for example, meningitis], contraction of the outlet of the stomach, or spasm of the lower end of the esophagus.

LOOK ELSEWHERE.

F. T. writes: Is there such a thing as a teething rash in a baby?

REPLY.

Not directly traceable to the eruption of teeth. There is some other cause.

Could Be—or Could It?

Across the daisied dome of night
Parades a penciled line of light
And who is wise enough to guess
The riddle of its loveliness?

A shooting star? A rowdy world
For some rude breach of manners hurled
Out of the decent galaxy
To pay a proper penalty?

Or has some old discouraged earth
Looked down on this one, weighed the worth
Of all its follies multiplied,
And so committed suicide?

Improbable. Such things occur
Mostly in dreams. It's likelier
A god, disdaining etiquet,
Tossed out a lighted cigaret.

In the Memory of Man.

Let the historians make of this what they will, but the second grade class in Freeport had just finished reading a story, "The Made Over House," in which an old house was remodeled step by step until it became a delightful home for a family.

At its conclusion a 7 year old leaned forward and said, "I saw a movie like that. Jack Benny's wife bought an old house way out in the country, and every time old Jack Benny stepped on a board, wham!—down he'd go."

"Yes," the teacher agreed. "I remember that picture, too. But," realizing it was a year old and the child must have seen it when he was six, "do you remember the name of it?"

The child thought and thought. At last he raised his head. "Yes," he said triumphantly. "President Roosevelt Slept Here."

Candor.

A father was showing his small son thru the Lincoln park zoo. After the tour had ended in the monkey house, he began to catechize the boy on what he had learned:

"What do lions do?"

"Lions roar."

"Right! And tigers?"

"Tigers snarl."

"Right again. Now, what do monkeys do?"

"Monkeys . . ." hesitated the child, glancing about at the wry specimens on exhibit. Then, wrinkling his nose, he came thru with the triumphant answer;

"Monkeys stink!"

Learning the Hard Way.

The lieutenant at Camp Chaffee, Ark., was teaching a class of machine gunners the nomenclature of the .50 caliber gun. Kelly, a towering, inarticulate private from West Virginia, was being quizzed on what he had just been told. "Now," said the lieutenant, "what is this piece called?" holding up one piece. "Well, sir, I don't know," Kelly said. "I'll tell you what it is," the lieutenant said. "It's the firing pin spring retaining pin. Have you got it?" "Yes, sir," said Kelly. "I have." "All right," said the lieutenant, "what is it?" Kelly shook his head. "It's the firing pin spring retaining pin!" The lieutenant began the tongue twist again. "Got it?" Kelly had it, but he didn't. After two more attempts, the officer said in exasperation, "Kelly, can you remember anything? Do you know what day this is?" "No, sir," Kelly replied glumly. "I don't keep up with the days around here."

Brothers.

"I noticed a sailor running down the street as tho something terrible had happened. I ran to see what it was, and there was no one in sight except a young man coming from the opposite direction. As they met, the sailor started laughing, punching, pummeling him, as boys do when they are playing. Not a word was said, just shouts and laughter and scuffling. It went on and on. Later the same evening I saw the two, who looked like twins, walking back, still without a word, but this time carrying a heavy suitcase. . . . Yet all my life I will see the expression on the boys' faces when they met and hear their joyous laughter."

DEVALUING THE A COUPONS.

Naperville, Ill., March 15.—Following the communistic thinking of the misdealers that all commodities ought to be rationed, whether necessary or not, Chester Bowles, head of the OPA, announces that the value of gasoline coupons for A card holders will be reduced by one-third. He said: "We make these reductions reluctantly," but offered the excuse that "critical demands will be made on our limited supply."

He failed to state that the alleged limited supply is limited because he and his predecessors have repeatedly refused to authorize price increases for crude petroleum notwithstanding the warnings given by oil authorities almost two years ago that if producers were forced to drill wells at a loss there would soon be a shortage of all petroleum products. Another OPA official, Shad Poller, moans about the black market and says that if the OPA doesn't receive the support of the public in stopping the black market the whole rationing structure of the OPA will be threatened.

When the prohibition law was in force the present misdealers were loud in their denunciation of its evil effects. They said that a law which did not have public support could not be enforced and they succeeded in getting the 18th amendment repealed by adoption of the 21st, Dec. 5, 1933. Does any sane person think that the public is in sympathy with any unnecessary rationing? PAW says that the present cut in gasoline is unnecessary and many authorities say that rationing of pork and sugar are unnecessary. Instead of stopping the black market, the OPA could hardly find a better way to encourage it.

Political expediency after the Presidential nominations may cause the misdealers to increase the value of coupons to even greater value than before the cut, in the hope that the sucker public will be lead to believe that Roosevelt and his henchmen are great benefactors.

CHANNEL PIRACY?

Chicago, March 14.—In today's TRIBUNE, it is reported that the National Broadcasting company has applied for a license on the No. 1 television channel which Zenith Radio corporation has occupied for five years. It seems that company doesn't have any scruples about the methods used to obtain a license for television broadcasting. Zenith has done a good deal of television research thru operation of its station for five years and should not be forced to operate on a different channel in favor of a company which is interested primarily in extending its monopoly to television broadcasting.

If NBC wants to operate a television station in Chicago they can do so without infringing on the rights of Zenith. They can apply for a license to operate on a different channel which is what any other company would have to do. I know that the employes here at Zenith will stand in back of Mr. McDonald's protest to the application as voiced by many of them after reading the report this morning in THE TRIBUNE.

"REPUBLICAN LEADERSHIP."

Cleveland, O., March 12.—Your editorial entitled "Republican Leadership" is timely and it is indeed gratifying to learn that some of our members of congress have the courage to expose existing conditions. It will be interesting to see who vote for extension of lend-lease, now up for hearings, and to hear their explanations to the voters a couple of months later. The members of congress must take the blame for such actions if they vote for the bill and not blame the one who asks for it.

HARLEY DONCASTER.

UNFAIR TO MIDWEST.

Dixon, Ill., March 14.—I want to thank and compliment you on the fine editorial, "Where Your Gasoline Ration Went." The gasoline supply is in the country or is procurable.

To cut the middle west and the west down to the same ration as the east is unjust. The country in this section is not as thickly populated as the east. This means more miles have to be traveled to do the same amount of business.

MIDWESTERNER.

LESS GAS, SAME VEHICLE TAX.

Chicago, March 15.—Why do we little "A" card drivers have to pay nearly ¾ cent a mile for the dubious pleasure of driving on Chicago streets. That is the cost of a vehicle tax if you confine yourself to driving in the city entirely. At least one-half of my limited weekend driving is out of the city limits. Then the price goes up to 1½ cents a mile.

FORTUNE TELLING AND WITCHCRAFT.

Chicago, March 6.—1. Will you please tell me if it is lawful to tell fortunes by reading the cards for a voluntary offering? 2. Is there a law prohibiting the practice of black magic?

B. L.

1. The city code forbids giving such readings for a fee. Calling the fee a voluntary offering would not successfully evade the ordinance.

2. We assume that by black magic you mean witchcraft. There has been no prosecution for witchcraft in this country since the early craze at Salem, Mass.

DRAFT THREAT TO GET FARMERS IN AAA REVEALED

'Sign Up or Else—' Edict Issued in Indiana.

Marion, Ind., March 17 [Special].—National selective service headquarters was reported here today to have promised an immediate investigation into complaints of local farmers that the Marion draft board had used the threat of military service to try to coerce them into signing up with the agricultural adjustment agency's crop program.

Samuel Blinn, manager of a Grant county dairy farm, said he had written a letter of protest to Rep. Harness [R., Ind.] about the apparent concerted action of the two authorities. In reply, the congressman said the national draft director had promised a prompt inquiry and had declared the AAA is without authority in selective service matters, the farmer reported.

Warned to Report to AAA.

Blinn, who is 35, married, and the father of two children, was one of about 600 farmers in the county who received the following letter from Grant county draft board No. 2:

"You are hereby directed to report to the United States department of agriculture war board at the office of the AAA in Marion, Ind., within five days after you have signed up at your township AAA meeting and obtain a certified copy of your 1944 production.

"Bring this certified copy to this office. It is very important that you obtain this certificate as directed since in its absence you may be placed in class 1-A and held for military service."

The department of agriculture war board has been ascertaining the productivity of farmers for use in determining their qualifications for deferment from military service.

Taken as A Threat.

In this connection the AAA has instructed its clients to obtain from agency offices a certificate of their production goal in 1944. Farmers not affiliated with the AAA could obtain similar statements from their county department of agriculture agent.

The significance of the draft board letter, in the opinion of the objecting farmers, is that it directs all Grant county farmers to "sign up at your township AAA meeting" under threat of being "held for military service."

It has been pointed out that the same man, John Newby, is chairman of both the county AAA and the USDA war board. Other members of the war board are Guy T. Harris, county agriculture department agent; Ancil Strange, secretary of the Production Credit association, and Glen W. Little, head of the farm security administration office here. Harris has been here six months and Little only 10 days.

In disclosing the protest to his congressman, Binn said he was "tired of receiving orders from every burocrat, even those without authority." In his letter to Rep. Harness, the farmer said in part:

"I would suggest to you that it is time to find out if congress granted to the selective service commission this right to order the farmers of this country to sign up for participation in one of the New Deal's disgraces and thereby be classed as a supporter of that burocracy against their better judgment and their will."

Ration Pressure Used.

Meantime, Rep. Brown [R., O.] said in Washington, D. C., today that members of congress had received numerous complaints from farmers that they were being required to agree to coöperate in the AAA farm program as a condition to obtaining gasoline and oil allotments.

Racial Discrimination Study Asked by Dewey

Albany, N. Y., March 17 (AP).—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today proposed creation of a temporary state commission to make a full study of racial and religious discrimination, which he said the war had developed "in many ugly forms." He made the proposal in a special message to the legislature.

How to make a WAR GARDEN

BY BEN MARKLAND.

In this and succeeding articles in this series vegetable varieties will be discussed, with emphasis on types which have proved most successful in the gardens on The Tribune farm, Wheaton. During the last 15 years the farm gardener has cultivated almost every variety of every vegetable which can be grown in this area. Varieties of inferior flavor or low productivity have been eliminated, and those which have stood the test of comparison have been retained. This series will contain recommendations of the superior varieties.

HEAD LETTUCE—Big Boston is a head lettuce of excellent texture and "butterhead" flavor. It is not often available in food stores, since it does not stand shipment as well as the New York and other more common varieties. This variety heads well, and thrives on a variety of soil types. The seed is hardy and can withstand any spring weather condition likely to be faced after April 1.

Big Boston produces best when planted in April or early May, but does not thrive with midsummer planting. It can be replanted after Aug. 1 for autumn consumption, but should not be planted late in the season unless watering facilities are available. It requires a fairly constant supply of moisture and the gardener who has no facilities for sprinkling should depend upon New York variety for August plantings. This latter type is larger and coarser than Big Boston, and less affected by drouth.

Bibb head lettuce was planted in the farm gardens last year for the first time and was judged so high in flavor that it will be planted annually. The heads are small [about the size of a man's fist] and dark green in color. Like Big Boston, it must be planted in April or August, since it does not germinate well during hot weather. The tender thinnings from the seeded rows can be used as leaf lettuce. Bibb is a practical lettuce for small gardens because the heads can be left every 10 inches in the rows.

A head lettuce introduced last year is Great Lakes. It is highly recommended for all season planting, since it does not have the tendency of most head lettuce varieties to go to seed as soon as hot weather strikes. It is an Iceberg type, with very compact, heavy heads. The seed is comparatively high priced.

The regular feature, "Day by Day on the Farm," will replace this series, starting Monday. Data on vegetable gardening, based on work done in the farm gardens, will be included in the farm diary.

SABATH AGAIN BLOCKS PROBE OF PROPAGANDA

Foils Will of Others on Committee.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 17.—Chairman Sabath [D., Ill.] of the rules committee today temporarily stymied a proposed nonpartisan investigation of New Deal propaganda among American troops overseas, but a majority of the committee indicated an intention of approving the inquiry in the near future.

Rep. Brown [R., O.] is sponsor of the resolution which has been in a rules committee pigeonhole for six weeks. Brown charged on the house floor this week that Sabath was endeavoring to stifle the investigation.

Brown told the committee that the purpose of the inquiry is to insure soldiers abroad getting fair, unbiased news on events at home. He cited numerous examples of what he said were prejudiced reports on public issues, such as the soldiers vote legislation and the tax bill, issued by the office of war information.

80,000 Bulletins a Week.

"OWI sends 80,000 news bulletins a week to the troops," he said, "and sponsors 3,200 different radio programs a week. In addition it furnishes news and information to 3,000 foreign newspapers. The agency has many aliens on its pay rolls and by its own admission 1,700 of these employes have not been cleared in any way by the FBI or civil service commission. It admits many of its employes are men of radical tendencies. Congress has been held up to scorn in these OWI reports to the troops."

Rep. Fish [R., N. Y.] said "It [the OWI] is an outright communistic organization, according to charges of both CIO and AFL."

"There are millions of soldiers overseas," commented Rep. Halleck [R., Ind.], "who must have impartial news on the forthcoming campaign if they are to vote intelligently. All they want is a fair statement of what's going on at home.

Asks Testimony by Davis.

"The investigating committee, of course, can't censor what is sent out but they can set up a surveillance of OWI which will help prevent the issuance of biased propaganda."

The committee postponed action temporarily at Sabath's insistence that Elmer Davis, OWI director, should be allowed to testify regarding Brown's charges. Interviews with members of the committee, however, disclosed that Sabath was practically alone in his opposition to approval of the resolution.

PLAN 10 PARLEYS ON DEFERMENTS FOR FARM MEN

Ten regional meetings of selective service boards and farm war boards will be held in Illinois, starting Tuesday, as a result of President Roosevelt's recent directive to reconsider all agricultural deferments.

"We recognize the need to coördinate the activities of selective service and agriculture," said Paul G. Armstrong, state director of selective service. "I am sure a better and more effective understanding will be promoted by full discussion of the mutual problems of the two interests, including the new agricultural deferment policies recently adopted by state headquarters."

Meetings scheduled and the dates are: Effingham, Tuesday; Marion, Wednesday; East St. Louis, Thursday; Decatur, March 27; Jacksonville, March 28; Quincy, March 29; Galesburg, March 30; Bloomington, April 3; Aurora, April 4; Freeport, April 5. A Cook county meeting will be held later.

Top honors among the midshipmen were won by Judson E. Goodrich of Topeka, Kan., leader in navigation, ordnance, and gunnery, and Richard J. Southall of Kansas City, Mo., leader in seamanship and damage control. The principal address was made by Rear Adm. Arthur S. Carpender, commandant of the 9th naval district.

JUDGE PROTECTS WAR WORKER IN OPA ICEBOX ROW

Judge John Prystalski of Circuit court yesterday continued to April 7 the refrigerator case involving two citizens and the office of price administration. The two defendants are Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Peterson, 1133 Oak av., Evanston.

Last fall the Petersons sold their six year old refrigerator, which cost $237, to Joseph La Grow, 4019 Congress st., for $142.50. Later he discovered that the OPA ceiling on the box was $57, and he sought an $85 refund. The Petersons said they'd buy it back at the sale price, but La Grow refused, and sued for triple the $85 as damages under the OPA code.

In court yesterday, Mrs. Peterson appeared alone, saying her husband was at work in a war plant. She formally filed an answer. Her husband also should have filed an answer, but hadn't, and a default judgment could have been entered against him. Judge Prystalski refused to do this, however. Instead he instructed Mrs. Peterson to engage a lawyer to file sufficient answers for a hearing April 7.

8 New Spinal Meningitis Cases Reported; 3 in City

In the 24 hour period up to 9 a. m., three new cases were reported in the city, three in Park Ridge and two elsewhere. There were no deaths. The city total since Jan. 1 now stands at 188, and the county total at 49. There have been 33 deaths in Chicago, and four in the county.

SON OF BREWERY CHIEF ACCUSED OF DRAFT FRAUD

St. Louis, Mo., March 17 (AP).—Presley S. Anheuser, 32, son of W. Fred Anheuser, vice president of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., was indicted by a federal grand jury today on a charge of obtaining a draft deferment thru allegedly false affidavits.

The indictment said Anheuser had been given an agricultural classification of 3-C by his Clayton draft board on representations that he had devoted his full time to farming since 1938.

ASSAILS HOUSE GROUP'S DUCKING PALESTINE ISSUE

BY LAURENCE BURD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 17.—Rep. Compton [R., Conn.] today assailed the house foreign affairs committee for "bowing to administration pressure" in pigeonholing a resolution urging Palestine be kept open for entrance of Jewish refugees.

Under a recent white paper issued by the British government, entry of Jews into Palestine will be banned after March 31. Compton is co-author of the house resolution advocating continuance of Palestine as a haven for Hebrew refugees.

The congressman issued his criticism after Committee Chairman Bloom [D., N. Y.] said in a brief statement earlier today that "advice and information given to us by those responsible for the conduct of the war have convinced the committee that action upon the resolution at this time would be unwise."

Express Fear of Arabs.

Bloom's statement followed a closed committee session at which John J. McCloy, assistant secretary of war, appeared. McCloy submitted a letter from War Secretary Stimson, who said passage of the resolution "would be prejudicial to the successful prosecution of the war."

It is understood Stimson's opposition is based on fears that adoption of the measure would antagonize the Arab population in Palestine. A similar resolution was recently shelved in the senate foreign relations committee.

"Is it a genuine fear of an Arab uprising," Compton asked, "or is it merely a pipe dream of a pipe line that prompts this appeasement of the Arab puppets?" [The administration recently announced plans to build a 165 million dollar pipe line in and near Arabia at United States' expense.]

Doubts Wisdom of Move.

The congressman said there was dubious wisdom in resigning decisions on diplomatic matters to military authorities and charged the administration, by its stand on the Palestine matter, has "signed a promissory note of future subservience to alien or selfish interests."

"Let's have the truth," he said. "I do not think real danger to the allied cause lies in the simple and honest wording of the Palestine resolutions, but if it does, let our war leaders state that danger openly. If there is powerful and mysterious opposition to the resolution right here in Washington let the power be disclosed and the mystery dissipated. A public statement is due the American people."

Oh, Yeah?

"The Secret of Germany's Strength and Moral Superiority Is That the Public Is Always Told the Truth."

Hot Weather Head Lettuce

Lettuce Great Lakes. 75 days. Of the Iceberg type, bred to make tight heads in hot weather, this variety is actually too good. So reluctant is it to run to seed that almost no seed was produced last year, when it won top place, with a bronze medal in the All-America trials for new varieties. What little seed there is naturally is high-priced. Offered only in packets. Pkt., 40c.

'Good Night, Sweet Prince'

By Gene Fowler

[Copyright: 1943, 1944: By Gene Fowler: Published by arrangement with the Viking Press, Inc.]

SYNOPSIS: John Barrymore, born at Philadelphia Feb. 14, 1882, promptly was nicknamed "Greengoose" because he looked "just like the pretty lad in the story book." As a schoolboy, however, he was unprepossessing. His father, Maurice, and his mother, Georgianna Drew Barrymore, were both famous stage personalities. The grandmother, Louisa Lane Drew [Mum Mum to the children], was a distinguished actress, and her sons—Sidney [Uncle Googan] and John—were increasingly successful. The Barrymore children were steeped in theatrical atmosphere from the beginning. The family began to break up, however, with the death of Georgie and Mum Mum and the remarriage of the father. Ethel's stage debut was a tremendous success. John decided he wanted to be an artist. His sister got him a job as a newspaper cartoonist, but he soon was fired.

INSTALMENT XII.

"BLUE FORGET-ME-NOTS."

An artist, of course, needs a studio. Jack managed to find a narrow room with north light on the top floor of a brownstone house that once had been a mansion. It stood on the uptown side of Fourteenth st., near Sixth av.

When Jack informed his father that he now had a studio, Maurice promised to send him some furniture. The studio was bare, except for a sink, a gas plate, and an old stewpan. Jack had to sleep on the floor, and on cold nights wore his overcoat with newspapers tucked inside it.

The "furniture" that Maurice finally sent his son consisted of about a hundred books, including several ancient cookbooks, and nothing else. One evening, toward midnight, Jack came upon his newspaper friend, the huge Frank Butler. He learned that the journalist had been evicted from the Aulic hotel for nonpayment of rent.

Butler had pawned the removable gold crown of a front tooth for 70 cents. Now he had but 15 cents left of this treasury. He had spent the rest for drinks. He was hungry, and had no place to sleep on this chilly night.

"If you will feed me," Jack said, "I'll shelter you at my studio. You'll fall in love with the place."

"I accept the proffer," said Mr. Butler. "It is my winter of discontent."

Against Jack's better judgment, Butler insisted upon buying a copy of the Telegraph, a newspaper which cost 10 cents before midnight and 5 cents in the morning. A newsstand dealer insisted on charging Butler 10 cents, but after the journalist assured him that he was Mr. Blakely Hall, owner of the newspaper, the dealer grudgingly accepted a nickel.

With but 10 cents left, the friends decided that Butler go to a lunchroom where hot cakes and two cups of coffee might be had for a dime. Jack was to wait outside, drooling, until Butler ordered the second cup of coffee and finished half the portion of cakes. This was done, then Jack entered the lunchroom excitedly to whisper into Butler's ear. Butler seemed stunned for a moment, then sprang from his stool, calling out, "No! My God! It can't be! My poor, poor, sainted mother!"

Jack then sat down, gulped the residue of cakes and coffee, and endured heartburn for six hours.

When Butler arrived with Jack at the studio and saw its lack of furniture, he bellowed, "Sold out! Rooked!" But he finally lay down on the floor among Maurice's books, and next day sold a story of his "experiences amidst old authors."

"I am not a constant reader of the calendar," John Barrymore said to Lionel one day, "but Uncle Jack informs me that I am 21 years old."

"What do you propose to do about it?" asked Lionel. "Vote?"

Jack replied sadly, "It begins to look as tho I'll have to succumb to the family curse, acting."

Lionel was properly sympathetic. "I know just how you feel." He sighed like a ferryboat. "There is no escape for us. We are in the cul-de-sac of tradition." Lionel had a drink of red wine, then asked, "Did Uncle Jack finally influence you?"

"Partly Uncle Jack, but also my stomach. It abhors a vacuum."

The brothers were sitting in the Café Boulevard on 2d av. They did not meet often, but when they did, they always came to the Café Boulevard. There were three reasons for their patronage of this particular café: the Hungarian food, the gypsy music, and two sisters from Budapest, twins.

The Barrymore brothers never visited these sweethearts elsewhere than at the Café Boulevard. The romance carried over from one visit to the next, no matter for how long a time the young men might fail to appear. It seemed an ideal arrangement, poetic.

Whenever the Barrymores bobbed up, the twins lost interest in other suitors. They would join the brothers, have red wine, and the orchestra would play "Blue Forget-me-nots."

The personnel of the orchestra constantly changed, but the white hussar uniforms did not. Consequently, these garments never fitted the wearers, except in the case of Prince Driga. The prince was first violinist and a fixture at the Café Boulevard. He had married into money, and wore many rings and smelled oppressively of perfume. He was delighted because the Barrymores had learned from the twins how to ask for "Blue Forget-me-nots" in Hungarian.

The Barrymores were a little sad tonight. First of all, the twins were absent. It seems that they had been offended by something Jack had done the last time he and Lionel had visited the café. Jack had brought a Scotch girl with him.

"They are terribly jealous," Prince Driga informed the brothers. "In our country, sweethearts are sweethearts."

"But the Scotch girl was only my model," Jack told Prince Driga. "In fact, the only model in town I can get to pose free of charge. Besides, she brings oatmeal for breakfast."

"It makes no difference," Prince Driga replied.

"Look here, Prince," said Lionel. "I didn't bring anybody to this place, Scotch or otherwise. Where's my girl?"

The prince flourished his bow. "Gone! Gone!"

Prince Driga began tuning his instrument, plucking the strings with each word. "In our country when both sisters love, both sisters also hate, and also kill, or die."

He had a far away look. "I shall play something for your lost love? Yes?"

"Hell, yes!" said Jack. He had some red wine, then said above the gypsy music: "Lionel, if I do stumble onto the stage, I'll not be any good. Then I'll have to come back to painting."

Lionel had some more red wine. He smacked his lips, wiggled his brows, then said, "You'll certainly fail, unless you try. But if you try . . ." he paused for a long moment, then repeated, "if you try . . ," another pause, "you're hooked forever."

"Let's go drag the Hudson river for our little sweethearts," Jack said. "Maybe we can resuscitate at least one of them."

NAB DESERTER OFFICER WITH PRO-NAZI IDEAS

Second Lt. Charles Burton Kunz, 26, a member of a wealthy and prominent Minneapolis [Minn.] family, was turned over to military authorities last night after he had been arrested in a south side flat with his wife and baby, 9 months old, as a deserter from the army since April, 1942.

Lt. Charles B. Kunz.

Spencer J. Drayton, head of the Chicago FBI office, said Kunz admitted he was a deserter and quoted him as saying he had no desire to fight against Japan because Japan is fighting for the same principles as the United States.

Drayton said agents found several letters written by Kunz while he was a soldier and while he was courting his wife, showing Kunz's pro-Nazi and Japanese attitude.

One letter said Drayton, read: "If maybe we could live in Germany; and Japan in this war it would be better, I suppose, because I think they are right. Then after the war maybe we could live in Germany, at least fighting on that side we would have something good to fight for."

In another letter, Kunz wrote: "We have made our complete and final decision with regard to our position in this war. That decision is to do absolutely as little as possible to give any aid to the United States forces in winning it."

OPA to Revise City Liquor Price Ceilings as Tax Rises

The office of price administration announced yesterday it was working on new price ceilings for liquor, in bottles and by the drink, to include the new 25 per cent excise tax on food and drinks served in cabarets and taverns. James J. Lenoir, chief counsel of the OPA restaurant branch in Washington, D. C., said the new schedules for Chicago would be available next week.

CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE:
12 ★★★★ Sat., March 18, 1944.

VETERANS 'BILL OF RIGHTS' WINS COMMITTEE O. K.

Senate Vote of 3 Billion Program Assured.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 17.—The omnibus veterans' aid bill, popularly known as the "G. I. Bill of Rights," providing educational, employment, and financial assistance to discharged war veterans of both sexes, was unanimously approved by the senate finance committee today.

Sen. Clark [D., Mo.], chairman of the subcommittee which held hearings on the measure, said the bill would be considered by the senate next week after the independent offices appropriations bill is voted on. Passage of the veterans' bill was assured by its sponsorship by 81 of the senate's 96 members.

Program to Cost 3 Billions.

Provisions of the bill, which is supported by the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars, will cost the American taxpayers about 3 billion dollars, it was estimated today by Sen. George [D., Ga.], finance committee chairman.

George told reporters that between 7 and 10 per cent of the returning veterans would want to take advantage of the educational opportunities authorized in the bill, basing his estimate on veterans' administration experience after the last war. This would cost about 1 billion dollars, he said.

Readjustment allowances to unemployed veterans would account for another 1 billion dollars, George said, and hospital construction and other costs would account for the third billion.

Year's Schooling Provided.

Under the educational provisions of the bill, a veteran with a minimum of six months of service, honorably discharged, would be permitted to attend a vocational school or academic institution for one year, the government paying up to $500 tuition fees and $50 monthly subsistence, plus allowances if the veteran has dependents.

Longer periods of education up to a total of four years would be permitted, provided the veteran had served a similar period in the army or navy and satisfactorily completed the first year of schooling.

Loans up to $1,000 would be granted veterans for the purchase or construction of a home, farm, or business property. To receive a farm loan, the veteran's ability to succeed in farming would be decided by the secretary of agriculture.

Employment assistance would be provided by the creation of a veterans placement service board within the United States employment service. Public employment services would be required to give preference to veterans to be eligible for federal aid.

Readjustment compensation would be paid to veterans for periods up to 52 weeks. Payments would total $15 a week, with additional allowances up to a total of $25 for those with dependents. To be eligible, veterans would have to reside within the United States and be able and willing to accept "suitable employment." Veterans would not be required to join, resign from, or refrain from joining a labor union to accept such employment.

Three Injured When Bus and Street Car Collide

Three persons were injured, none seriously, last evening when a westbound Jackson blvd. bus and a northbound Chicago Surface Lines car collided at Clark st. and Jackson blvd. Those injured were passengers on the bus. Mrs. Frances Mascari, 39, of 4132 Congress st., and B. F. O'Kane, 28, of 1310 Lunt av., were taken to St. Luke's hospital. Miss Laverne Montana of 4317 Adams st., was taken to her home.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

U. O. T. writes: "I have been running a rural blacksmith shop for years, but it appears that because there are two blacksmiths in the immediate area and the other fellow has several small children I will soon be called in the draft. Do you think my experience might be used in one of the services? What one should I try to get into? I have been successively classified 2-A, 1-A, and 2-A, which expires March 12."

ANSWER: Probably your blacksmithing has been quite general and has involved everything from shoeing horses to repairing machinery. At the present time it would appear that you ought to investigate the possibilities of a rating in the navy ship repair unit as a blacksmith. The duties would possibly require ability to anneal and work copper and brass; draw out, harden, temper, anneal and caseharden metals used in ship construction and repair. It might be necessary for you to make miscellaneous forgings for emergency repairs to machinery damaged in battle. In some instances it might even be necessary for you to forge, harden or temper, or dress various cutting tools and hand tools. Skill in all of these probably would warrant a rating of chief metalsmith with base pay of $126 with 20 per cent for sea duty or overseas assignments, plus allowances. Other ratings range down thru third class at $78 plus per month. For further information, visit the nearest navy recruiting office.

H. T. O. writes: "I heard there were to be more promotions to commissioned status of enlisted men in the navy. Do you know anything about it?"

ANSWER: Probably you refer to the announcement of the navy, Jan. 27, stating that, due to the enormous expansion in numbers of landing craft and destroyer escorts, etc., more men will be commissioned from the ranks. Men in the navy who have had at least two years of college and one year of sea duty are eligible for appointment if otherwise qualified. The other route to a commission is thru the V-7 program, which requires four months. The outlines of qualifications can be found in AlNav23, issued Jan. 27. See your personnel officer.

B. L. W. writes: "I have been advised by a friend who says he read it in a national magazine that the cost of moving the family effects for service men from one point to another would be defrayed by the government. Does this apply, for example, to a draftee who is to be inducted?"

ANSWER: The article your friend read failed to make clear that it is only when the service man is being "transferred from one permanent station to another under orders" that the government will defray moving expense "for one move during war time." The inductee foots his own bill.

B. M. asks: "What is the definition of sea duty as used in the severance pay act?"

ANSWER: Sea duty is defined as service afloat and in the air beyond the three mile limit, regardless of the period involved.

WPB DENIES CITY PLEA FOR WATER PLANT PRIORITY

Lack Materials for Filtration Works.

Ignoring Chicago's health plea, backed by the United States public health service, the war production board in Washington, D. C., yesterday refused to grant priorities to enable the city to complete the water filtration plant at 79th st. and the lake.

The plant, which was begun in 1938 and would have been finished last year except for priorities, is designed to serve 1½ million residents of the south side, who for years have been compelled to drink water polluted by northern Indiana industrial wastes.

Final Section Needed.

Two-thirds of the plant, including coagulation and sedimentation facilities, will be completed by late summer or early fall, but these sections will remove only 70 per cent of common water bacteria. The final section, the water filtration section, would remove the remaining 30 per cent of bacteria, and it is this section for which Washington denied vital priorities.

The refusal came in a letter to Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt from Arthur E. Gorman, director of the water division office of war utilities.

Gorman is a former employe of the city engineer's office. He informed Hewitt that the WPB had refused to approve priorities for the materials needed in the filtration section, mainly underdrains, and concrete wash water troughs.

Turned Down by WMC.

The request for the priorities, Gorman explained, had been submitted to the war man power commission, and the WMC had recommended denial.

Hewitt said he was surprised at the rejection. Very little, if any, of the materials needed are critical ones, he said. Valves are the only material that might be considered critical, he asserted.

The city has spent $15,241,315 on the 79th st. plant, or 62 per cent of the total cost. Completion of the project has been considered a must from a health standpoint, said Hewitt and City Engineer Willis W. De Berard.

COMMUNIST FOE WINS ELECTION AT STUDEBAKER

Patriotic workers at the Chicago Studebaker plant, 5555 Archer av., were elated yesterday over the results of a union run-off election in which Gertrude Selig [alias Giles], a Communist, was defeated for the office of recording secretary of local 998 of the United Automobile Workers [CIO].

Miss Selig, who was the incumbent secretary, and believed to be the real boss of the union, was defeated by Fred Weed, the right wing candidate, by a vote of 1,021 to 737.

Members of the conservative slate also won the three other offices at stake in the run-offs. Robert Russell defeated Walter Witkowski for financial secretary, 891 to 872; William Newbauer beat Ike Sears for a term as two year trustee, 985 to 762, and Hank Wawrusiewicz defeated Arthur Pearson for sergeant at arms, 918 to 827.

STRIKE STRANDS BUS PASSENGERS IN PITTSBURGH

Greyhound Workers Walk Out.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 17 (AP).—A strike of 400 to 500 drivers and other employes today halted all east and west bus travel out of Pittsburgh on Greyhound buses to points as far distant as New York and Chicago, H. S. Crawford, regional manager of the company, stated.

The walkout affected what is known as the company's "Pittsburgh district," which has some 700 employes.

At Cleveland, headquarters of the company, officials said "it is unlikely the Pittsburgh district's strike will spread here."

Union Ignores Arbitration.

Crawford said the walkout was precipitated by the discharge of two drivers here because the men refused to take their buses out. He said the management had offered to submit the dispute to arbitration as provided in its contract, but that the union had not accepted the offer.

Regarding the men discharged the union claims one was fired for refusing to make an extra run after completing his regular tour of duty. The other, the union said, did not report for work because he was ill.

The union said the cessation of work was "not a strike but just a prolonged meeting of our members which has not been adjourned and won't be for some time."

Hundreds Left Stranded.

The strikers are members of the AFL Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railways and Motor Coach employes. Union officials could not be reached immediately for a statement.

Hundreds of passengers were left stranded at the Pittsburgh terminal. The company announced it was trying to arrange train transportation for those caught here.

Other bus lines using the Pittsburgh terminal were not affected.

DILL PICKLERS REVIVE CLUB AFTER 10 YEARS

Chicago's once famous Dill Pickle club, dormant for more than 10 years, came to life again last night in its old quarters in Tooker pl., officially designated as 867½ N. Dearborn st.

Once the gathering place of Tower Town bohemians, including parlor pinks, radicals and the intelligentsia of the near north side, the club passed out of existence in 1932 after an operation for taxes by the internal revenue collector. The late Dr. Ben Reitmen was one of its major attractions.

At last night's rebirth, Arthur D'Miko was informally named president. David Tallman, a member of the old club, said the new club's function will be to elevate the minds of the people to a lower level.

Bessie Cowles and Lt. Armour to Be Married Next Saturday

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHEN Lt. Lester Armour Jr. of the army air forces was given a leave from his duties at Wendover field, Utah, next week, it was decided suddenly that he and Miss Bessie Cowles would be married next Saturday, the day after he is expected in Lake Forest. The wedding will be a small one at 5 p. m. in the Lake Forest residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Knight C. Cowles, with only the families present. A larger reception will follow.

In the immediate family circle will be the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Armour Sr., and grandmother, Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, and the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Frances D. Smith of Colorado Springs, Colo. Also present will be the bride's sister, Mrs. Joseph N. Greene Jr., of Ottawa, Ont., whose husband is serving in the United States diplomatic corps there, and the bridegroom's sisters, Mrs. Gerald V. Hollins Jr. and Lolita Armour. One of his brothers, Stanton, is on duty with the navy, as is the bridegroom's father, Comdr. Armour, who is stationed in England, but another brother, Vernon, is expected to be here from St. Mark's school.

Mrs. Hollins, Mrs. Greene, and Miss Ann Carpenter will be the bride's attendants. Lt. Armour and his bride will return immediately to his Utah post to remain until he goes overseas.

Other Wedding News.

The coming week-end will be a busy one for Mrs. Hollins, who is to serve as a bridesmaid Friday when Miss Mary Seymour Adams is married to Lt. [j. g.] George B. Young, son of Mrs. Karl Young of New Haven, Conn.

Since Lt. Young won't arrive from Washington, D. C., until the day before his marriage, no pre-nuptial parties are being planned. The ceremony will take place at 4:30 p. m. in the chapel of St. James's church before relatives and a few close friends, with a small reception following at the Casino.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Hall Adams, will have her cousin, Mrs. Potter H. Carroll [Grace Shumway], as matron of honor, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Adams III., as the other bridesmaid. William France Anderson Jr. is to be best man. Ushering will be Mr. Adams III. and two navy officers with whom Lt. Young formerly shared bachelor quarters here, Lt. Carroll and Lt. John Elliott.

Lt. Young's mother, his sister-in-law, Mrs. Young Jr., and his cousin, Mrs. William C. Noland of Richmond, Va., all will be here for the wedding, as will Miss Adams' great-uncle, Lyman Blair of Greenville, Me. Lt. Young and his bride have taken a small apartment in Washington, where they will live.

Birth News.

A St. Patrick's day baby, who was not, however, named after Ireland's patron saint, arrived yesterday in Passavant hospital, the first child of Lt. and Mrs. Daniel C. Kennedy Jr. [Mary Faherty]. The baby will be named Michael Faherty. He is the first grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Faherty. His father, who recently was promoted to a full lieutenancy in the navy, will learn of his son's birth by cable somewhere at sea.

Lt. Charles A. Chapin, who is overseas with the army, is keeping up-to-date on the progress of the son, born Nov. 8, 1943, which he and Mrs. Chapin adopted recently, thru cables, letters, and photographs. Mrs. Chapin, the former Helen Gillette, and the baby are in Pasadena, Cal., until Lt. Chapin returns.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Introduction to Culture.

Annual reports seldom are enlivened by such an incident as appeared recently in the Toledo public library report for 1943. It concerns four small boys who burst into the library the moment the doors were open one morning and, in great excitement, asked, "Can a 5 year old kid get a library card if he can print his name?"

The librarian said why, yes; that is, if he could print, whereupon one of the boys explained: "We'll show him how. You see, he beat up a kid in the fourth grade and we want to give him a library card for doing it."

White Collar Confession.

To keep our stocking seams quite neat
We stop a dozen times or more;
While walking down most any street
We slyly glance in every store
And peer in shiny window glass
Which serves as mirror to reflect
Our image as we pass.
Then swiftly we inspect
Each detail of attire,
And if a seam should run awry
A prompt unkinking will transpire,
No matter who is passing by!

WCG Utopia.

Stop me if you don't agree, but it seems to me that all this talk of good office workers never using the company phone for personal calls, never taking time to draw those enchanting typewriter pictures, never being a moment late, etc., is foolish and what's more—bad for the nerves. Here's the way it's figured in our office. On some days I work like a beaver and if my work isn't finished on the stroke of 5 I stay till it is finished. So on days when I am a bit ahead of the boss with my work I feel free to make a phone call or even dash off a V-mail letter. If I'm 10 minutes late returning from lunch one day, then I'll probably take part of my lunch hour the next day in pursuit of elusive train reservations for the boss. Without more explanation I think your readers will understand what I mean. No one keeps tab on any one else and in the end the time balances up beautifully and there's none of the cramped feeling of being watched continuously or checked. Please, don't some of you moderns agree? But let me sound this warning: This WCG's Utopia cannot exist unless there is a sympathetic boss!

Motivation.

I asked 67 noted psychologists, "What are the most essential things to know about human nature?" Forty-six said motivation—an understanding of what makes people think and feel and act as they do. If you understand motivation you have at your command the most powerful tool for dealing with men.

Accrediting Agency Completes Study of City's High Schools

The Illinois examining committee of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools yesterday completed a two week inspection of 15 day and three night high schools in the Chicago system to determine whether they meet association standards.

Prof. H. D. Trimble of the University of Illinois headed the examining committee, composed of state university and state department of public instruction members.

Graduates of accredited schools do not need to take entrance examinations for most colleges. The committee will report its findings at a convention of the North Central association next week in the Palmer House. Reports will be returned to the schools in about a month. All Chicago high schools are accredited now.

Thru the Looking Glass

Patience is a virtue more than one of us has been forced to cultivate these war time days, but there is still plenty of room for improvement, especially in beauty shops where women are often oddly tempted to be their very nastiest and most inconsiderate selves. Many shops are operating under rather difficult conditions and to keep things running smoothly customers and beauty operators must coöperate with and be considerate of one another—it's much easier on every one's nerves that way.

We're not concerned with the beauty operators here, that's up to the shop owners, but we'd like to remind customers of a few obligations which for the sake of peace they cannot ignore. First and most important, is that they be on time for their appointments. One late comer can throw a whole day's carefully planned schedule off and cause unnecessary and needlessly tiring hurry for the operator and inconvenient and sometimes serious delays for other patrons. In all fairness appointments must be kept on the dot and when they cannot be kept at all they should be canceled in plenty of time so that other customers may be accommodated.

Probably one of the most exasperating experiences for a beauty operator is the new customer who, bereft of the hairdresser who has taken care of her tresses for years, is determined that no one else shall ever satisfy her. It's true that on first handling the new hairdresser may not be able to set the hair exactly as desired, but with a few kindly and helpful suggestions she probably will achieve the desired effect before long. It's unfair to berate her or refuse to give her a second chance when the hair doesn't look exactly as it should on first try. Be tolerant and considerate—it's the only way to insure service that will be mutually satisfactory.

Cripples Learn to Turn Hands to Toy Making

BY JUNE GESERICK.

Crippled hands are busy these days turning out yellow chicks, pink-eared rabbits, and fuzzy lambs to be sold thru the Illinois Association for the Crippled to brighten the Easter baskets of Chicago's children.

The youngsters will reciprocate by selling Easter seals in the seventh annual seal drive starting in Chicago schools Monday. Proceeds of the seal sale support the organization's work.

The making of cloth toys is one of the means used by the organization to encourage the use of certain muscles in therapeutic treatment of cripples. Many handicapped men and women working under the association's guidance have become self supporting by learning the trade. The toys they turn out have become increasingly popular, since many large toy companies now are engaged exclusively in war work.

The yellow chicks look almost as real as the live fowl they represent, and the white terry-cloth lambs are frisky and playful. Care is taken that the manufacturing of the toys involves use of only materials not needed for war equipment.

The association's work is concerned with the whole field of services to crippled persons, who are brought to the organization's attention by relatives, friends, or other associations. The organization's aim is to help the crippled, regardless of age, creed, or race—to become useful citizens, and to this end it has developed the way for the handicapped to aid in winning the war.

Thirty-five men and women now are working on swedging of citation stars for the army and navy. Many of the workers do their tasks in a wheel chair. The work is light and easy but requires a skill of movement which has restored to many of the handicapped full movement of their hands or arms.

Several workers earn from $30 to $35 weekly at the job and thus are financially independent, a condition which the association's workers report is responsible for quick improvement in crippled cases.

Women in War Work

The army proved it had a sentimental side yesterday when it decreed that all members of the WAC may be married in traditional satin and filmy veil, if they so desire. This rescinds a previous directive which sought to keep WACs and other feminine army personnel in uniform except when engaged in sports activities. During this uniform regime, SPARS, WAVES, and women marines were being married in satin and old lace. The WACs didn't like it and said so. WAC spokesmen in the Chicago area said they hadn't observed any new activity since this latest pronouncement.

The combined strength of the women's organizations in Cook county has been called upon in the concerted drive to recruit 500 SPARS in Chicagoland in three weeks. The campaign, which opens Monday, will have headquarters at 67-69 E. Monroe st.

The headquarters of the drive was opened yesterday with special ceremonies in which Joan Blondell, star of "Something for the Boys," christened an amphibious duck truck, "U. S. S. Spar Recruit." The dry land launching of this truck gave many Chicagoans their first view of the type of machine which has been landing American invasion troops.

Special meetings will be held in every community in Chicago and in the suburbs under the general direction of Mrs. Walter Meredith Rennie, president of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, who is chairman of the women's division for Chicago's SPAR drive.

Sororities, junior clubs, church associations, and civic organizations also will hold special sessions under the SPAR banner as directed by Miss Dorothy Dohrman, chairman of junior clubs for the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs and Mrs. Rennie's co-chairman in the drive. Mrs. Harold F. Wood, president of the third district women's clubs, will hold a special SPAR drive meeting of the junior board at her home, 10502 S. Seeley av., Sunday, March 26.

Chicago has been asked to double its quota of SPARS because of increased military operations.

One hundred child care aids who can serve six hours weekly are needed now for volunteer work in war nurseries, the child care committee of the office of civilian defense, reported yesterday. The new need arises, its spokesmen said, as a result of the speeded rate of the induction of fathers into the military units. A special training course will begin Monday at Hull House. Registration may be made at the volunteer bureau of the Council of Social Agencies, 53 W. Jackson blvd.

How to make the best use of unrationed lard will provide the theme for the sixth in a series of programs sponsored by the consumer information service of the office of civilian defense from 1 to 3 p. m. Wednesday in the auditorium of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company building, 122 S. Michigan av. Demonstrations will be given of deep-fat frying and the making of biscuits, pies, cookies, and other lard consuming staples.

[This department reports on women's war activities and answers questions regarding such activities.]

Filet Chair Set

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Crochet filet chair sets, done in a combination of butterfly and rose design, afford attractive additions to any furniture piece. The shape is unusual, not difficult to create, and most effective when fashioned of white mercerized cotton.

For instructions in crocheting the filet chair set in rose and butterfly design, No. 901, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th av., New York City.

New Hosiery Looks More and More Like Old

BY REA SEEGER.

Hosiery makers are tireless in their efforts to perfect weaves, pattern, and texture out of what's available in cotton and celanese. They've redoubled efforts to so weave stockings that they'll fit and cling to the ankles. Each week, and sometimes daily, new hosiery is unpacked, each new shipment improved over former showings in fit and weave.

The newest celanese hosiery will dry over night and comes in super-flattering street and all-purpose shades to wear with everything, from cotton to silk. The small flat mesh pattern is exceptionally flattering; the heel and toe sections have been carefully designed to wear with heelless and open-toed sandals for summer.

Another welcome arrival is that of cotton lisle stockings. They are smooth beauties, equal to the imports of pre-war days. The decorative side clox designs are magic for slenderizing ankle lines. The stocking itself is as thin as chiffon and just as flattering. Lisle mesh hosiery comes in a grand assortment of suntan shades, features a new narrow ribbed mesh pattern, a slick trick for slenderizing ankles and leg lines, and will wear surprisingly well and long despite its sheer luxury appearance.

To complete the new finds, there are seamless lisles with the mirage effect of a good clear suntan shade—so smooth that, minus the telltale back seam, they look like natural skin. They fit without a single wrinkle, to further the optical illusion.

Arabians to Be Hosts at Soiree Tomorrow

Arabian members will take over the host role at tomorrow's weekly 4 o'clock soiree at International house, University of Chicago. Jasim Khalaf, graduate student on the Midway, who was sent here by the ministry of education at Bagdad, Iraq, is scheduled to talk at 5 p. m. on "The Arab World and the War." Nabia Abbott, native of Iraq and now professor of Islamic studies at Chicago, will be a special guest. An exhibit of art objects has been arranged by H. I. Mookree. Serving as the refreshments committee are Abdul Kayeum of Afghanistan and Heidi Specker of Switzerland, who have planned a repast of Arabian coffee and pastries known as baklawa.

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

"How do you caramelize sugar?" a reader asks.

Use a heavy skillet, spread the sugar over the bottom, and stir over moderate heat until the sugar first lumps, then begins to liquefy. Keep stirring until all sugar has melted and taken on a golden brown color. Be careful not to scorch the caramel sirup. Some or all of the liquid to be used in the recipe you are preparing is added at this point. As you add hot milk or water, the caramel sirup will solidify into hard lumps. Keep stirring until it has melted into the liquid and no lumps are left. Then you are ready to use the caramelized sugar sirup for pudding, cake, or sauce.

Another question relates to browning of flour for gravy. Usually the flour for gravy is allowed to brown in the fat before water or other liquid is added. No browning will take place after the liquid goes into the gravy. Many women spread flour in a shallow pan and brown it in a moderate oven, then store it in a glass jar to be used as needed for sauces and gravies. It should be remembered that flour loses some of its thickening power in the browning. A larger than usual amount of browned flour will be needed, in most circumstances.

"What is the best way to store parsley or watercress?"

These greens quickly lose freshness unless carefully handled. Wash them thoroly and sort out bruised leaves as soon as you get the greenery home from the market. Shake off the water, or drain on toweling, then place in a glass jar, screw the cover on, and keep it in the refrigerator to use as needed.

"Should soybean flour be sifted?" Yes, sift soy flour with the other flour you are using in a recipe. It packs on standing.

Music Note

The Cincinnati Symphony orchestra, threatened by the prospect of disbanding for lack of funds, reported yesterday it will have a 1944-'45 season because of generous public response to its appeal for $20,000. The Boston orchestra, meanwhile, has announced its 64th season to open next Oct. 6, with Serge Koussevitzky as conductor for the 21st successive year. Guest conductors will be George Szell, Dimitri Mitropoulos, and Leonard Bernstein.

Own Pet May Cure Child's Fear of Dogs

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Today is a question and answer day.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"My 4 year old daughter is afraid of dogs and cats, especially dogs.

"When we visit friends we come in the front door, and the poor dogs go out the back door because Carol's coming. It's embarrassing to walk down the street because she might see a dog a half a block away and she'll grab me and scream and cry. What to do? I've talked to her about it and had her won over but she saw her girl friend scared by a dog who jumped on her and since then talk doesn't help.

"I have a little girl, 2, who never was afraid of anything, but she sees her sister scream and carry on so that now she gets frightened, too.

"I will appreciate any help you can give."

And here is our answer:

It is not at all unusual for little children to be afraid of dogs. When you realize they often are as big as a child, that they have loud and sharp barks, and that they frequently jump on children and knock them over, the fear is not at all unusual.

However, recognizing the validity of the fear does not turn the trick of curing it. There are several ways to go about this. A good beginning step to take is to obtain a number of picture books and simple story books about dogs for your little girl. Little by little, introduce her to these books and develop the idea that dogs are friendly companions.

Buy her a toy furry dog. Whatever you do, don't force your child to approach a dog or to pat one when she is frightened. In fact, all friendly approaches to animals should be made voluntarily by a child.

Another helpful thing would be this: When you are going to visit a friend who owns a dog take some meat [if your ration points allow it!], or ask the dog's mistress to let you have some of her pet's favorite food on a plate. Let your little girl have the plate and set it on the floor and call the dog to it while she stands by.

Other devices will occur to you, but the last suggestion I am going to make is the most potent of all in curing the fear of dogs: Buy a puppy for your little girl to have as her own. A child who has learned to love her own dog is seldom afraid of other dogs, unless they are rough or fierce.

I never like to suggest any one getting a dog either for themselves or a child without urging them to learn how to feed, care for, and train a dog, for his sake as well as the family's.

All these devices, naturally, apply to the matter of curing your little girl's fear of cats, too.

'Swing Fever' Is a Gay and Tuneful Movie

"SWING FEVER."

A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, directed by Tim Whelan, featuring Kay Kyser, Marilyn Maxwell, and William Gargan, and presented at the Chicago.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

The deeper things in life have little place in this light-headed, light-hearted little number. It strives only to entertain and does same in the Kay Kyser way.

Mr. Kyser is, as usual, a sweet soul who leads a band—BUT—this time there is a sinister something about him. . . . Namely—an evil eye. . . . Hereditary. His grandma had one, too.

Folks can push Lowell Blackford around plenty—until it occurs to him to take off his glasses, close to his left eye, and fix his right on the trifler. Then, all's in the bag for Lowell, ol' boy, ol' boy.

As you might surmise, Lowell falls into the paws of wolves [not so very wolf-y], who would capitalize on the omnipotent optic, i. e., let Lowell fix it on the sure winner of a coming prize fight who is NOT their man. . . . Complications pile up, veneered with music and dancing and songs by the gorgeous Marilyn Maxwell and Lena Horne, who makes one brief entrance. . . . Marilyn, heart's desire of Lamb Kyser and Wolf William Gargan, eventually knows Kay for the man he is and decides in his favor. . . . Ish Kabibble, Kabibbles characteristically, and the audience loves him.

If you want to see a movie that gives you nothing at ALL to worry over—swing along over and relax with "Swing Fever."

See you tomorrow.

Voice-Violin Recital Earns Mild Applause

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

The scholarship fund of Sigma Alpha Iota, Gamma chapter, benefited from the recital given at Kimball hall last night by Freda Draper, contralto, and Adele Modjeska, violinist. An audience of fair size applauded the two artists courteously.

It is within the powers of both Miss Draper and Miss Modjeska to win more than a courteous response from an audience. Yet this will no doubt continue to be the fate of each musician as long as they concern themselves almost wholly with the externals of music.

Miss Draper's voice is a beautiful one and there are no irremediable faults in her use of it. Yet her singing makes only polite gestures in the direction of warmth, of expressively colored tone, of penetrating understanding of her music. Handel's "O Sleep, Why Dost Thou Leave Me?" and Strauss' "Allerseelen"—curiously mated in the opening group—can both be profoundly moving, but as interpreted by Miss Draper, they were not much more than exercises in smooth vocalization. "O Mio Fernando," from Donizetti's "La Favorita," found the singer in a somewhat more expansive mood and gave her opportunity to exploit the opulence of tone which, if employed to the best musical purposes, would make her a singer of genuine distinction.

The case of Miss Modjeska is similar. She has had good training and practice has made of her a violinist with clean cut skill. But where primness and modesty may be virtues in the drawing room they are not qualities to set an audience on fire in the concert hall. Once Miss Modjeska discards her musical inhibitions, she has the fundamental equipment to become a sound and musicianly artist. Stella Roberts, herself a violinist, did the right thing by Miss Modjeska's accompaniments, and Eileen Bowman served Miss Draper well in the same capacity.

Selling of Citrus Fruit by Pound a Success, OPA Official Asserts

Retail sales of citrus fruit by the pound, ceilings for which were set by the office of price administration three months ago and which change from week to week, have proved successful, Paul A. H. Shults, area OPA director, said yesterday.

Mr. Shults said his office was skeptical of public acceptance of the per pound prices, in contrast with the traditional way of selling by the dozen, when the plan was started, but that housewives "don't seem to care which way they come, providing they can get them."

"Oranges, lemons, and grapefruit are sold wholesale by the crate," he said, "regardless of size and quality. Full crates of all sizes weigh about the same, and the cost among all sizes of the same grade of any fruit is about the same by the crate. Per pound ceilings were inaugurated to get away from the setting of countless different prices, one for each size of each grade, if sold by the dozen.

"Now a retailer buys citrus fruits by the case, regardless of the size of the fruit, and knowing how many units in a crate, and its weight, he has little difficulty determining his profit. The consumer also knows she is getting as much fruit as she wishes, regardless of size."

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 17.—Irene Dunne's cooing like a dove, and well she might, since Metro paid $200,000 for A. J. Cronin's newest, "The Green Years," from the galley sheets. Nothing is too good for Irene since "A Guy Named Joe" and "The White Cliffs." . . . Jennifer Jones, and not Gene Tierney, is to play the lead in "Laura." That's the one Clifton Webb is wanted for, but whether he'll be able to do it nobody knows. . . . Margaret Sullavan leaves "Voice of the Turtle" June 24, but beginning June 19, she, Elliott Nugent, and Audrey Christy will give their services. The play will be shown free for a whole week to all men in uniform. That's a precedent I hope other producers will follow. . . . Count that day lost when William Goetz doesn't tie up another top personage. One he's working on now is Director Irving Cummings. . . . Ruth Ford, one of the prettiest New York models, wore glasses and looked like Margaret Wilson in the Wilson picture. Now she's a nun in "Keys to the Kingdom." Her friends are asking when she's going to uncover.

It's Election Year.

"While Boris Morros was trying to buy "Of Thee I Sing," for Jack Benny, he also tried to clear it thru Washington. No dice. With election so near, feelings are easily ruffled, and nobody wants the dam to burst. . . . Cecil De Mille takes off for Washington March 29 for a special showing of "Dr. Wassell." He's doing the prolog for "Sign of the Cross" now with five men in a bomber over Rome. They are Jimmy Milligan, Oliver Thorndike, Stanley Ridges, Tom Powers, and Tom Tully. The set of Rome covers the largest sound stage at Paramount. Men in the bomber throw down leaflets and look down. First thing they see is the Appian way where Hannibal fought his battle. One week's work will cost $150,000. C. B. told me if they were to make "Sign of the Cross" today it would cost five million dollars.

He's a Good Man.

Our own Lt. Comdr. Gene Markey lunched with Adm. Louis Mountbattan in New Delhi, India. Could that be a prelude to Gene's going on his staff? . . . Sam Goldwyn gave Arthur Ranks' English made picture a hot reception at his home the other night. The film caught on fire, five reels went up in smoke. . . . No one can deny the good Bob Hope does. No one can deny that some of his jokes are not always in the best taste. Last Tuesday his script was gone over by the navy, which deleted the jokes Bob loved best. He went right ahead and put them on the air. If he repeats that performance he'll find himself talking into a dead mike. Then will he be surprised!

Girls and Girls.

Susan Hayward got her break at Paramount because of the shenanigans of Veronica Lake. The little Lake girl came to glory thru a hank of hair, and because nature gave her a chassis that looked well in a sweater, she was given a million dollar publicity buildup, and thought she could do no wrong. Like many another girl, she took advantage of it. These girls who have a speck of star dust in their eyes, with little else to back it up, should take a couple of days off and sit at the feet of Ethel Barrymore and learn what it takes to make an actress. Ethel has acting mixed up in her blood. She's had every honor an American public could hand out; but took nothing for granted. She's earned every bit of it. Her joy at being chosen to play Cary Grant's mother in "None but the Lonely Heart" is wonderful to see. After working a week, she tells me it seemed like a day. Everything was done for her. "If pictures are like this," says Ethel, "give me more." Don't worry, Ethel, they will.

What a Lusty, Lusty Gal.

Gypsy Rose Lee and Florence Bates make a wonderful team in "Belle of the Yukon." Gypsy, dressed as a chorus girl with knee length dancing skirt and butterflies embroidered on her stockings, was dancing off when Charley Winninger cracked, "Ah, me, spring is here." Gypsy turned on him with "Save your silly sirupy sentimentality for waffles you'll guzzle in the morning. These butterflies remind me of my lean booking days when the only butterflies I knew were in my tummy." . . . Ann Sheridan had herself a time posing in the only white mink coat seen in these parts, sent out from New York with a special guard. . . . Maureen O'Sullivan bought Bob Leonard's house at Malibu. She's doing it over before moving in. Merle Oberon bought herself a little home down there for the summer breezes. . . . While we search for stories to put on the screen, the papers are filled with Ma Stager, 52 year old grandmother, convicted with three boys of murdering William Lederer, dance hall owner, during a holdup attempt and sentenced to life imprisonment. The conviction was result of evidence that Ma not only harbored juveniles but had coached them in the ways of crime. Doesn't this take us right back to Fagin in "Oliver Twist"?

According to Culbertson

It may be hard to convince any one holding as bad a hand as North held in today's deal, that he can exercise judgment in his bidding, but that is most decidedly the case!

East, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 club	2 clubs	Pass	3 hearts
Pass	7 hearts (final bid)

South's leap to the grand slam was not nearly as rash as it may appear. From South's point of view the mere fact that North held at least four hearts meant that there would be an odds-on chance for 13 tricks, since it was almost certain that North could discard enough spades on the long diamond suit and still have a trump left with which to ruff the spade seven.

The difficulty was that North didn't have four hearts! Hence, he had to use all his own trumps in meekly following suit while he drew the adverse trumps, and he couldn't do a thing about South's seven of spades—except concede it.

The fault in this case was not South's. He would have been downright timid if he had bid less than he did with his colossal hand. It was North who was entirely to blame for needlessly responding to the two club cue bid with a three card major suit. True, North had to bid something, but what was wrong with three clubs? That response would have made matters crystal clear to South. He would have known that North was saying, in effect, that he had no suit to mention—that his only length was in the opponents' suit—and that South, therefore, should do his own selecting.

Undoubtedly, if North had given this coöperation, the partners would have ended up in a safe six heart or six diamond contract.

Mrs. George Moe, 912 Arbutus st., Rhinelander, Wis.—When putting up curtains on small rods, slip a thimble over end of rod. The curtain slips on in a second, and no threads are pulled.

Mrs. George H., Chicago—I have found that I can keep lemons for a longer time if I take a small brush and give them a light coat of melted paraffin.

Elinor H., Moline, Ill.—I have learned that when I give my window shades a cleaning with dry suds, the secret of a successful job is to work fast. I start at top of shade, after it is laid flat, and sponge with dry suds, a small area at a time. I remove suds with a cloth wrung dry, wipe, and go on to another small area; always overlapping as well as working fast. When I have washed both sides, I hang the shade full length so it will dry quickly.

SOUTH SHORE, ELGIN PLAY STATE SEMI-FINAL

TURF LEADERS TO CONVENE IN CHICAGO JULY 3

24 States Will Be Represented.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

To the highlights of the summer racing in Chicago has been added the 11th annual convention of the National Association of State Racing Commissioners, composed of members of the 24 state racing boards and commissions in the United States and the Federal Racing Commission of Mexico.

The convention dates will coincide with the week of charity racing to be sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., at Washington Park, July 3-7, Maj. Ednyfed Williams, chairman of the Illinois racing board and vice president of the national association, announced last night.

Meeting Opens July 3.

The national organization, while not a governing body, has met annually since 1934 to consider suggestions and methods of improving the sport thruout the country. This will be Chicago's first opportunity to entertain the group which for the first nine years of its existence convened in Miami, Fla., and last year met in New York.

The meeting will open Monday, July 3, and on the following day, the Fourth, all delegates will be guests of the Illinois racing board at Washington Park for the running of the $50,000 added Stars and Stripes handicap for 3 year olds and up, feature event of the Tribune charity meeting and one of the major stake events of the rich coördinated 70 day Washington Park-Arlington Park meeting. Business sessions will follow on Wednesday and Thursday.

Boston Withdraws Bid.

Maj. Williams said yesterday that Chicago's invitation to the national association was one of several considered, among which was one tendered by Boston but recently withdrawn to clear the way for acceptance of Chicago's bid.

Charles F. Connors of Brighton, Mass., chairman of the Massachusetts racing commission, is president of the national body and Thomas R. Underwood of Lexington, Ky., is secretary.

A number of Mexican racing officials and owners have informed Maj. Williams that they will ship horses to Chicago for the Tribune's charity meeting which, according to officials of Washington and Arlington Parks, will have the finest thorobreds in the nation in competition.

Davis Beaten by Beau Jack in Ten Rounds

New York, March 17 (AP).—Beau Jack beat Al [Bummy] Davis tonight, getting a unanimous decision in their 10 round fight at Madison Square Garden. The Beau weighed 139 to 142½ for Davis.

A crowd of 19,963 fans paid $132,823, largest gate for a fight at the Garden since Joe Louis, heavyweight champion, entered the army. They saw Davis stagger Jack with a series of hard blows in the first round and appear on his way to a quick victory, such as his 63 second victory over Bob Montgomery five weeks ago, but after that the fight was all Jack's.

Davis, off his recent bouts, was rated the favorite but the fight was so one-sided that Judge Joe Agnello gave Jack all 10 rounds and Judge Frank Forbes scored nine for Beau and one even. Referee Billy Cavanaugh gave Jack nine rounds and Davis one.

Jake La Motta Defeats Coley Welch in Boston

Boston, Mass., March 17 (AP).—Jake LaMotta, 163, of New York, gave Coley Welch, 163½, of Portland, Me., a lusty left-handed pounding on the head and body tonight to gain a unanimous 10 round decision before 9,601 in Boston Garden. LaMotta's next appearance will be against Sgt. Lou Woods of Camp Grant in Chicago Stadium March 31.

MR. GALLAGHER! DYKES HAS NO FEAR OF SIGNS

Sox Boss Steps On Cub Terrain.

Hack Is Retired

STANLEY HACK, veteran third baseman and captain of the Cubs, has been placed on the voluntarily retired list at his own request, James T. Gallagher, vice president of the Chicago National league club, announced yesterday. Hack submitted his request for retirement yesterday.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Picture on next page.)

French Lick, Ind., March 17.—James [Jim the Trespasser] Dykes opened his 11th season as White Sox manager this morning by striding triumphantly thru Gallagher Gateway, the memorial arch erected by the Cub general manager, on the path to the Cub training grounds.

The arch was dedicated to the proposition that Dykes and his chattels are not supposed to poach on the Cub practice premises, as they did last year. Dykes could hardly wait until he could lead his players thru the arch and onto the practice field which has been prepared with loving care by Bob Dorr, superintendent of Wrigley field, and a crew of horticultural talent. Instead of declaring squatter's rights for the duration of the training season, as he did in 1943, Dykes said he would consent to vacate when the Cubs get here Monday morning. He may change his mind about this.

Thornton Lee Steals Show.

Sixteen athletes, not including the Cubs' Paul Derringer and Trainer Andy Lotshaw, who also participated, took part in the four hour inaugural program, which opened with a hike, followed by calisthenics and throwing and pepper sessions in the shadow of Gallagher Gateway.

Thornton Lee, the grand old gentleman who won 22 games for the Sox in 1941 and since has been beset with many afflictions, stole the show from the juniors. On the hike, all the lads except Thornton walked. Lefty ran. During the first pitching exercises most of the lads tossed. Lee cut loose with a few. He has been throwing for several weeks and today delighted Dykes and Coach Muddy Ruel with the freedom of his pitching motion.

White Sox Family Grows.

The party of 13 athletes which accompanied Dykes from Chicago last night was increased during the day thru the arrival, direct from their homes, of Catcher P. R. Thaxton of Oak Grove, La.; Infielders Grey Clarke of Fulton, Ala., Cass Kwietniewski of Detroit, Skeeter Webb of Meridian, Miss., and Peter Sharp of Kansas City, Mo.; Outfielders Ed Carnett of Tulsa, Okla., and Wally Moses, who came from Philadelphia; Pitchers Bill Dietrich of Philadelphia and Ed Lopat of New York City.

The sun did not shine a greeting to the athletes during the morning, but busted out brilliantly around noon. French Lick has been enjoying temperatures in the 70s, but readings were considerably under that today. Veterans of last year's camp paid little attention to the thermometer readings — they were glad to see Lost river just a peaceful rill. Last year it was a torrent which spilled over the whole countryside, as you may have heard if you have been following Sox and Cub affairs all along.

GORDON PASSES EXAM; SET FOR ARMY SERVICE

Portland, Ore., March 17 (AP).—Joe Gordon, New York Yankees' second baseman, passed his physical examination today and was classified for general army service.

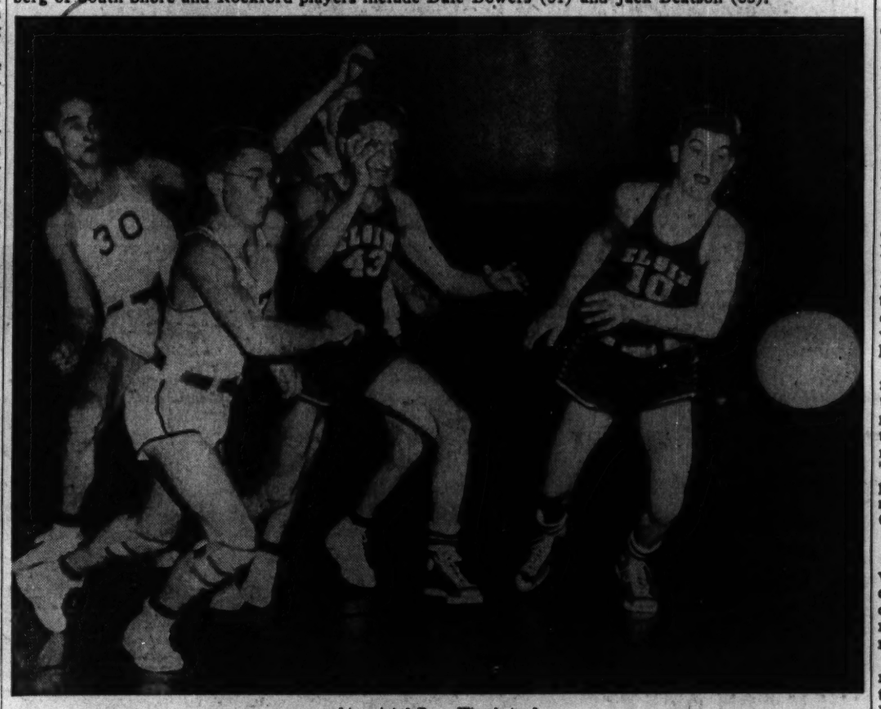
Gordon at once put in a request for duty in the army air transport service.

The stellar infielder has considerable flying credit. For several years he took flying lessons in central Oregon between baseball seasons.

Gordon, recently reclassified 1-A by his Eugene, Ore., draft board, is expected to be inducted in three weeks. He is married and a father.

BATTLING FOR RECOGNITION

Howard Erzinger (10) of Chicago's South Shore High, and Dale Wilt (29) of West Rockford, struggle for the ball during yesterday's state tournament basketball game in Champaign in which the Chicagoans scored a major upset by winning, 39 to 33. Almost hidden behind Wilt is Paul Schnackenberg of South Shore and Rockford players include Dale Bowers (31) and Jack Beatson (33).



[Associated Press Wirephotos.]

Jim Rager (10) and Tom Parker (43) of Elgin lead in the chase for a loose ball during the game in which their team beat Anna-Jonesboro, 65 to 38. Anna-Jonesboro players are Gene Cunningham (37) and Jim Martin (30). The victory qualified Elgin to oppose South Shore in today's semi-finals.

Hawks Seek Third Place in Wing Series

Detroit, Mich., March 17 [Special].—The Chicago Blackhawks, who clinched fourth place in the Stanley cup play-offs last night tho they lost to the Montreal Canadiens, 3 to 2, arrived in Detroit tonght to meet the Red Wings tomorrow evening in a regularly scheduled National Hockey league game. The Blackhawks gained the playoff berth as the Boston Bruins lost to the Red Wings, 10 to 9, a defeat which mathematically eliminated Boston from the cup series.

Tomorrow night's contest with the Red Wings is important to the Blackhawks in the play-off setup since Toronto's Maple Leafs lead the Chicagoans by only half a game. Toronto has one game remaining and the Chicagoans have two. Should Chicago defeat the Wings in one of the remaining games between these teams and Toronto lose to Boston in its final, the Blackhawks would start in the play-offs against Montreal. The first game for the Hawks in Chicago then would be March 26.

Series to Open Tuesday.

If Toronto defeats Boston the Hawks must win two games from Detroit to finish in third place. If Toronto and the Hawks finish in a tie, the Leafs, having scored the most goals thru the season, would gain third place in the play-offs. The cup series opens Tuesday night here and in Montreal.

Hockey followers figure the cup finals will be between the leading Canadiens and the second place Wings. They point out that the Canadiens have overpowered every team in the league and that after a late start the Red Wings played sound hockey.

Hawks May Prove Tough.

Should the Hawks finish fourth, their chances of going to the finals are bright, as they have been as good as the Wings recently. If the Hawks wind up in third place they should give Canadiens a hard fight as scores have been close in these teams' last four games. Two of these ended in ties, and the Canadiens won the others by 3 to 2 scores.

Dodgers' Bordagaray Is Rejected by Draft Board

Bear Mountain, N. Y., March 17 (AP).—Dodger officials said today that Frenchy Bordagaray, Brooklyn outfielder, had been rejected by his New York City draft board.

Track, Field Aces Vie in Meet Tonight

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Ensign Cornelius Warmerdam, the only man ever to vault higher than 15 feet, and Gil Dodds, who recently established the world mark for an indoor mile run, are the stars in the field of 180 contestants who will appear tonight in the eighth Chicago relays in the Stadium.

These athletes are defending champions in the relays, and unquestionably will be successful tonight. And whether they can excel their own marks of perfection or not, their presence assures the success of the games. In support are winners of seven National A. A. U. events in the recent indoor meet in New York; winners of 11 events in the Western conference meet, and stars from Great Lakes, Marquette, Notre Dame, Iowa Pre-Flight, Western Michigan, and Lawrence college.

Improvement Is Steady.

Dodds set his world record of 4:07.3 in New York in winning his sixth consecutive mile of the indoor season. He has steadily improved this year from his initial victory last month when he won the Wanamaker mile in the Millrose games in 4.10.6.

Warmerdam certainly needs no introduction to Chicago. This is his third appearance. Two years ago he vaulted 15 feet 2 inches. Last winter he established his world record at 15 feet 8½ inches, a mark which is better by a fraction of an inch than his own outdoor record.

Sprint Series Holds Interest.

Chicago will have most interest in the sprint series in which Herbert Thompson, United States coast guard, four times winner, is challenged by Claude [Buddy] Young, Illinois freshman. Young twice has tied the world's 60 yard indoor sprint record. Tonight's series is at 40, 50, and 55 yards.

Among those defending their Chicago relays championships tonight will be Jimmy Herbert in the 600 yards run; Bob Wright, formerly of Ohio State, in the hurdles, and Les Eisenhart, another former Buckeye, in the 1,000 yards event.

Dodds is to run at 10:17 o'clock and the race will be broadcast.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., March 17.—Chicago's South Shore basketball team today threw the 37th annual Illinois prep tournament into a most pronounced state of confusion. The City Public School league champions did a workmanlike job in ousting West Rockford's bigger Rabs, 39 to 33, and sped into the semi-finals, something no Chicago team had done since 1938, when Von Steuben made it, only to lose its next game.

Paul Schnackenberg.

Taylorville completed the semi-final field when it coasted to a 51 to 30 victory over a badly outmatched Kewanee team. This was the 43d straight triumph for the rangy, blond boys from Taylorville. Tomorrow they will meet Champaign, which rallied in the first evening game to whip Canton's Little Giants, 57 to 42.

South Shore Meets Elgin.

South Shore's semi-final opponent will be Elgin, which opened the day's program with a 65 to 38 rout of Anna-Jonesboro. Thus a northern representative is assured in tomorrow night's finale.

Tonight's crowd was 7,042, and it raised the total for the two days to 35,712, a new tournament record. With sellouts assured for tomorrow's two sessions, the three day attendance is expected to pass 50,000 for the first time in the big show's history.

The Chicago state tournament entrant annually is considered something akin to a 12th man on a football team and the noted Champaign shrug was in evidence even up to the time of today's startling South Shore triumph. The big town boys were lucky to win their first game, said the tournament experts, and West Rockford would put a stop to this nonsense.

Fans Storm Locker Room.

So for the moment, the great Taylorville team, now topheavy favorite to win the state championship, was forgotten. South Shore and its genial coach, Tony Maffia, basked in the tournament limelight. Fans stormed around the Chicageans' dressing room in the caverns of George Huff gymnasium. Maffia, who worked his way thru Illinois and had no time for athletics, said his boys would go all out for a third victory at 1:15 p. m. tomorrow against Elgin.

The South Shore boys dressed quietly, tho with an occasional yippee. Then Coach Maffia herded them up and took them to the Urbana-Lincoln hotel, where they found themselves suddenly famous. They retired at 9:30, after a steak dinner.

Schnackenberg Leads Attack.

Paul Schnackenberg, a leggy kid with wavy reddish hair, was the dynamic figure in the biggest basketball day in the new school's history. Paul, son of Elmer J. Schnackenberg, speaker of the Illinois house of representatives, dropped in seven goals from the field and added five points at the free throw line for 19 points.

Speed, aggressiveness, and shooting accuracy in the late stages were South Shore's victorious weapons. The Tars had 69 shots at the basket to West Rockford's 60. West Rockford rated early favoritism in the eight-team upper bracket and some of the tournament experts had whispered that here might be the team which would whip Taylorville and carry on the tradition that an unbeaten team never wins the state title.

Elgin Wins Easily.

Elgin's starting five consists of four string bean lads and a well built Mexican speedster, Sam Sauceda, with plushy black hair, who skilfully dribbles and passes to set up the team's shots. Today he was feeding it to James Rager and James did the rest, racking 10 field goals and a free throw. Elgin held Carroll Belcher to nine points and this was the same young man who yesterday started off the tourney in spectacular fashion by scoring 33 points against Marseilles for a new single game record.

Rabs Take Early Lead.

West Rockford dashed into a 5 to 0 lead, Jack Beatson scoring after the center jump. Dale Wilt picked up a free throw and Clarence Anderson drove in for a basket. Here, South Shore took time out and Dan Trahey, whose shots today were bouncing off the rim, dribbled in for two points. Schnackenberg matched Dale Bowers' two free shots with his first basket, but Wilt hit for Rockford. Schnackenberg scored after four minutes and South Shore was behind 9 to 6. The score at the end of the first quarter was 11 to 11.

Bowers quickly scored twice in the second quarter, and in the first half of the session, Schnackenberg scored twice. So did the Rabs' Clarence Jackson. West Rockford moved to a 23 to 21 half time edge after South Shore had gained a tie on points by Schnackenberg and big John Harr's field goal. Wilt made two free shots, but Howie Erzinger made the tying basket. Then Bowers' short one just beat the half time klaxon.

Tars Take Lead.

Midway in the third period Erzinger hit from in front of the basket and South Shore had a 27 to 26 lead, its first of the battle. Harry Branca put the Rabs ahead with a goal and with a minute remaining, Branca again connected. The Rabs added a free toss for a 31 to 27 advantage as the third quarter ended.

The game was deadlocked in a hurry when Schnackenberg drove in for a basket and Erzinger whirled one in. The Rabs took time out, but that didn't help. Schnackenberg took careful aim and scored his seventh basket. Trahey made one of two free shots for a 34 to 31 lead with four minutes left. Carmen Esposito chipped in with a free throw.

The Rabs, desperately crowding South Shore, were called for a series of fouls. Trahey and Schnackenberg each got a point. Then, with less than a minute remaining, Trahey dashed in for a field goal, making the score 39 to 31. West Rockford had been blanked in the period, but the shutout disappeared when Wilt, fouled by Esposito, made both chances good.

Elgin Turns on Power.

It was only midway in the second period that Elgin moved away from Anna-Jonesboro. With four minutes of the period left, the rivals were tied, 19 to 19, the fifth deadlock of the game. Long Tom Parker broke this knot on a goal after taking a pass from the busy Sauceda. Then Tom added two points and the parade was on. Jack Burmaster scored twice and Sauceda and Rager contributed goals for a 31 to 21 half time lead.

In the second half, Elgin tallied five quick points and led going into the final period, 44 to 25. The winners boosted their production in this round with 21 points, being in control of the ball most of the time.

Orr Leads Tornadoes.

Johnny Orr, whose number is 43, celebrated Taylorville's 43d victory by getting 22 points. Last night he had made 17. Taylorville had a 19 to 6 first quarter lead and was ahead at the half, 30 to 12.

Champaign's ride into the semi-finals was a rough one. Canton's Little Giants had an 11 to 11 tie at the end of the first quarter and stunned the home folks by speeding into a 26 to 19 half time lead. Moreover, Don Torrence, the Champaign center, had fouled out.

After the intermission, Champaign came back with the most spectacular attack of the tourney, scoring eight points in one minute and 45 seconds and making 20 in the period, while blanking Canton until the last 50 seconds. Jesse Clements, Champaign's Negro captain, dropped in eight field goals.

MACK SELECTS NEWSOM TO HURL SEASON OPENER

Frederick, Md., March 17 (AP).—Connie Mack said today that Buck Newsom will pitch the Philadelphia Athletics' season opener against the Washington Senators, indicating there was nothing serious in Newsom's vague talk about going into business instead of playing baseball this season.

Buck Newsom.

Mack said Newsom is getting into shape at White Surphur Springs, W. Va., and has assured him he will be ready to go against his former teammates.

Mack's tentative complete lineup for the opener is: Frank Hayes, catcher; Newsom pitcher; Dick Siebert, first base; Edgar Busch, second base; Irv Hall, shortstop; George Kell, third base; JoJo White, center field; Bill Burgo, left field, and Lew Flick, right field.

YANKS DRILL INDOORS.

Atlantic City, N. J., March 17 (AP).—Showers forced the New York Yankees indoors today and Manager Joe McCarthy spent the time with the infield candidates while Coach Art Fletcher knocked grounders to the outfielders.

Told that Joe Gordon had been inducted in Oregon, McCarthy scowled for a moment and then said, "Of course, we will carry on."

BLUEGE GETTING IN TRIM.

College Park, Md., March 17 (AP).—Manpower troubles are making Ossie Bluege, the Washington Senators' manager, say ouch.

Because he didn't get an extra infielder at the major leagues' winter meetings, and because Harlond Clift won't be around to take care of third base, Ossie has been working overtime to get himself in trim for part time duty.

"I wouldn't admit this before," Bluege said, "but the situation is such that I must get myself ready to step into the infield anywhere from second base to third perhaps for two or three days a week in the early part of the season."

WAR IS AIDING FREE BUSINESS, SAYS MOULTON

Production Record Chief Influence.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Instead of destroying the private enterprise system, the war promises to give it renewed life, Dr. Harold G. Moulton, president of Brookings institution, said yesterday.

Dr. H. G. Moulton.

The war time growth in government control of economic activities has helped, not hurt, the cause of private enterprise, said Moulton, whose organization is rated as the foremost independent research agency in the economic field. He spoke at a meeting of the Executives club in the Hotel Sherman.

One Removed Completely.

Indicative of the changed public standing of private enterprise is the present status of the government agencies most interested in fastening permanent economic controls on business, he said. These he listed as the national resources planning board, the board of economic warfare and the office of price administration. Each has been deflated and the resources planning board, a particular pet of the President, has been abolished completely.

Two factors are primarily responsible for the shift in attitude toward private business which is apparent within the ranks of the administration as well as in congress, Moulton said. Most important is the war production achievements of private industry. Of secondary importance he listed the accumulated public grievances against regulatory agencies. Such grievances arise in part from personal annoyance over war time curbs on individual freedom, but also from incompetency and inconsistency in administration, he said.

Pendulum Swings Back.

"There were many individuals within the government who hoped and confidently expected that the war would bring permanent economic regimentation," he said. "But the pendulum is swinging strongly in the opposite direction."

Moulton said he was optimistic over the employment prospects in the demobilization period which he said will extend over a period of about two and a half years. In this period the civilian labor force will be two million less than in 1940 after allowing for the growth in population, he estimated.

The level of production and employment during the period will be much higher than in 1940, he predicted. Contributing to this high production will be demands of foreign relief and rehabilitation, industry reconversion and replacement needs, the accumulated arrearages in the housing field and abundant consumer credit possibilities. After the conclusion of the European war there will be a continuing demand for certain war production items, he said. All these factors will cushion the economic impact of demobilization.

No Full Employment.

Moulton cautioned against expectation that "full employment" will be attained after the war. It is neither reasonable to expect nor desirable, he said.

"In a country as large as the United States there would normally be from 3 to 4 millions not working on any given census date, even in periods of great industrial activity," he asserted. "Complete employment of the labor force would not, in fact, be consistent with shifting consumer demands, with seasonal fluctuations, with requirements for technological changes, and with the freedom of labor to shift jobs as opportunity for improvement offers."

For the longer pull, given a favorable environment for enterprise, the outlook is also promising, Moulton said. He cited the Brookings estimate that private business and industry will be capable of providing jobs for 54 million workers, as contrasted with 46 millions employed in pre-war 1940, a relatively depressed year.

Auto Industry to Expand.

The automobile industry alone will provide an additional 300,000 to 400,000 jobs if it attains the anticipated rate of operations of 50 to 60 per cent above 1940. Other industries which promise to give larger employment include household equipment and furnishings, farm machinery, railroad rolling stock and equipment, and electrical equipment.

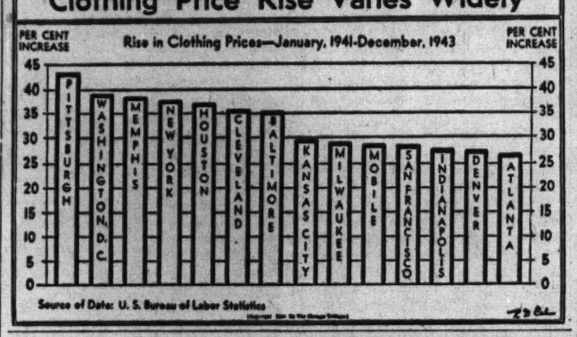
This forecast hinges on a number of variables that cannot be accurately weighed at present, he emphasized.

"Of special importance is the restoration of confidence in the future of the private enterprise system and the establishment of effective cooperation between government and industry," he asserted.

Louisiana Power Files Bond Issue of 17 Million

Philadelphia, Pa., March 17 [Special].—A registration statement covering 17 million dollars of first mortgage bonds, due 1974, was filed today with the securities and exchange commission by the Louisiana Power and Light company. The company will redeem at 102½ all its first mortgage bonds, 5 per cent series, due 1957.

Clothing Price Rise Varies Widely



Grains Weak; Talk of Rye Corner Fades

Possibility of a corner in the rye market is fading rapidly, brokers said yesterday. They reported holders of May futures have been selling steadily, thus narrowing the range between that delivery and the deferred deliveries.

Announcement by the war production board that nine distillers would be ordered to use an admixture of rye in their mash, entailing the use of 88,000 bushels a month, was construed as unfavorable for a higher range of prices in view of the visible supply of 20 million bushels.

Rye futures showed an easy undertone, and altho there was heavy buying of December attributed to eastern interests, the close was ¼ to ⅞ cent a bushel lower, May leading. Wheat was dull and finished unchanged to ¼ cent lower. Early in the day May reached a new high since Jan. 31. Oats declined ⅛ to ⅝ cent and barley was ⅛ cent higher to ½ cent lower.

Oats, Barley Commitments.

The business conduct committee of the Board of Trade has called for a statement of individual commitments in May oats and barley as of the close on March 15. This was regarded as a routine action induced by the small supplies of grain available for delivery.

Reports that the war food administration was prepared to requisition 20 to 30 per cent of the corn held in the country elevators and would take the same percentage of fresh receipts from farmers was viewed by warehousemen as likely to result in neither industries nor other users of the grain being able to accumulate a reserve supply, especially if farmers continue to feed grain as heavily as they have in the last few months.

Wheat Trade Small.

May wheat sold at $1.72⅛ a bushel at the opening yesterday, but trading in that grain was small. Announcement that Sen. Thomas [D., Okla.] had introduced a bill to use 1919-'29 as the base period for computing farm parity prices and to include farm labor costs attracted attention, but traders expressed a belief that with the administration pledged to maintain the Little Steel wage formula there was little prospect of such legislation passing.

Operations in oats and barley were limited with the action of rye the dominating influence.

WAGE FORMULA WILL STAY, HIGH OFFICIALS SAY

Washington, D. C., March 17 (AP).—The administration was reported on high authority today to have decided to maintain the Little Steel formula despite increasing pressure from labor organizations for easing of wage controls.

If the formula is to be abandoned and wage ceilings lifted congress will have to assume the responsibility—the executive department will not, a high official said.

Furthermore, this decision has been communicated to the war labor board whose members have been confronted with recent moves by both AFL and CIO groups for action looking toward discarding the formula which limits general wage increases to 15 per cent above the level of January, 1941.

The belief in highest administration quarters is that congress will not take the initiative in raising wage ceilings and that hence they can be held in place.

The WLB put off until Monday a vote on the question of admitting testimony on a wage demand of the CIO United Steelworkers.

REVEAL COUNTRY HAS 20 MILLION BUSHEL POTATO OVERSUPPLY

Washington, D. C., March 17 (AP).—The department of agriculture reported today the country has 15 million to 20 million more bushels remaining from last year's potato crop than can possibly be eaten before the new crop is harvested.

Stocks on March 1 totaled 77 million bushels, or 70 per cent more than was on hand a year ago, the department said. Last year, however, supplies ran 15 million bushels short of requirements.

The war food administration has started programs for conversion of some surplus potatoes into industrial alcohol, live stock feed, potato starch, and flour. These programs may have to be expanded to prevent waste since potatoes cannot be held over to the next year, officials said.

Table consumption and use by food processors by the time new potatoes become plentiful will be 60 million bushels, officials estimated. This leaves 17 million bushels for other uses.

Potatoes for industrial and other nonfood uses are bought by the government at grower support prices and sold at prices substantially lower.

GOVERNMENT PLANS ANOTHER SURVEY OF CONSUMERS' GOODS

Washington, D. C., March 17 (AP).—The government will make another survey of consumer goods supply, this time with the emphasis on clothing and other textile products, the WPB office of civilian requirements said today.

A nation-wide study will begin Monday, with census bureau representatives scheduled to call on 5,000 families in 68 selected areas. The housewives canvassed will be an entirely different group from those who supplied information for the same agency's survey last November, which showed that such items as alarm clocks, elastic tape, wash tubs, and electric iron cords were in heaviest demand.

The major purpose of the new check is to determine the effectiveness of government measures taken to relieve clothing shortages.

Court Upholds 'Death' Order for 2 Utilities

Boston, Mass., March 17 (AP).—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the 1st district today upheld orders issued by the securities and exchange commission calling for the dissolution of American Power and Light company and Electric Power and Light corporation, both Maine corporations and subholding companies of Electric Bond and Share company, which has extensive holdings in the midwest, south, and west.

The dissolution was ordered by the SEC under powers of the public utilities holding company act of 1935 which includes the "death sentence" clause.

Says Structure Complicated.

This clause was applied on the basis of a finding by the SEC that the corporate structures and continued existence of Power and Light and American Power "unduly and unnecessarily complicated the structure of the Electric Bond and Share system and unfairly and inequitably distributes voting power among the security holders" of the system.

The two holding companies petitioned the Circuit Court of Appeals for a review of the SEC's orders issued Aug. 22, 1942.

The commission further ordered that Bond and Share and the companies submit to the commission a plan or plans for the dissolution and take whatever other steps were necessary to effectuate the order.

Justices Uphold Commission.

The opinion submitted by Justices Calvin Magruder of Massachusetts, John C. Mahoney of Rhode Island, and Peter Woodbury of New Hampshire said:

"We cannot say that the commission was unwarranted in concluding that the corporate structure and continued existence of American and Electric unduly and unnecessarily complicate the holding company system of Bond and Share, nor can we say that the commission was unwarranted in finding that the capital structure and continued existence of petitioners unfairly and inequitably distribute voting powers among security holders of the Bond and Share system."

SEC APPROVES UTILITY'S SALE TO CHICAGOANS

Philadelphia, Pa., March 17 (AP).—The sale of Northwestern Illinois Utilities, Savanna, Ill., by American Utilities Service corporation to Fred D. Ellis and Edmund J. Haugh, both of Chicago, for a base price of $840,000, was approved today by the securities and exchange commission.

The securities to be sold consist of 95,000 shares of $5 par value common stock and a $375,000 unsecured note, due 1964. Proceeds will be used to retire $800,000 principal amount of American Utilities series A 6 per cent collateral trust bonds, due 1964.

Blaw-Knox's Billings Soar to 113 Millions

Blaw-Knox company, producer of steel plant and other industrial equipment, yesterday reported an increase in billings to $113,295,659 in 1943 from $63,124,804 in 1942. This was after provision of 3 million dollars for renegotiation of war contracts. Net income was $1,936,798, equal to $1.45 a share, compared with $1,425,718, or $1.07 a share, a year earlier. Federal taxes on income last year totaled $8,822,000.

Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company's net sales during 1943 rose to $295,935,665 from $195,963,510 in the preceding year.

Federal Income Taxes Rise.

Profit was $8,006,368, equal to $4.51 a share, compared with $5,923,992, or $3.34 a share, a year ago. Earnings were determined after deducting 2.5 million dollars for contingencies last year and $1,271,094 in 1942. Federal taxes on income amounted to $34,750,000, against $21,400,000 the preceding year.

Pullman company, sleeping car subsidiary of Pullman, Inc., reported gross revenue of $120,529,032 in the year ended Dec. 31, compared with $95,874,578 in 1942. Net operating income after federal taxes, however, declined to $5,553,086 from $9,150,769. Provision for federal taxes rose to $16,695,432 from $10,454,617. In December, the company reported a net loss of $174,950 after taxes, against a profit of $629,330 a year earlier.

Profit Drops to 9 Million.

Climax Molybdenum company's profit in 1943 declined to $9,633,624, equal to $3.82 a share, from $13,390,433, or $5.31 a share, in 1942. The company reported its facilities last year were operated at maximum capacity until the middle of November, when, with the government's consent, the operations were curtailed on the understanding that the company would maintain production sufficient for requirements.

National Refining company reported a net loss of $1,089,849 in 1943, compared with a profit of $983,266 in 1942. The 1943 result was shown after setting aside $1,700,000 to cover future losses on disposal of properties and equipment.

Sold Below Book Value.

The company's annual report disclosed that since Dec. 31 properties having an approximate net book value of 4.4 million dollars had been sold at about $600,000 below book values. These included the Coffeyville, Kas., refinery, the pipe line system serving that refinery, certain crude oil properties, and several service stations and bulk plants. An investment in the capital stock of another corporation sold at $231,458 above book value as of Dec. 31.

Hercules Motors corporation, under a V loan agreement for 12 million dollars expiring Nov. 30, 1945, had borrowed 8.4 million dollars up to Jan. 31, the company's annual report disclosed. Profit in 1943 increased to $1,059,474 from $752,092 in 1942.

NEW 29 MILLION SENIOR ISSUE IS FILED BY ALLIS

Milwaukee, Wis., March 17 [Special]. — Walter Hawkinson, secretary-treasurer of Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company, said today the company has filed a registration statement with the securities and exchange commission for issuance of $29,601,500 of par value cumulative convertible preferred stock.

The stock will be offered to common shareholders at the rate of one share of preferred stock for each six shares of common. Subscription warrants will be issued to the common stock holders of record March 31 and will expire April 12.

Hawkinson said the proceeds will be used to retire the remaining 15 million dollars principal amount of its 15 year 4 per cent convertible sinking fund debentures due 1952, and the balance will be used to augment working capital and aid the company to carry additional inventories and accounts receivable for post-war business.

New Municipal Financing Will Increase Next Week

New York, March 17 (AP).—New state and municipal financing next week will total $9,013,000 compared with $4,299,711 this week.

SCHENLEY DISTILLERS.

Please provide a report on the outlook for Schenley Distillers corporation. L. S.

Answer: Schenley is one of the largest distillers and distributors of liquors. The company has diversified its production thru acquisition of a number of wineries in recent years, and in December, 1943, purchased all outstanding stock of the Blatz Brewing company.

The acquisition of a number of smaller whisky distilleries and purchases of bulk whisky in the last few years has placed Schenley in a comparatively favorable position as holder of the largest inventories in the industry. It is estimated that the company's holdings are sufficient for about four and a half years at present withdrawal rates, against an average of three years for the industry.

Currently the plants are producing industrial alcohol for war use. Schenley has also begun operation of a new commercial penicillin plant

Net earnings for 1943, subject to renegotiation, totaled $9,235,750 after a 1 million dollar provision for contingencies. The 1943 net was a new record high, and equaled $6.65 a share on the common stock.

TREND TO MORE MACHINERY ON FARMS IS TOLD

Research Goes On, Says McCormick.

(This is the last of a series of articles on a Tribune survey of the post-war outlook.)

BY HAL FOUST.

"And He shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people," wrote the prophet Isaiah, "and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks."

Fowler McCormick.

Today, and until many people have been rebuked, America's farm equipment industry is turning out swords and spears as well as plowshares and pruning hooks. When judgment among nations has reduced requirements for tools of war, the industry is prepared to make more and better implements of peace than ever before.

Research Staffs Busy.

Research departments have been perfecting equipment for more efficient farming after the war. The output of agricultural implements, under war production board curtailment orders, will be stepped up in 1944 to 80 per cent of the 1940 gross, as compared with 20 per cent in 1943, but the introduction of most of the improvements will await adequate labor and material supplies.

"The evolution toward mechanization, interrupted by war time restraints on manufacture, will continue after the war," said Fowler McCormick, president of the International Harvester company. "The trend in tractors will be toward smaller and more economical units.

"More implements will be mountable on the tractor, rather than towed. This saves the cost of a pair of wheels and reduces the cost of the frame and of attaching hookups.

Build for Family Size Farm.

"The industry is designing implements for the family size farm, and it must be borne in mind that families are getting smaller. A decade ago, minimum satisfactory equipment for a small farm cost about $2,500. After the war we hope to be able to equip a small farm for about $1,000, if there is not too much reduction in the value of a dollar."

McCormick, slender and handsome at 45, became president in May, 1941, of the company founded by his grandfather, Cyrus Hall McCormick, inventor of the reaper. In preparing himself for the obligations inherited with his wealth, he started work with the company in 1925 and served in accounting, engineering, and sales departments.

"I can't gaze into a crystal and tell what conditions will be like in America after the war," he said. "But I agree with the philosophy—and we are practicing it—that we must prepare for and fight for a higher standard of living, a stronger national economy, strong enough to bear the burdens imposed by the war.

Must Produce More.

"To create wealth adequate to sustain the citizenry while meeting debt obligations, agriculture as well as industry must produce more, and with more efficiency, than before the war. In farming, this means produce more food per acre and per man-hour of labor. In my industry, it means cheaper and better equipment. We're prepared to cope with the problem."

McCormick had to be persuaded by his interviewer to discuss the broader aspects of the post-war outlook.

"In my own business," he said, "there's nothing revolutionary ready for the post-war market, with the single exception of the mechanical cotton picker, an elaborate machine economical for operation on large plantations only. Other revolutionary equipment still is in the development stage.

War Improvements "Evolutionary."

"As for the rest of the war time improvements, the betterments are evolutionary, refinements and advancements of design trends started before the war. Details cannot be divulged at this time.

"The farm equipment industry, which did a peak business of 746 million dollars in 1941, will have an active replacement market as soon as peace releases all restraints on the output. Equipment has worn out during the years of restricted manufacture. The farmers have saved money during the war and will be able to buy.

"Conversion to capacity peace time output will be easy for us. About a third of our present production is essential civilian goods and two-thirds war orders. Unlike the motor car industry, we won't be starting up from scratch.

Prosperity Creates Market.

"There's a market for the things produced with our equipment. With the war time prosperity of the formerly low income group, the present volume of food consumption demonstrates that America wants and can use more and better food if the ability to buy is maintained. Any increase in the general standard of living expands the farm market.

"The improvements in farm equipment will make the life more attractive as well as more efficient. And improvements in household equipment will make the life more attractive to wives."

50 Million Subsidy Proposed in Lieu of Oil Price Boost

Washington, D. C., March 17 (AP).—Recommendations for a 50 million dollar annual subsidy to stimulate production of crude oil have been drawn by the office of price administration and will be submitted in the next few days to Stabilization Director Vinson.

The plan as described by an OPA spokesman calls for premium payments of about 35 cents a barrel above present ceilings to operators of low production wells. Actually, the subsidy would be paid to refiners to be passed on to the producers.

General Increase Rejected.

The subsidy plan is an alternative to a general 35 cent increase in the price of crude oil for which oil men, some members of congress, and Interior Secretary Ickes carried on a long fight, but which Vinson flatly rejected.

The subsidy plan would benefit only so-called stripper and secondary recovery wells with an output of five to 10 barrels a day. OPA estimates that more than 50 per cent of the nation's 404,000 wells are in this category. However, they produce only 10 to 15 per cent of the country's daily average of more than 4 million barrels.

The purpose of the proposed subsidy is twofold:

1. Provide an incentive for producers to keep these low output wells in operation and return abandoned wells to production.
2. Prevent any increase in retail prices of gasoline and other petroleum products.

Vinson Requested Plan.

The plan goes to Vinson in response to his request that some means be devised to stimulate production in low-yield fields.

The request was directed last October to the petroleum administration for war following rejection by Vinson of Ickes' petition for a general hike in crude oil ceilings, but that agency advised it could find no solution and in January Vinson assigned the job to OPA.

More Whisky Sought to End Black Market

Washington, D. C., March 17 (AP).—High government officials are seeking a way to replenish dwindling liquor stocks in order to smash black market sales of whisky. This became known today after distillery and government officials held a closed conference with Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and Sen. McCarran [D., Nev.], chairman of a senate subcommittee investigating the liquor industry. It was explained their purpose is to prevent a possible return of prohibition, which Morgenthau said might result from the black market for liquor.

What form the liquor increase should take has not been determined, but at least six proposals are being studied. One would authorize a holiday in the ban on distilling to permit diversion of industrial alcohol production to liquor making. Often suggested by the industry, this plan has been opposed by the war production board and some other government agencies which believed it would hinder the synthetic rubber program.

WPB Retreat Unlikely.

Indications are that WPB will not retreat from its stand unless proof is offered that current production levels can be maintained, possibly thru development of a synthetic alcohol.

Distillers insist the liquor black market could be controled by release of 25 million gallons of neutral spirits for blending with present whisky stocks. That would mean a 30 day holiday, it is estimated.

Morgenthau told today's conferees a five month campaign by treasury enforcement officers has "broken" the liquor black market at distiller and wholesaler levels.

Pledges Curb on Retailers.

In a statement the treasury chief said, "We are going to find a solution" to illicit operations among retailers. Lack of federal jurisdiction over retailers was alluded to at today's conference and suggestions were made for curbing retail black markets.

"The treasury has a 900 million dollar tax stake in the liquor industry," Morgenthau said, "and for that reason, if or no other, the senator [McCarran] and I are going to stay with this problem until a solution has been found.

"I had a chance to see what a thing like prohibition does to the country, and as a citizen and as a government official, I am going to do everything that I can to keep it from happening again."

PRICES OF HOGS ADVANCE AGAIN AS DEMAND DIPS

Prices for hogs in the stock yards yesterday again advanced toward the $14.75 a hundred pounds ceiling, but trading slowed as buyers offered the greatest resistance since top grades were lifted from the $13.75 floor price last month. The average moved up 5 cents to $14.30, the highest since Nov. 1.

Supplies of other meat animals were small and prices changed little. One load of choice 1,281 pound steers sold at the $17.00 top price to equal the highest price paid in eight months. Most steers and yearlings sold at $13.50 to $16.00. Steady prices were paid for heifers, beef cows, canners, cutters, calves, and bulls.

The top lamb price dipped 5 cents, to $16.35, but prices for most other classes of sheep and lambs were steady.

RAILS AND OILS CLIMB IN MIXED STOCK MARKET

Trade Again Tops Million Mark.

New York, March 17 (AP).—The stock market was uneven today when strength in rails and a revival in oils offset profit taking in other departments.

Altho volume tapered when the market became irregular, dealings exceeded the million share figure for the 11th session this year. Carriers buoyed by the good transportation outlook despite rising wages and taxes, reached their top average since 1937. Helping rails were reports that the land grant law may be repealed. This would eliminate freight rate cuts on government shipments and add 100 million dollars a year to the roads' revenues.

Oils Set High for Year.

Oils registered a peak for the year or longer. Price boosts for crude in some districts and news the office of price administration will recommend subsidies for operators of low output wells aided the long dormant petroleum shares. Steels slipped as the demand of the army for man power threatened a labor shortage in that industry.

New highs were attained by Santa Fe, Nickel Plate common and preferred, Southern Pacific, Standard Oil [N. J.], M-K-T common and preferred, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Great Northern, Atlantic Coast Line, Gulf Mobile and Ohio, Houston Oil, Barnsdall Oil, Sinclair Oil, Lion Oil, Pure Oil, and Ohio Oil.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was unchanged at 53.2. Transfers totaled 1,352,625 shares compared with 1,593,665 yesterday.

BOND MARKET ADVANCES

New York, March 17 (AP).—In the week's most active market bonds made broad advances today with low priced rails in principal demand. The Associated Press average of 20 rails gained 0.2 at 85.9. The utility composite advanced 0.1, but the industrial mean was unchanged. Transactions were $12,824,900 against $11,300,000 yesterday.

Rails up a point or more at the close included Alton 3s, North Western refunding 5s, International Great Northern first 6s, Soo Line 5s, M-K-T adjustment 5s and Union Pacific 3½s.

CHICAGO LIST UNEVEN.

Prices were uneven on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, with gains slightly exceeding losses. Large advances were registered by special issues. Peter Fox Brewing at 53 was up 7 points to a new peak.

Among other shares selling at new 1943-'44 highs were North West Utilities $7 preferred and prior lien stocks, up 4½ and 4 points.
